ACID TEST COMING FOR ROOSEVELT THIS WEEK

Developments in Court and Senate Leadership Contests to Determine His Control Over Democratic Party.

PRESIDENT FIGHTING WITH BACK TO WALL

To Go Through With Judiciary Bill Means Win or Lose—On Other Hand, Another Compromise Spells Defeat.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — An ominous hush, the calm before the storm, hung over political Washington today as rank and file Senators and Representatives awaited the results of conferences over the week-end on the President's court plan in particular and the fate of the New Deal program in general.

With his prestige at stake, Mr. Roosevelt is fighting with his back to the wall and the developments this week will determine whether he is to continue control of the Democratic party or whether a well-disciplined, militant group of Senate Democrats can elect their own candidate for Senate Majority Leader, defeat his court plan, and other Rooseveltian proposals.

The 38 Senators who went to Little Rock for Senator Robinson's burial will return tonight. With them will be Vice-President Garner, refreshed by a month's vacation at his home in Texas. Although the Senators are on a funeral train, administration and anti-court plan leaders have been in continuous conferences on the Senate leadership and the Supreme Court proposal. The presidential emissaries are Postmaster-General Farley, Charles West, Undersecretary of the Interior and White House lobbyist, and Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney-General, detailed to help the administration on the court fight.

Garner's Task.

Garner has the job of trying to smooth ruffled tempers and reach some sort of compromise to attain the "objectors" of the President's plan.

Just before his death, Senator Robinson charged that the opposition, lacking the votes to defeat the President's bill, would try to kill it by a filibuster. With administration lines broken, the Roosevelt forces themselves may have to resort to this parliamentary trick to get time to reassemble.

After the Senate meets tomorrow, with Senator Copeland of New York on the floor speaking for the opposition, developments will be fast and fateful.

In the afternoon President Roosevelt will have an opportunity to appeal to Congress and the country at his semi-weekly press conference. In view of his desperate letter to "Acting Majority Leader" Barkley of Kentucky that the "objectives" of his judiciary reform plan should be enacted "at this session," he may use the press conference as a forum in which to elaborate his demand.

Caucus Wednesday.

The Democratic caucus to select a majority leader will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday. On the outcome of this contest between Senator Barkley, the White House candidate, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the powerful Finance Committee, will depend the strategy of the anti-court plan senators. Harrison is publicly committed to the President's court scheme but has done nothing to forward it while Barkley is one of the most active and effective fighters on Roosevelt's side.

The roll-call in the caucus, which will meet in executive session, will give an inconclusive indication of how the Senate Democrats are divided on the court plan and it may even force the six non-committal Senators to take positions. Both sides will study the division, looking for recruits.

With the caucus out of the way, the opposition can take one of three courses: (1) Go ahead with the debate in the hope that the pro-Roosevelt speakers will alienate the lukewarm supporters of the court plan; (2) move to recommit the bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which would greatly damage the presidential prestige, in view of the Barkley letter, or (3) sponsor a mo-

Fleeing Strikers Shot in Back And From Rear, Doctor Testifies At Chicago's 'Massacre' Inquest

Surgeon Who Attended Victims of Police Bullets Heckled by State's Lawyer in Wrangle Over Race.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CRIMINAL COURT, CHICAGO, July 19.—Expert medical testimony was soon obscured by a storm of personalities and appeals to racial prejudice today as the Cook County coroner's jury resumed its inquest into the deaths of 10 persons by police bullets and clubs outside the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel Corporation on last Memorial Sunday.

Dr. Lawrence Jacques, engaged by the C I O Steel Workers' Organizing Committee to care for injured strikers, was the first witness when the hearing finally got under way, more than half an hour late, before an audience hand-picked by policemen who even cross-examined reporters before admitting them to the room.

Question Starts Uproar.

From inquiries as to the position of the wounds of the victims, the questions of Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen soon turned to the medical competence of Dr. Jacques, and these had not gone very far before Assistant State's Attorney Malachi Coghlan demanded to know whether the witness had not changed his name.

Dr. Jacques had just been asked by Coroner Frank Walsh whether, in his opinion, Sam Popovich, the striker, whose desperate effort to run the police gantlet is so graphically recorded in the Paramount news reel, that still is suppressed in Chicago and not shown in St. Louis, had been shot from behind, when Coghlan jumped out of his chair. Without waiting for the doctor's answer, the Assistant Prosecutor pointed a finger at him and shouted:

"Is your real family name 'Jacques' or is it a name that you have taken?"

C I O lawyers shouted objections, but above the voices of half a dozen of them came Jacques' indignant reply:

"My name has been Jacques ever since I was born in January of 1899."

The A. M. A., the G. O. P., Etc.

Coghlan then wanted to know whether he was a member of the American Medical Association.

"I am one of 2000 Chicago doctors who do not belong to that organization."

"Did you resign from it?" asked Coghlan, "or"——

"I never belonged to it!"

"What is the name of that organization you are connected with?"

"The Civic Medical Association," replied the witness.

"It goes in for advertising, doesn't it?"

"It does not!"

"But you receive your practice from its insurance or hospital plan, don't you?"

"Yes," answered Dr. Jacques, "a small percentage of it, and I'm very proud of the fact. I think I am doing a fine thing. The reason I am not in the A. M. A. is the same reason you are not a member of the Republican party. I don't like it. There are two schools of thought among the doctors"——

"Do you want to bet on that?" interrupted the prosecutor.

The Doctor Strikes Back.

An attempt was made to get back to the business of the inquest, but Coghlan demanded:

"Why do we listen to all this rambling hearsay?"

Dr. Jacques flared up. "It is you who are doing the rambling," cried the lithe, dark, little man at the burly prosecutor, "when you ask questions about my name. I can recognize the implications of those questions, and if that sort of thing is going to be permitted at a Coroner's inquest, I shall be very careful of my legal rights."

"Well," Coghlan persisted, "wasn't your name Jacobson at one time?"

"It never was."

The Irish and the Jews.

"Well, I don't see why you feel so hurt about the question."

"Because its purpose is to find out if I am a Jew."

"Yes," interjected David Bentall, one of the lawyers representing the CIO Steel Workers' Union, "just to add an anti-Semitic touch."

"Well," demanded Coghlan, "are you Jewish?"

"That's Fascism!" shouted Benjamin Meyers, another lawyer for the steel workers.

"Suppose I asked you whether you were Irish," countered the doctor.

"The law has the right to make full inquiry," pontificated the prosecutor. "That's what makes America American. I am proud to say that Jews elected me president of my class in the law school of De Paul University."

"They certainly did not know what they were doing," snapped Meyers.

"Oh, you're only a professional heckler," retorted Coghlan.

ASSASSIN BLOWN UP BY OWN BOMB AT VILLA NEAR WARSAW

Killed in Attempt to Murder Col. Koc, Polish Fascist Leader.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, July 19.—A man bent on assassinating Col. Adam Koc, leader of the Polish Nationalist movement, was killed last night when his bomb exploded prematurely.

The explosion occurred shortly before midnight in the garden of Col. Koc's villa in the little village of Swidry, not far from Warsaw. The assassin's identity could not be determined because the force of the explosion completely destroyed his body. The Minister of the Interior took over an investigation.

Col. Koc, former president of the National Bank of Poland, started organization of his Nationalist movement last February along Fascist lines. A bomb exploded outside his headquarters last May 1 during Polish May day demonstrations.

As a precaution against disturbances newspapers were forbidden to publish anything concerning last night's attack except the official communique. The semi-official journal, Kurjer Poranny, observed, however, that the assassin "obviously" belonged to circles alarmed by the growing strength of the Nationalist movement.

FALL RIVER LINE SUSPENDS ON FAILURE TO END STRIKE

Company Operated Famous New England-New York Steamers for 90 Years.

By the Associated Press.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 19.—John F. Clark, general agent of the New England Steamship Co., announced yesterday the suspension of the Fall River line after 90 years of service between this port and New York City.

A strike of 250 crew members had tied up the great side-wheel steamers, the 29-year-old Commonwealth, docked here, and its 43-year-old sister ship, Priscilla, in New York. Announcement of the suspension followed failure of efforts to settle the strike.

From the time the first ship of the line, the Bay State, met the train from Bos[illegible] in May, 1847, the Fall River steamboats spelled romance to travelers in this section. A popular song of a generation ago crystallized the sentimental fondness for the line of thousands, including newlyweds, who had made the 228-mile overnight passage between Fall River and New York.

LEHMAN BREAKS WITH ROOSEVELT ON COURT ISSUE

New York Governor, Friend and 'Good Right Arm,' Declares Against President's Scheme.

WRITES TO WAGNER, URGING OPPOSITION

Thinks 'Orderly and Deliberate Processes' Should Not Be Sacrificed for Immediate Situation.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, formerly one of President Roosevelt's most valuable political aids, asked United States Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem.), New York, today to oppose President Roosevelt's bill to remake the Supreme Court. Wagner is one of the 43 Senators who favor the bill.

Lehman, Democratic successor to President Roosevelt as New York's Governor, told Wagner, in a letter, that "the President is already familiar with my views with regard to the bill."

The Governor's letter, made public by the executive offices in his absence on vacation, pointed out that he has supported most of the President's social program both when Roosevelt was Governor of New York and since he became President.

Text of the Letter.

His letter follows:

"I am writing you as a citizen of the State of New York which you represent in the United States Senate to voice my opposition to the court bill and to express the hope that you will vote against it.

"The President is already familiar with my views with regard to the bill. Several months ago I wrote to him that I believe its enactment would not be in the best interests of the country. In the months that have passed since then my convictions have become strengthened.

"Like many others I have frequently felt keen disappointment that important legislative measures have been declared unconstitutional by a slim and unconvincing margin in the Supreme Court. And yet I believe that the orderly and deliberate processes of Government should not be sacrificed merely to meet an immediate situation.

"Loss of Confidence."

"From the broad standpoint of the public interest, whatever immediate gain might be achieved through the proposed change in the court would, in my opinion, be far more than offset by a loss of confidence in the independence of the courts and in governmental procedure.

"I have wholeheartedly supported most of the President's social program both while he was Governor of New York and since he became President of the United States.

"His program, taken as a whole, has in my opinion represented the greatest step forward in social reform that any nation has undertaken for many years. I look forward to the opportunity of continuing to support his courageous leadership in matters that are in the interest of the social well being of our people.

"This bill, however, I believe to be contrary to their interests. Its enactment would create a greatly dangerous precedent which could be availed of by future less well-intentioned administrations for the purpose of oppression or for the curtailment of the constitutional rights of our citizens."

Within an hour after the announcement of Lehman's letter, Walter T. Brown, the Governor's secretary, said many "congratulatory" messages were delivered by telegraph to the executive's office.

Roosevelt and Lehman.

President Roosevelt, when Governor, often affectionately referred to Lehman, who was his Lieutenant-Governor for two terms, as "my good right arm." At the end of their four years together at Albany, when Roosevelt was looking toward Washington, he supported Lehman as his successor. Roosevelt was credited with influencing Lehman to accept a third term as Governor, which he began last Jan. 1, after he had announced his intention to retire.

It was the first time that the Governor has expressed opposition to Roosevelt administration policies since he became New York Governor in 1933.

Lehman, who gave up a lucrative banking job to enter public life in 1928, has been responsible for enactment of many social and economic reforms since becoming Governor.

Many measures have been enacted to alleviate the distress of the

EXPRESS HIGHWAY OPEN TO TRAFFIC TO VANDEVENTER

One-Mile Stretch From Kingshighway Completed Except for Viaduct at Eastern End.

TEMPORARY STREET LIGHTS BEING USED

Depressed Roadway Carries $3,000,000 Thoroughfare Through Section of Narrow Streets.

The eastern section of the Express Highway, from Kingshighway boulevard to Vandeventer avenue, was opened to traffic this morning.

With the opening of this one-mile stretch the highway, which cost about $3,000,000, is virtually completed. All that now remains to be done is the building of a viaduct over Vandeventer avenue at the east end of the highway, to connect with Chouteau avenue. This work, already begun, is expected to be finished by the end of the year.

The section opened today eliminates two important crossings at Kingshighway boulevard and Sarah street and provides an uninterrupted five-lane roadway through a section of the city which until now had narrow and crowded streets.

Spur at Vandeventer.

Many eastbound motorists failed to take the new section of road this morning, apparently not certain whether it was open all the way. Those who drove on the new stretch entered Vandeventer avenue at the east end of the highway by means of a spur. A new automatic signal regulates traffic at the intersection of the spur and Vandeventer avenue.

The section opened today is a depressed roadway, going under Kingshighway boulevard and all of the subsequent north-and-south cross streets. Much of it is bounded by a high concrete wall, with large black and white markings to warn motorists at night.

Sodium vapor lights, such as are used on the previously opened section of the highway in Forest Park, will be installed on the new stretch in the fall. Temporary street lamps are in use at present.

Three Years of Work.

It took three years to build the Express Highway, which is slightly more than three miles long. Conceived by W. W. Horner, consulting engineer, it was constructed by the State Highway Department, largely with Federal funds. The city donated the right of way in Forest Park and paid about $800,000 for condemnation of the right of way along Gratiot avenue from Kingshighway to the ultimate eastern terminus on the Chouteau avenue viaduct.

The official speed limit on the highway still is 30 miles an hour, as on all other city streets. The Board of Aldermen recently passed a bill raising the limit to 45 miles an hour, but the bill was later returned to an aldermanic committee for reconsideration.

The brotherhood, one of the principal targets in recent immorality trials, will be re-organized as a society of priests and brothers in honor of the Holy Cross, the newspaper said.

LEFTISTS' DRIVE RUNS INTO HEAVY COUNTER-ATTACK

160 PLANES STRIVE FOR AIR SUPREMACY

Government Craft Said to Be Gaining Advantage—Villages Around Brunete Leveled by Bombs Dropped by Flyers.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, July 19.—The heaviest battle of the Spanish civil war thus far was in progress west of Madrid today as insurgents began a strong offensive in an effort to drive advancing Government troops back to the capital.

Insurgent and Government planes and artillery sent bombs and shells into opposing lines near Brunete, newly-won Government position 12 miles from Madrid.

In the air an estimated 160 planes fought for supremacy, with Government forces gradually gaining a slight advantage.

The insurgent air force renewed a bombardment of Government communication routes. A fight between big guns—ranging in size from three to 10 inches—was heard in the capital.

Other Fighting Close to City.

Meanwhile Government forces kept attacking insurgent positions closer to Madrid.

Government guns shelled a military camp near Upper Carabanchel, outside the southern limits of the city. Government aircraft followed up with a heavy bombardment of the camp, where insurgents have concentrated a reserve contingent in former airforce barracks.

The Cuatro Vientos Airfield south of Madrid also came under heavy Government fire.

The fighting caused heavy losses to both sides, but Government officers declared insurgents suffered the heavier casualties through exposing their forces in the counter-attack.

Recapture of Brunete was regarded as vital for insurgent forces because Government artillery is shelling insurgent positions near Madrid from both the front and rear.

Insurgent planes again bombed Government airfields near Madrid but were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

Government Comment.

A Government official said the fighting unquestionably was the heaviest of the war.

"The amount of air and artillery activity is absolutely without precedent," he said.

"Hour after hour both sides are pounding each other. Slowly it is becoming clear that the Government is gaining mastery in the air.

"The Fiats (Italian planes) used by the rebels have shown themselves vulnerable while the Government's new Moscas are flying rings around them.

"Villages all around the Brunete salient, both those held by the Government and by the rebels, were absolutely flattened by the air bombardment."

The observer said that by penetrating the insurgent ring around Madrid the Government troops had been able to strike at important communication lines.

"The insurgent counter-attack has developed more intensely daily during the last four days," he said. "It is clear they realize they must pinch off the Brunete salient or find themselves in peril on the northern edge of their position outside Madrid."

American and Canadian volunteers who were in reserve near the front lines have seen heavy service with the Government troops the last two days.

Insurgent artillery shelled the Government positions yesterday for two hours before infantry swept forward behind tanks in an attempt to storm Government trenches. Government fighting planes went into the battle when insurgent air-

DROPS DEATH DEMAND IN SCOTTSBORO TRIAL

Prosecution Waives Capital Penalty in Case of Andy Wright.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ala., July 19. — The State waived capital punishment today in the case of Andy Wright, one of nine Scottsboro defendants, and the new series of trials was resumed after a conference between attorneys at which the agreement was reached.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas S. Lawson said the agreement covered the Wright case only and did not affect charges against other defendants.

All the Negroes are accused of a mass attack on Victoria Price and Ruby Bates aboard a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, defense counsel, announced he would appeal he Clarence Norris verdict to the United States Supreme Court, which twice has reversed death sentences in the cases. He also said he would appeal the sentence of 75 years given Heywood Patterson in January, 1936, in the assault case.

Patterson and Norris were convicted of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price. They are the only defendants who have been before an Alabama jury since the first trials at Scottsboro in 1931. Mrs. Price is expected to testify also against Wright.

Officials said recruits were taken by bus to Paris, where a Communist committee arranged transportation to Spain.

FRANCO SAYS HE MAY RESTORE MONARCHY

Prince Juan, Instead of Alfonso, Put in Line for Spanish Throne.

By the Associated Press.

SALAMANCA, Spain, July 19. — Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco gave assurances today to his royalist followers that the Spanish monarchy eventually might be restored.

In an interview in the royalist newspaper ABC of Seville, Franco made fewer conditions about a restoration than in his proclamation last spring uniting all the insurgent parties.

He showed increasing favor toward 24-year-old Prince Juan de Bourbon, third son of former King Alfonso, as successor to the throne which the father was forced to leave in 1931.

Franco's Statement.

Franco indicated there was no hope, however, for a return of Alfonso himself when he said:

"If the moment for a restoration arrives the new monarchy ought to be very different from the one that fell, different in theory, in practice and—even though it is painful, we must face the facts—even as to the person of the monarch himself.

"He (the new monarch) would be a new link between the new order and the traditional glories of Spain.

"I have the highest opinion of the talents, discretion and understanding of Don Juan, who sought in the first days (of the civil war) to go to the front. I had to beg him to leave Spain.

"He asked for a post in command of a warship as his rank and training warranted, but I could not grant his request. My responsibility was very great and I had a duty not to put in danger a life that some day may be very precious.

"I must bear in mind furthermore that there are two divisions of Spaniards in this war, and if, sometime a king becomes the head of state he must come in the role of peacemaker and not be listed in the ranks of the conquerors."

Royalists Jubilant.

The Royalists, a considerable strength in the insurgent ranks, were jubilant. They said the declaration would unify feeling among important insurgent leaders that Don Juan is the man to reunite Spain and eliminate strife. They regarded the interview as Franco's most definite pledge for

DESCRIBES FORD'S "DIRTY JOBS" AT N L R B HEARING

Union Man Says He Was Fired After Rejecting Two Transfers to Unpleasant Tasks.

RULING PROMISED IN BEATING CASES

Detroit Judge to Announce Tomorrow Whether He Will Hold Eight Employes for Trial.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—Joseph Sazynski, a former Ford Motor Co. employe, testified at a National Labor Relations Board hearing today that he had twice refused transfers to other departments within the plant before he was discharged.

Sazynski was one of the men the complaint against the Ford company charged were dismissed for union activity. He testified he was employed at the Ford plant from last December until June 9, and that he joined the United Automobile Workers' Union last Feb. 20.

He testified he declined a job in the wheel department because the machine for tightening bolts was too heavy. He said that was during the first few weeks of his employment and that he was given lighter work. Just before his dismissal, he said, he was asked to take a job in the cylinder head department and objected because "it was a dirty job and there was too much dust."

Called Firing Pretext.

N L R B attorneys contended Sazynski was assigned to a "dirty job," so there would be a pretext for his discharge. Ford attorneys however, claimed his story of having twice refused tasks he did not like was sufficient explanation for his discharge.

While the Labor Board hearing entered its third week, William Merriweather, one of a group of U A W men beaten May 26 at the Ford gates, identified several of the eight defendants being examined in Common Pleas Court on assault charges growing out of that clash.

He named Oscar Jones and Wilfred Comment as men he saw beating Robert Sentman, a union official, and said that after they had left Sentman they attacked him.

Merriweather said Jones struck him in the stomach and that he was kicked until he was unconscious. He told the court he suffered two broken vertebrae above the base of the spine and that he still is wearing a plaster cast.

Decision Due Tomorrow.

After examination of the eight was completed, Judge Ralph W. Liddy said he would announce tomorrow morning whether the defendants are to be held for trial or be dismissed as moved by Ford Motor Co. attorneys.

The final witness at the examination was Walter P. Reuther, president of the West Side local of the U A W A, who testified he was hit on the back of the head and knocked down by a group of men he identified as Ford service department men, as he sought to participate in the distribution of union literature at the Ford gates.

Joseph Nierotko, discharged last winter after working at the Ford plant since 1925, testified at the Labor Board hearing that a man in the employment office, from whom he sought the reason for his dismissal, showed him a United Automobile Workers' letterhead and asked him if he received such a letter.

He said Al Miller, employment manager, asked him why he wanted to "fight against Ford" after working there so long.

Nierotko testified he replied that "I don't want to fight against Ford personally, but I do want to fight against Ford's rotten conditions."

FRANCO GIVES GERMANY SAME TRADE RIGHTS THAT ITALY GOT

By Terms of Treaty, Iron Ore Will Be Shipped Again From Basque Mines.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 19.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler obtained trade equality with Premier Mussolini in insurgent Spain today through a treaty signed with Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

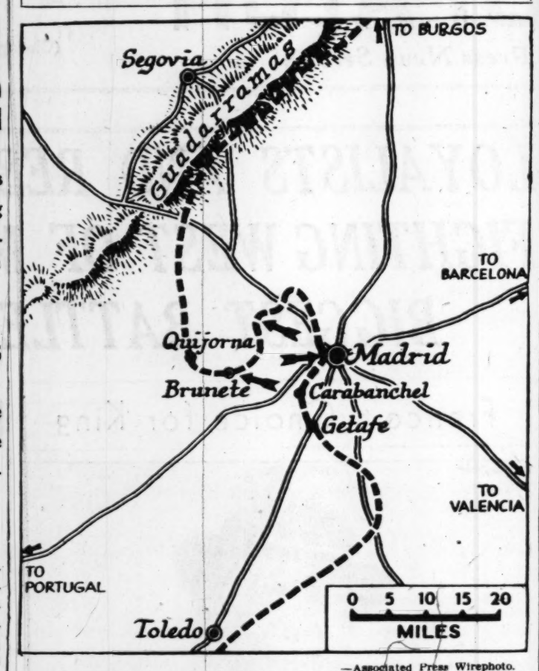

Through a most-favored-nation clause effective Aug. 1, 1937, every trade advantage which Franco accords Italy, in recompense for assistance given the insurgents or otherwise, will be shared by Germany.

Nazi officials expressed gratification over the new pact. Reports had been circulated that Mussolini had obtained more generous concessions than Germany.

By terms of the treaty, iron ore from Basque mines captured by the insurgents will flow again toward Germany. The Basques had cut off Germany's much-needed supply of ore when the Nazis sided with Franco in the Spanish civil war.

Madrid Government spokesmen, during the Basque fighting, alleged that Germany gave strong aid to Franco in order to regain access to these ores.

craft bombed the Government trenches.

A defense ministry communique declared 28 insurgent planes were shot down while the Government counted only one missing plane.

(Insurgent reports said, however, that only one insurgent craft was lost in the engagement and that 26 Government planes were shot down by insurgent airmen. The insurgent dispatches said Francisco Franco's forces gained ground north of Quijorna, forcing the Government to abandon a trench line, an anti-aircraft battery, four tanks and 12 machine guns.)

The insurgent counter-attack stretched from Brunete to Villanueva del Pardillo.

Government sources estimated 150,000 insurgents were massed in the Sierra section and north of the Guadalajara front. A Government spokesman declared he had reliable information 20,000 insurgents were concentrated at Agamella, 10,000 at Boadilla del Monte and 8000 at Sevilla la Nueva.

The renewed insurgent air activity included a raid on the temporary Spanish capital at Valencia. Insurgent airmen dropped several bombs. The Government announced the planes were driven off by anti-aircraft batteries and Government planes before any damage was done.

Insurgents Say They Advance Past Brunete on Two Sides.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 19.—Insurgent advices declared today that Government forces have been pressed back from Brunete, on the front west of Madrid.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops, dispatches said, hurled their whole strength against the Government's advance lines and advanced past Brunete on two sides without occupying the town.

Government reports declared the defense lines were holding all major positions against the counter-offensive.

Brunete, 12 miles from Madrid, and Quijorna, about five miles Northwest of Brunete, were said to be aflame. Both towns were on the tip of the Government's finger-like salient west of the capital.

FRANCO'S IDEAS ON RESTORATION OF MONARCHY

a monarchy possible under existing conditions.

Franco also praised many others of Spain's aristocracy who have supported the insurgent cause.

Franco implied again that he would not consider the withdrawal of foreign fighters from his armies. He added that the insurgent administration's relations with the Vatican, "while not exactly official, are cordial as befits a nation as deeply Catholic as ours."

Why He Took Foreigners.

The Generalissimo said that under his rule there will be "absolute suppression" of the "class struggle" provoked by republican officials. Strikes and lockouts will be eliminated and a labor arbitration tribunal will be maintained.

"We will dignify work and establish respect for production," he said.

The insurgents, their leader said, declined to accept as volunteers 6000 Irish and many thousand Italians at the beginning of the war. But, he went on, when the Government brought 30,000 international volunteers to the Madrid front and used Soviet generals "there was no reason whtasoever we should not accept volunteers."

Speaking of the Spanish aristocrats, Franco said:

"Many died with their face toward the enemy, showing they were worthy descendants of ancestors woh gained glory for Spain on the fields of Flanders and in the virgin lands of America. The luxury loving sons of aristocracy now have faces tanned by battlefield winds and hands rough from carrying rifles."

PRESIDENT AZANA CHARGES THREE-POWER INVASION HAS PROLONGED WAR

By the Associated Press.

VALENCIA, July 19.

PRESIDENT MANUEL AZANA marked the beginning of the second year of civil war with a speech to Cabinet members, military leaders and others protesting against "the invasion of our country by foreign Powers."

"Without the aid of foreign Powers and with only the men and resources of its first day, the rebellion would have ended some weeks after it started," he declared, "but it became a veritable invasion by Germany, Italy and Portugal."

He said European nations had been deaf to Spanish Government appeals and that the League of Nations had given no help to the Government in attempting to crush the insurgents.

"I don't know what ideology our opponents have," Azana said, "but, for our part, we are fighting to be free and Spanish."

unemployed, bank depositors, real estate investors, home owners and farmers—most of them co-ordinating State efforts with plans initiated by the Federal Government under Roosevelt.

Only this year Lehman succeeded in having the politically divided Legislature complete approval of a social security program, patterned after the Federal program.

In his inaugural address last January the Governor said: "I believe it to be sound for New York to co-operate wholeheartedly with the program instituted by the Federal Government. That has been my policy in the past and I intend to pursue it in the future."

Lehman added: "I am very glad that the political party in power in Washington and in Albany is pledged to continue the march of progress."

"Frank and Al" Incident.

It was Lehman who brought former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Roosevelt together in late 1932, just after the latter was nominated as Democratic presidential candidate, and restored them to their former status as "Frank and Al," which had been strained at the national convention a few months before.

Roosevelt and Smith threw their support behind Lehman to overcome Tammany Hall's opposition to Lehman's nomination for Governor.

Lehman was the first Lieutenant-Governor in nearly 30 years to succeed to the governorship in a regular election.

White House Comment on Lehman Letter is Refused.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—White House sources refused comment today on Gov. Lehman's letter to Senator Wagner. Comment likewise was lacking from Wagner, at whose office it was said the Senator had not yet received the Governor's letter. He was on his way to Washington, having visited a New Jersey resort over the weekend.

Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, who is against the Court legislation, said "I'm not surprised" when he was informed of Lehman's expression of views.

'And I'm glad to hear it," he told reporters. "Gov. Lehman is a patriot and a good American. He would be against anything that would be a blot on our national life."

THREE-YEAR PLAN TO ERASE FRENCH TREASURY DEFICIT

Premier Chautemps Seeks Increased Production to Circulate Money, Bring in More Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 19. — Premier Camille Chautemps is developing a three-year plan he hopes will pull France out of her economic difficulties.

Chautemps, who formed France's second People's Front Government June 22, succeeding Socialist Leon Blum, has said he will appeal to France to increase production while he and Finance Minister Georges Bonnet attempt to wipe out the Treasury deficit in three years.

The 1937 deficit of 36,107,000,000 francs (about $1,588,708,000) can be met in 1940, he believes, if more goods are produced to circulate more money and bring in more taxes. The problem is to increase production and at the same time reduce working hours.

Universal 40-Hour Week.

This People's Front Government, like the previous one, is pledged to make the 40-hour working week universal in France, and an even shorter week is the aim of the powerful General Confederation of Labor, which is an important element of the Government's support.

Industrialists say, however, that their taxable profits are down to zero, and that France must be willing to work overtime to dig herself out of the difficulty. Employers say that most workers, although enjoying increased incomes due to the Government program, are not spending the additional money but are tucking it away.

Chautemps is expected to seek a three-way agreement among employers' associations, the General Confederation of Labor and the Government to insure industrial peace while the production problem is attacked.

Immediate measures to balance the budget include increased telephone, telegraph and postal rates, higher railway passenger and freight rates and taxes in the higher income brackets. The taxes are expected to yield eight billion francs ($304,000,000).

The Ministry of Finance divided the deficit up this way:

Deficit of eight billion francs in regular budget due to miscalculation of new tax yields.

Deficit Due to Armaments.

Deficit of extraordinary budget, principally for increased armaments, 8,500,000,000 francs.

Bank of France advances on future revenue, nine billion francs.

Maturing bond issues, 5,400,000,000 francs.

Treasury bonds floated during Blum's regime, 807,000,000 francs.

A 4,400,000,000-franc payment of about one-twelfth on a British loan due in December.

To help carry the deficit in the immediate future, the Government was authorized to borrow an additional 15 billion francs ($590,000,000) from the Bank of France, which already has advanced 10 billion francs ($380,000,000).

One of Bonnet's first acts after hurrying home from Washington to take part in the new Government was to unpeg the franc, which slid more than 15 per cent.

French Franc Reaches Lowest Point Since 1926.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The French franc, reflecting the continued financial difficulties of the Chautemps Government, broke sharply today, reaching the lowest point since 1926.

Continuing the decline of the past week, the franc was offered in New York at 3.75¼ cents, off .01½ of a cent from Saturday's close.

The franc has not been down this low since the 1926 crisis in France, when President-Premier Raymond Poincare halted a disastrous decline by arbitrarily fixing the value of the franc at 3.92 cents.

LORDS PASS DIVORCE BILL

Measure Permits Actions for Cruelty or Desertion.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19.—The House of Lords today approved the proposed marriage bill, 790 to 28. The bill will be returned to Commons for consideration of amendments.

The bill permits divorce actions after three years of marriage upon grounds of infidelity, insanity, desertion and cruelty. At present infidelity is the only recognized ground. Great Britain's divorce law has not been changed in 80 years.

Steel Strikers Shot in the Back

jowled Coroner Walsh, a stalwart of the Kelly-Nash machine in his high-pitched little voice, "I have no objection to saying that I am 100 per cent Irish."

Explanation of Name Question.

Calm was restored when Dr. J. J. Kearns, Coroner's physician, explained that he had asked Coghlan to ask the question about the doctor's name merely to ascertain whether he was the same man as a Dr. Jacobson who served at the Cook County Hospital some years ago.

"I would not have been at all offended," said Dr. Jacques, "if the question had been put in that way."

Before the undignified row over the doctor's race, Whalen had been questioning him about his qualifications. Before the start of the hearing, this Deputy Coroner had frankly told reporters that he hoped to discredit the testimony the doctor gave before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee. In this effort he lost no time.

"How many post-mortems have you performed and how many gunshot wounds have you seen?" was his first question.

"I have 'posted' about six bodies, and I have viewed about 500 or 600 such cases. I never did any bullet wound autopsies, but I saw many of them performed by others here at the County Hospital and at the Allgemeines Krankenhaus in Vienna. Of course, those over there were mostly suicidal. There isn't the kind of shooting that there is in Chicago."

Seven of 10 Shot in Back.

Dr. Jacques asserted flatly that at least seven of the 10 victims of the South Chicago police fusillade were shot in the back. This charge came in answer to Whalen's questions about his testimony before the La Follette committee.

"I made no blanket statement in Washington," said Dr. Jacques, "but I pointed out the wounds of entry and exit or the place of lodgment of the bullets. I did this on charts prepared by the American Medical Association.

"One man, Popovich, was shot in the back of the head," said the doctor as he began carefully to enumerate the seven. Another, Handley, he said, was shot in the back of the thigh.

"There were others who were shot through what the layman understands as 'the back.' Otis Jones and Rothmund were shot in the spine; Reed in the back, and Taglieri in the right buttock.

"There was some confusion in the case of Leo Francisco because I performed some surgery on his wound, but from the history of his case I also say that he was shot in the back."

"Unquestionably Shot From Rear."

"Did you say in Washington, asked Whalen, "that these men were shot from the rear?"

"I don't recall that question," said the doctor, "but I wish it had been asked. Six of these men were unquestionably shot from the rear, probably all seven."

This testimony brought on the first bickering between Coghlan and the witness. For the most part it consisted of an argument over what really was "the back."

"The word 'back' is not a good medical term," Dr. Jacques explained, but he said that he used it because a layman could understand it, and by it he meant the back of the head as well as the back of the torso.

"Would you rather have me say 'posterior aspect of the body' than 'back'?" the doctor asked Coghlan.

Objection; Attack Renewed.

Dr. Kearns asked several questions during this technical interchange, finally bringing from S W O C lawyers the objection that a contest between two doctors was not helping to establish how the 10 persons were killed on the prairie outside the South Chicago mill. They were overruled by Walsh. Whalen once more attacked Dr. Jacques' qualifications as a pathologist.

"I made no claim to be a qualified pathologist," said the witness, "but I do assert that my testimony is competent. I have performed thousands of major surgical operations, and I taught surgery and surgical pathology at Northwestern University for eight years. I do not base my qualifications on the seven or eight autopsies that I have performed."

After more baiting as to Dr. Jacques' expertness on gunshot wounds, Whalen asked him how Popovich was shot. In reply, the witness placed fingers at the back and front of his head to illustrate where the bullet had entered and left the dead man's skull.

"I consider," he said, "that the course of the bullet was from the back to the front of the head. The bullet moved forward."

Lawyer Switches Tactics.

Again Whalen switched tactics, reverting once more to the hearings in Washington. He wanted to know why Dr. Jacques and not Dr. Kearns, the man who did the post-mortems and who "has seen more gunshot wounds than anybody else in the world," had been called to appear before the committee.

"I was called," said Dr. Jacques, "probably because I treated 90 of the victims of that shooting, and there were only 10 cases for the Coroner."

This line of questioning drew a sharp objection from Thurlow G. Lewis, United Mine Workers' counsel from Springfield, Ill., who is also a member of the S W O C legal staff.

"These efforts to discredit the La Follette committee are not warranted," the lawyer said. "They are not proper at an inquest, and they are not of the least help in establishing how these 10 men died."

"This is an open hearing," countered Whalen. "We have told you that we would listen to anybody you want to bring in here. Both sides have a chance here. They did not listen to the other side in Washington."

"On whose side," interjected Dr. Jacques, "was Capt. Mooney?" (Capt. Mooney was in command of the policemen who fired on the strikers.)

"We are not concerned with the La Follette committee," announced Walsh, taking a hand, for a change, in the proceedings over which he was supposed to be presiding. "I am calloused as to what the La Follette committee is trying to do."

Description of Wounds.

When the session finally got down to business, Dr. Jacques put in the record the following description of the wounds of the seven victims:

Kenneth Reed—One shot on the right side toward the back, about where a soldier's right elbow would be at 'shoulder arms.' This bullet coursed diagonally through the body, emerging front and left. Another bullet tangentially across the chest. Another superficial wound on the left arm.

Albert Causey—Three cuts on scalp, grazing bullet wound on left forearm; bullet wound through the right thigh with posterior entrance, described as a "side wound;" another bullet wound through the side of the abdominal wall.

Earl Handley—Shot through the back of thigh. Important blood vessels severed. Bled to death. The quick application of a tourniquet would have saved his life. Dr. Jacques said he understood an attempt was made to use a belt for this purpose, and that the news reel shows a policeman dragging a man to a patrol wagon by such a belt.

Joseph Rothmund—Bullet wound in the back one centimeter from the center line at the fourth lumbar vertebra.

Hilding Anderson—Shot sidewise through the abdominal wall.

Otis Jones—Bullet imbedded in fifth thoracic vertebra. "A bull's eye! Good shoting," commented Dr. Jacques.

Ran to Police for Protection.

"Francisco was lucid at the Jackson Park Hospital when he told me he started running away when the shooting began," said Dr. Jacques. "He said that he was shot when he turned and ran toward the police for protection. He said they threw him into a patrol wagon." The boy was taken to the hospital only after he had been taken to Bridewell, adjoining this courthouse, miles from the scene of the shooting.

While this evidence was being submitted, Leo Wachowicz, a steel striker, was called on to shed his shirt and pose like a discus thrower while Coghlan argued with Dr. Jacques whether a man might not have been wounded while throwing a stone at the police.

HOUSE PASSES LOWER OHIO BASIN FLOOD CONTROL BILL

$24,877,000 Measure Sent to Senate, Provides for Stream Surveys in 20 States.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill to authorize a $24,877,000 flood control program for the lower Ohio River basin. The bill also would authorize preliminary flood control examinations and surveys on more than 50 streams in 20 states. It went through without a dissenting vote.

During debate on the measure, Representative Jenkins (Rep.), Ohio, praised it but said it ought to contain "ten times more money." He added that many communities would be unable to meet requirements of the bill, which requires them to supply necessary land and pay damage costs in connection with construction of the projects.

He said a delegation planned to call on President Roosevelt soon to see if relief funds might not be used to buy rights of way for a proposed Bluestone dam and reservoir. The dam would lower flood crests on the Ohio by three feet at a cost of $13,000,000, Jenkins said.

JAMES ROOSEVELT HOLDS UP OWN JOB PLAN FOR ANOTHER

Will Take No Action Until Massachusetts Associated Industries Scheme Is Tried.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 19. — James Roosevelt announced today the suspension of his job-finding campaign to take up the slack created by Works Progress Administration layoffs when Albert N. Murray, president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, informed him his organization was working on a plan to return the unemployed to work.

The announcement was made after a two-hour executive session of James Roosevelt's organizing committee.

P. A. O'Connell, president of the Boston Retail Trade Board, was elected chairman of the committee which, Roosevelt said, would remain in existence but would take no action pending trial of the Associated Industries' plan.

The President's son expressed pleasure at Murray's action.

Murray who had refused to accept the committee chairmanship said: "I don't think the method proposed would get us there." He then said the Associated Industries had its own plan "entirely free from politics" to be announced in a few days.

RESIDENCE AT ISSUE IN KIDNAPING TRIAL

Two Witnesses Deny That George Garguillo Was Fugitive From Justice.

By the Associated Press.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 19—A sister of George Garguillo, one of eight men on trial for the 1933 O'Connell kidnaping, told a Federal jury today that her brother lived with her continuously from August, 1933, to March, 1936.

The witness, Ann Garguillo, listed several addresses in New York City and the Wehawken, N. J., area where she said George resided with her and their sister, Margaret.

Miss Garguillo was called after Joseph Conboy, Clinton prison guard, had identified Garguillo as one who visited a brother at the prison three times between June, 1934, and August, 1935.

The testimony of Miss Garguillo and Conboy came as Garguillo counsel opened an attempt to prove his client was not a fugitive from justice after John J. O'Connell Jr., of Albany, was abducted on June 7, 1933.

The Government must prove the defendants were fugitives at least 10 months after the kidnaping to cause the time limit for prosecution under the Federal kidnaping statute, had elapsed between the crime and the handing down of the indictments last April.

August Hartkorn, handwriting expert, was scheduled to testify in his testimony defense counsel said they hoped to prove that three ransom notes introduced by the Government were fakes.

With the completion of Hartkorn's testimony, expected to take at least a day, two defendants, Charles Harrigan and George Garguillo, are scheduled to testify. Others on trial are Harold Crowley, Thomas Dugan, John (Sonny) Boland, Glone, John Oley and Percy Gear.

Manning Strewl, one of the defendants, has testified that the handprinted the three notes at police director soon after O'Connell was returned to his Albany home. He said samples of his hand printing were taken in an effort to "frame" him.

The prosecution contends that the notes in evidence are photostatic copies of originals. Charles A. Appel, Government handwriting expert, has testified Strewl wrote all three of them.

TWO CHICAGO ELECTION OFFICIALS GET JAIL TERMS

Three Women Workers Fined for Fraudulent Canvass of Votes in April, 1936, Primary.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Two election officials in the April, 1936, primary were sentenced to jail terms today, and three women officials were fined by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on charges of fraudulent canvass of Republican votes in the Forty-fourth Precinct of the Twentieth Ward.

Isadore Stern, Republican judge, and Charles Moore, Negro, Democratic judge, drew four-month terms in the county jail. Mrs. Edna Gray, Negro, substitute Democratic judge, was fined $150. Mrs. Jennie Lee Allen, Negro, Democratic clerk, and Mrs. Mattie Ratliff, Negro, Republican clerk, were fined $50 each.

St. Louis Doesn't HAVE to Be Smoky!

If our SUNRAY SMOKELESS COAL were burning in every local furnace and firebox, St. Louis would be as smokeless as New York City.

The old objection of higher cost has been nullified. SUNRAY is not a hard coal, at a hard coal price. It is bituminous, mined in the East, and contains less than 8% ash. While the cost per ton is slightly higher, the COST PER YEAR is not much greater, because SUNRAY is longer burning and high in heat value, and doesn't require a change in your present equipment.

Add to that the fact that it now may be bought under the easy terms of our CITY ICE COAL CLUB, at the rate of 50c per ton per week starting after delivery, and you will agree that SUNRAY SMOKELESS COAL is in reach of everybody, and a smokeless city is a possible fact.

POLICE HUNTING $10,000 OF BANK ROBBER'S LOOT

Mearle James Turpin Killed Two Days After Taking $22,230 in Springfield (Mo.) Robbery.

MAN IDENTIFIED IN OTHER CRIMES

Twelve Thousand Dollars Found in Auto—Missing Cash Believed to Have Been Hidden.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 19.—Officers were searching today for $10,000 which they believed was hidden by Mearle James Turpin, a bank robber killed by State highway patrolmen near here Saturday night.

About $12,000 of the $22,230 loot taken by the robber in a holdup of the Citizens Bank here Thursday was recovered in a vinegar jar, found in his car, and from his clothing. Officers think he either had hidden the remainder of the money or split with a confederate.

Convicted Train Robber.

Sheriff John Pierpont identified the robber as a Springfield man who was released from Leavenworth Federal Prison five years ago after serving 12 years of a 25-year term for train robbery.

Detective Chief Ruel N. Womack said the victims of several holdups here in the last year identified the body as that of the man who robbed them. One of these was the $800 robbery of the State License Bureau in January. J. W. Chilton Jr., of the Farmers & Merchants' Bank said the dead robber had "every appearance" of being the one who took $1450 from him in 1933.

The shooting started when Patrolmen H. G. Brooks and R. N. Eidson came upon an auto bearing a license number for which they were watching. The car failed to halt at the sound of the patrolmen's siren, Brooks said, and the robber opened fire.

Officer Wounded.

A pellet from Turpin's shotgun hit Eidson's fountain pen and was deflected to his right arm, inflicting a slight wound. Brooks killed the robber with a rifle bullet through the right chest.

Turpin was buried yesterday at Monett, his boyhood home, where he once was pitcher on a baseball team.

A golf bag carried by the bank robber to conceal his shotgun when he entered the bank last Thursday was one of the things that led to his undoing. Someone who knew Turpin saw him on the street that day and, knowing that he did not play golf, took surprised notice that he was carrying a golf bag.

Later, when it was reported that the robber had carried his shotgun into the bank in a golf bag, information was given to the authorities which convinced them that the robber was Turpin.

Turpin, since his release from Leavenworth prison, had been living at the home of his brother, Carl, here, but had been staying away from there since the bank robbery.

TRIAL OF HAROLD HANCOCK, ELECTION CLERK, NEXT MONDAY

Judge Griffin Will Hear Case Involving Charge of Improper Canvass.

The case of Harold Hancock, former election clerk in the Fifth Ward, first precinct, charged with failing to canvass his precinct properly after the supplementary registration of June 18, 1936, was set today for trial next Monday before Judge James W. Griffin, in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Similar cases of 14 others, now docketed for next Monday, will be reset then for later dates. Nathan Sherman, the other clerk in the precinct with Hancock, was let down as the next to be tried after Hancock.

Maurice Schechter, member of the Legislature, attorney for the 21 clerks indicted on misdemeanor charges, said he would ask for continuances in the other cases after the trial of Hancock, as he wishes to leave for a vacation trip next week. Schechter got continuances for all his clients from last January and February until the present, under the statute which permits such continuances during a Legislative session.

THREE HELD FOR AUTO THEFT

Men Arrested After Collision With Motorcycle in Belleville.

Three St. Louis Negroes arrested yesterday by Belleville police, after the automobile in which they were riding collided with a motorcycle, admitted the car had been stolen in St. Louis, police said. They were held for Federal authorities for possible prosecution for interstate shipment of a stolen automobile.

The car collided with a motorcycle operated by Steve Rodney, 2733 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, at South Belt highway and Twentieth street, Belleville. Rodney's wife, Irene, was riding with him. Both suffered minor injuries.

A. F. OF L. ORGANIZER CALLS LEWIS 'TRAITOR' TO LABOR

Fred Olds in Belleville Speech Says Communists Head the C I O.

Leaders of the Committee for Industrial Organization were denounced as "Communists and traitors" by speakers at an American Federation of Labor picnic at Belleville yesterday.

John L. Lewis, head of the C I O, was termed "the greatest traitor to American labor in history" by Fred Olds, A. F. of L. organizer in East St. Louis. He charged other C I O leaders with having Communistic tendencies, and asserted that Communists employed as C I O organizers in the Detroit area were being transferred to St. Louis.

Joseph Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners of America, attacked Lewis' United Mine Workers of America, and characterized a contract that organization signed recently with Illinois coal operators as "a company contract and an open shop agreement." Ozanic stated that local unions of the United Mine Workers at West Frankfort and Herrin had repudiated the agreement. Mrs. Agnes Skeldon of Gillespie, State president of the Women's Auxiliary of the United Mine Workers, also spoke.

The picnic, at Bellevue Park, was given by the Progressive Miners and was open to members of other A. F. of L. unions. About 5000 persons attended. The Progressive Miners recently affiliated with the A. F. of L.

CAHOKIA DOG TRACK WORK SUDDENLY CALLED OFF

Workmen Told to Stop Repairs; Rail for Electric Rabbit Had Been Repaired.

Work of rehabilitating the Cahokia dog track, which was to have been reopened this week, was halted unexpectedly this morning shortly after workmen arrived on the job. Foremen said only that orders had come "from St. Louis" to quit work until further notice. Dog racing is prohibited by law in Illinois and the track has been idle several years.

A. Harry Sodini, former St. Louis hotel operator, who has been financing and supervising the repairs, said last week he might use the track for dogs, horses or midget automobiles, but the rail for the electric rabbit was one of the first things put in shape and two truck loads of dogs arrived last Thursday. Sodini was reported today to be in Springfield, Ill. His associate, Tony Foley, could not be reached.

Sheriff Henry Siekmann of St. Clair County has announced the track would be raided if dog racing were attempted. Gov. Horner had telephoned him for information about the reported plans for reopening, the Sheriff said. The track is five miles south of East St. Louis, on Highway 3.

HOWARDS CLEANERS PICKETING BY UNION BARRED BY COURT

U. S. Judge Collet Sets Hearing on Permanent Injunction Against Strikers for Friday.

Members of the International Association of Cleaners & Dyeing House Workers, Local No. 20, were enjoined from further picketing of the plant and branch stores of Howards Cleaners, Inc., under a temporary restraining order, issued Saturday by Federal Judge John Caskie Collet in Kansas City and filed in Federal Court here today.

The Court set a hearing for Friday in his court here, on an order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

The temporary order prevents members of the union "or its sympathizers" from picketing or parading or distributing handbills in the vicinity of the Howards shops.

The company has a plant at 2515 North Grand boulevard and 69 branch offices in the city and county. A strike has been in progress since March 10 over recognition of the union, shorter hours and higher wages.

The union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The company, which recently filed a petition in Federal Court for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy law, has contended its 242 employes are satisfied with working conditions.

18-YEAR-OLD BOY DROWNED IN MISSISSIPPI SLOUGH

Glenn Franklin of Pomona, Ill., Loses Life When Swimming Near Venice.

Glenn Franklin, 18 years old, of Pomona, Ill., was drowned in a Mississippi River slough, north of Venice, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when he became fatigued from swimming. A companion made a futile effort to save him.

Franklin tired as he attempted to swim 100 feet from shore to a submerged sandbar on which his cousin, Kenneth Reeves, 15, of Granite City, was standing. As Franklin started to sink, Reeves swam to him and supported him for several minutes in the swift current before he too became exhausted.

Reeves returned to the bar and rested before swimming to shore and calling for aid. Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ogle Franklin, was spending the summer working in the harvest fields near Madison, and was staying with his aunt, Mrs. Jennie Marshall, 1939 Cleveland boulevard, Granite City.

BURGLARS ROB CASH REGISTER AT BALDWIN PIANO CO. OF $172

Climb Fire Escape to Adjoining Building Roof; East Grand Blvd. Shoe Store Entered.

A $172 burglary at the Baldwin Piano Co., 1111 Olive street, was discovered when the store was opened today. Apparently the burglars climbed a fire escape to the roof of an adjoining structure at 1119 Olive street and found an open window in an upper story of the Baldwin building. The money was taken from a cash register.

Police pairing the Penrose Shoe Store, 2122 East Grand boulevard, this morning, noticed that the bars of a rear entrance had been forced. They found that burglars had taken a quantity of shoes, the value of which the owner, Louis Landau, was not immediately able to estimate.

The driver, Thomas Coleman, a plumber, 4056 Evans avenue, operating a borrowed car, was booked for careless driving, felonious wounding and driving without city and driver's licenses.

Frank Berberich, a caterer, 3323 Wisconsin avenue, and Miss Octavia Venneman, telephone operator, 5626 South Magnolia avenue, were struck by an automobile when they started to cross Grand boulevard at Market street in front of a street car last night. Berberich is in Firmin Desloge Hospital with a skull injury. Miss Venneman was treated for bruises. Mrs. Minnie E. Hubert, 3434 State street, East St. Louis, suffered possible internal injuries and a lacerated scalp yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding struck another car and both ran over the sidewalk, crashing into a store at Fifteenth street and Bond avenue. PLANE LANDS IN CROWDED PARK

Policeman Clears Space for Craft When Motor Stalls.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 19. — G. B. Fenwick Jr., who landed his plane in crowded Patterson Park after the motor went dead, dismantled the craft today and removed it to his home, where he will have room to fly it into the air.

Fenwick was half a mile up over the city hall yesterday when his engine stalled. A policeman who saw him gliding to the field cleared crowds from a spot large enough for a landing. In 1919 an army plane, landing in the park as part of a recruiting drive, plunged into a crowd and killed three children.

THREE RECOVER FROM POISONING; ONE DEAD

Salem (Mo.) Farm Residents and Neighbor Stricken After Eating Together.

Three persons residing on a farm near Salem, Mo., who were taken to Missouri Baptist Hospital Friday for treatment for poisoning after a neighbor who had eaten lunch with them last Tuesday had died, were reported out of danger today.

The viscera of the neighbor, Cleve Mooney, who died Wednesday night, was sent to the Gradwohl Laboratory for examination to determine the kind and probable source of the poison. A dog, cat, and 52 chickens also died.

Those under treatment at Missouri Baptist Hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Jones and John Sykes, a farm hand employed by them.

Coroner W. G. Dillon at Salem expressed the opinion that roasting ears, possibly contaminated by bran treated with arsenic to kill grasshoppers, was responsible for Mooney's death and the illness of his neighbors.

Dr. Joe F. Mayes, 4483 McPherson avenue, who attended those in the hospital, said that symptoms of each of the three patients differed and none showed symptoms readily recognizable in arsenical poisoning. He said their condition probably was due to some other contaminated food, pointing out that dogs and cats would not be expected to eat corn.

GOV. HORNER VETOES STATE EMPLOYES' PENSION BILL

Action Unprecedented in That It Followed Filing of Measure With Secretary of State.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Gov. Horner vetoed today the Adamowski State employes' pension bill, which was filed without signature in the Secretary of State's office a week ago.

The veto was necessary, State officials said, to prevent a long delay in the distribution of July paychecks to State employes, for whom the pension system would have been immediately effective.

Discussing the bill, which he previously said should be corrected at the next legislative session, Horner said:

"I am now convinced that it is impracticable of operation in its present form and so fatally defective that it would do uncalculable harm and that therefore it should not be permitted to become a law."

The action of vetoing a bill after it had been filed with the Secretary of State was unprecedented.

WOMAN SLASHED TO DEATH, COMPANION HELD FOR MURDER

Man With Throat Cut Is Accused of Killing His Sweetheart.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., July 19. — Angelo Audi, 46 years old, was charged with murder today several hours after the fatal slashing of his sweetheart, Mrs. Minnie Bianconi, 32, a widow of Steger, Ill. He had told authorities two men in a car accosted them, cut his throat, chased him away, and then killed Mrs. Bianconi.

A warrant was sworn out by the State Attorney's office after a razor of the type used in the killing was found in Audi's room. Audi, his throat slashed, was in a hospital in a serious condition.

Audi told authorities he was walking with Mrs. Bianconi, a widow since 1928, when the men drove up and said to him: "You keep away from that woman."

Then, Audi said, they took from his pocket a razor, slashed his throat and told him to "beat it." He said he walked to his home at Steger, where his roommate notified police.

A similar charge against John Bornhauser, 4240 St. Louise avenue, who was standing on the bank shouting at Mrs. Chamberlain and her daughter, Pearl, while they were in the water, also was dismissed.

New Lethal Gas Chamber At Prison to Be Ready Jan. 1

Will Occupy New Building; Law Ending Missouri Executions by Hanging Becomes Effective Sept. 6.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—A neat stone-faced building about the size of a small one-story cottage will be the death house for condemned Missouri criminals under the new lethal gas law passed by the last session of the Legislature.

Warden J. M. Sanders expects to have the new building completed, and with the gas chamber installed by next Jan. 1. The chamber is of the type used at the Wyoming State prison.

Up to Sept. 6, when the law goes into effect, death sentences will be under present law providing for hanging in the county of conviction.

After Sept. 6 lethal gas executions at the State prison here become the legal method. Expectations are that the first execution under the new law will not take place until a year and half, possibly more, from its effective date. The process of appeal through the State Supreme Court usually takes at least that long.

Furnishings of Chamber.

The new prison "death house" will contain the boiler shaped lethal gas chamber, mounted on a firm base approximately in the center of the building, a temporary cell or two, and two solid walls which will separate the prisoner and officials carrying out the execution from the official witnesses and others.

The gas chamber will be installed at the intersection of these walls, and a section of it containing bullet-proof windows will project through the walls.

Most of the witnesses will be on the outside of these two walls, able to see the execution through bullet-proof glass windows, but shut off from actual contact with the prisoner or with officials carrying out the execution. They also will enter and leave the death-house by separate doors.

The outer shell of the round gas chamber will be of steel plate, broken by several small windows and a gas-tight battleship-bulkhead door.

Corners Eliminated.

The chamber is made round, with a cone-shaped top, to keep the deadly gas from collecting in corners.

The blower-vent is opened in the top of the chamber after the execution, and the gas sucked out. At the same time the chamber is flooded with ammonia fumes, to neutralize the poisonous gas.

The law provides that the Warden must invite a physician, the Attorney General, and at least 12 representative citizens as witnesses of executions.

The prisoner is allowed not more than two clergy, and up to five relatives or friends.

The death house will be inside the prison walls, but set apart from the main body of the prison. Cells where condemned men are housed while waiting for their execution date also will be set apart.

The gas-execution law was introduced in the Legislature as an electrocution measure by Senator Paul C. Jones of Kennett, who advocated to stop "Roman holiday" hangings in the county seats. It was amended to make the method lethal gas by Senator Phil M. Donnelly, Lebanon, who urged the newer method as more humane.

Johnston declined to discuss the conditions under which the 175 workmen returned to their jobs, but stated that the employes were "satisfied." Representatives of the International Coopers' Union could not be reached.

DETECTIVES AT FUNERAL OF MURDERED PHYSICIAN

Attend In Hope That Killer Might Show Up; Shooting Remains Mystery.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 19. — Detectives watched the funeral of Dr. George W. Webster yesterday, hoping that the 39-year-old obstetrician's killer would attend and establish his or her presence in some emotional betrayal.

But as the surgeon was lowered into his grave at Swan Point Cemetery, the identity of the person who shot him last Friday appeared to remain as much of a mystery as ever.

Among the 300 persons at the services were his widow and members of the Homeopathic Hospital's staff, associates of the doctor who was found dying in his own home.

TALK OF DISSOLVING SUNSET HILL CLUB

No Satisfactory Reorganization Worked Out, Members Are Informed.

Dissolution of Sunset Hill Country Club, built by the Anheuser-Busch Brewery as a country inn about 27 years ago and developed subsequently into a private club for diners, dancers and golf players, will be discussed Wednesday night at a special meeting of members at the clubhouse, near the junction of Gravois road and Lindbergh boulevard in Sappington.

In an announcement received by members today, directors said that, since no satisfactory plan of financial reorganization had been worked out, officers had been authorized to recommend dissolution after payment of debts. The announcement was made through Eberhard Anheuser, president of the club.

Anheuser-Busch has offered to cancel the club's $112,000 indebtedness to the brewery, including about $61,000 in cash advances, provided the property were turned over to it and trade creditors paid. There has been some discussion of formation of a new club, following appointment of committees to discuss finances several weeks ago. Losses last month before payment of rent, taxes and insurance totaled about $2500, the directors said.

Soon after the original Sunset Inn was built, on a hill commanding sweeping views of the Meramec Valley and foothills of the Ozarks, the Sunset Hill Country Club was organized for social purposes with initiation fee of $5 and annual dues of $15. A few years later a golf course was laid out. Active members, with golf and swimming privileges, paid an entrance fee of $500 plus $50 Government tax and annual dues of $198, including tax. Associate members, paying smaller dues, had social privileges of the clubhouse.

During the depression the membership declined and the $500 entrance fee was abandoned. Nevertheless, the membership, once comprising about 400 active and 1800 associate members, has dwindled until now there are only 198 active and fewer than 100 associate members. Recently, an assessment of $100 was made against each active member.

BRITISH COVET NOTHING OF ITALY'S, EDEN SAYS

Foreign Secretary Holds Out Hand of Friendship in Statement on Mediterranean.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19.—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden held out a hand of friendship to Italy today in an important declaration of British foreign policy.

"This country," Eden declared in House of Commons foreign affairs debate, "has no intention of pursuing towards any country a policy either of aggression or revenge.

"The word 'vendetta' has no English equivalent. No apprehension on that score should be allowed.

"We wish to live in peace and friendship with our neighbors in the Mediterranean as elsewhere, for which we defend our own we covet naught of theirs."

Applies to Red Sea, Too.

Eden declared this policy extended also to the Red Sea, another link in Britain's "Empire life line." Warning that Europe would "drift perilously nearer" to war unless sincere co-operation solved the Spanish neutrality deadlock, he declared that non-intervention in Spain "stands or falls" on tomorrow's meeting of the 27 European non-interventionist powers.

The foreign secretary opened debate by declaring no proposal to convene the signatories of the 1922 nine power treaty was under consideration over the Sino-Japanese crisis in North China.

"We have expressed to both Governments our earnest hope that the situation would not be aggravated and peaceful settlement might be reached," Eden said.

He reiterated Britain's hopes for amicable settlement of the "confused and anxious situation" and then switched discussion to the Spanish question.

"Plenty of Room for All."

Of British relations with Italy, he declared: "It is important that there should be no misconception that, while we are determined to defend our own rights, we have no intention of challenging those of others.

"That is why we made the Mediterranean agreement with Italy last January. We stand by our Mediterranean agreement with Italy.

"If for us the Mediterranean is a main arterial road—and it is—there is plenty of room for all. If we intend to maintain our place on it—and we do—we have no intention to seek to turn anybody else off it."

Cheers broke throughout the House when the Foreign Secretary declared: "What matters to us is not the way a Government governs itself at home, but the way it conducts itself abroad. If we will not join an international bloc against Communism—and we will not—neither will be join an international bloc against Fascism."

Eden expounded the British contention that "The League of Nations still exercises a valuable political influence. The League can be strengthened only by widening its membership. In order to achieve this result, it is advisable that we lay emphasis on its conciliatory rather than on its coercive clauses."

Informed quarters interpreted this as an effort to make Geneva appear more attractive to the United States, Germany and Japan.

For Freer Trade Channels.

Great Britain believes that the way to international amity is through freer channels of world trade, Eden continued. He cited Anglo-American trade discussions at Washington and said he hoped a trade agreement "would be made as a practical contribution in the development of world trade."

One of the reasons which "enabled us to pass through the last 12 months without the major disaster of a European conflict has been the steadily growing confidence and intimacy of relations between France and ourselves," he added.

Again the Foreign Secretary was cheered when he concluded: "Although the load of international anxieties remains heavy—although there can be no lasting confidence until international organization with world membership is intrusted with arbitration of our differences and conciliation of our disputes—I stand at this box today with a greater measure of hope than was possible a year ago that the nations of Europe will compose their quarrels and peace will be preserved."

AUTOPSY IS ORDERED IN LOS ANGELES DEATH

Doctor Says He Found Woman Lawyer Being Beaten in Drinking Brawl.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—An autopsy was ordered today in the death Thursday of Mrs. Dorothy May Garland, 31 years old, a former Deputy City Prosecutor. Miss Kay Tutwiler, 29, was held on suspicion of murder, and Luther Allen, 32, as a material witness.

Dr. Wendell W. Starr, who attended Mrs. Garland, told detectives he had been treating her for alcoholism and last Wednesday, on a professional visit to her home, saw her knocked to the floor and kicked in a quarrel with Miss Tutwiler. The two women and Allen had been in a drinking party, the doctor asserted. Mrs. Garland died the next day.

Miss Tutwiler denied there was any altercation.

In a statement to police, Allen, currently cast in a Federal Theater play, said Mrs. Garland and Miss Tutwiler had discussed an asserted missing $100 bill. If a fight ensued, it occurred while he was out of the room, Allen said.

Miss Tutwiler said:

"Dorothy handed me a $100 bill to get some refreshments. But I refused it. She later gave me three $1 bills. I came back without anything because of the early hour. I had no quarrel with Dorothy. In fact, I called on her the next day."

A brilliant law student at the University of Southern California, Mrs. Garland was appointed assistant city prosecutor in 1929, becoming head of the domestic relations department.

She resigned in 1934, when she was chief trial deputy, to practice law with her husband, James P. Garland, from whom she was later estranged.

A $130,000 alienation of affections suit was pending against her, filed by the wife of a police officer, Mrs. Earl Yarnell. Mrs. Garland had denied allegation that she had entertained the officer three times at her ranch. The Yarnells were divorced.

WHAT A WRECK CONSTIPATION MAKES

Constipation can dull your whole life. Headaches, poor complexions—tired, lifeless days are often the results. Also, many serious diseases.

Get rid of common constipation now with a ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN brings you the two things your system needs to act naturally: "bulk" and vitamin B to help tone the intestines.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs more than twice its weight in water—forms a soft mass, and gently clears the intestines of wastes. It acts naturally.

Pills and drugs seldom cure constipation. You just keep on increasing the dose and switching from one laxative to another.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day, three times daily if needed. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in recipes. Sold by all grocers—made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

AUTOPSY IS ORDERED IN LOS ANGELES DEATH

Doctor Says He Found Woman Lawyer Being Beaten in Drinking Brawl.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 19.—An autopsy was ordered today in the death Thursday of Mrs. Dorothy May Garland, 31 years old, a former Deputy City Prosecutor. Miss Kay Tutwiler, 29, was held on suspicion of murder, and Luther Allen, 32, as a material witness.

Dr. Wendell W. Starr, who attended Mrs. Garland, told detectives he had been treating her for alcoholism and last Wednesday, on a professional visit to her home, saw her knocked to the floor and kicked in a quarrel with Miss Tutwiler. The two women and Allen had been in a drinking party, the doctor asserted. Mrs. Garland died the next day.

Miss Tutwiler denied there was any altercation.

In a statement to police, Allen, currently cast in a Federal Theater play, said Mrs. Garland and Miss Tutwiler had discussed an asserted missing $100 bill. If a fight ensued, it occurred while he was out of the room, Allen said.

Miss Tutwiler said:

"Dorothy handed me a $100 bill to get some refreshments. But I refused it. She later gave me three $1 bills. I came back without anything because of the early hour. I had no quarrel with Dorothy. In fact, I called on her the next day."

U. S. CRUISER OMAHA AGROUND IN BAHAMAS

Captain Says Warship Is in No Immediate Danger; Vessels On Way to Aid.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The Navy Department said today the light cruiser Omaha had gone aground off Castle Island Light in the Southeast Bahama Islands.

Capt. Howard B. Mecleary, commanding officer of the Omaha, reported to the navy the ship ran aground at 3:35 a. m. He did not report on the extent of damage, but did say the 7050-ton vessel was in no immediate danger.

Navy officers said the tug Patriot, which had been at Guantanamo, navy base in Cuba, had left for the scene, and the oiler Salinas, now fueling at Guantanamo, would leave soon. Coast Guard headquarters here said it had sent three cutters and two patrol boats from Southeastern ports to aid the Omaha.

The Omaha, which has been in Central American waters, was en route to Charleston, S. C., for overhauling before proceeding to European waters.

Five Coast Guard Boats Ordered to Cruiser's Aid.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 19.—Five Coast Guard boats started today to aid the United States Navy cruiser Omaha, aground off Castle Island.

Headquarters here ordered the Mojave (now on patrol between Charleston and Savannah), Pandora (at Miami), Unalga (at San Juan, Puerto Rico) and Marion (at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands) to proceed to the Bahamas immediately. Headquarters at Mobile directed the cutter Tampa, now at Pensacola, Fla., to join the others.

LUFKIN, Tex., July 19.—Johnny Sowell, 27 years old, said to be a Florida ex-convict facing burglary charges in three states, was captured at his father's home ere yesterday with a woman who he said was his bride of a week. The woman refused to give her name and swallowed a diamond ring, saying: "That's mine and I'm going to keep it."

Police said Sowell escaped from an Alabama jail in May after being held in connection with jewelry thefts at Dotham, Ala., and Biloxi, Miss. Police said he broke jail here also seven years ago while awaiting transfer to the State penitentiary for burglary.

ARKANSANS FIGHT OVER WHO TAKES ROBINSON'S PLACE

Gov. Carl E. Bailey, Himself a Candidate, Seems Unwilling to Make Temporary Appointment.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 19.—The State Democratic Committee was called into special session Friday to consider action on the Senate vacancy created by the death of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader. Chairman Thomas Fitzhugh, who managed Gov. Carl E. Bailey's gubernatorial campaign, issued the call for the meeting. The committee is empowered to nominate the party's candidate or to order a primary. A majority of the committee are politically aligned with Gov. Bailey.

Gov. Bailey, himself an almost certain candidate, indicated a special election would be held about Sept. 14 to fill the post. The Governor will set the time for the election and to name any interim Senator.

Brooks Hays, Democratic National Committeeman, was a likely interim appointee, but Bailey said he had told Postmaster-General Farley, here for the Robinson funeral, that he preferred not to make any temporary appointment. Bailey said Farley had discussed an interim appointment with him, but "positively did not suggest any individual for such an appointment."

That the meeting of the committee Friday might prove stormy was indicated by the telegraphed protests of seven county committees against reports that a nomination would be made. They demanded a primary.

Should the State Committee make a nomination, other Democrats could run only as independents.

Of the seven Arkansas Congressmen who were here yesterday for the Robinson funeral, only one, Ben Cravens of Fort Smith, returned to Washington. The others, Representatives W. J. Driver of Osceola, John L. McClellan of Malvern, Claude A. Fuller of Eureka Springs, John E. Miller of Newport, remained. All were possible candidates for the Senate if a primary is called. Internal Revenue Collector Homer Adkins also has been mentioned.

Former Gov. J. M. Futrell, at odds with Bailey many times in the past three years, issued a statement last week urging that Mrs. Robinson be selected to fill her husband's unexpired term.

COPELAND TO RUN FOR MAYOR ON ANTI-NEW DEAL TICKET

Senator Announces New York Candidacy; James J. Walker Not to Try Again.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Two announcements on New York's mayoralty race came out of the capital today.

Senator Royal S. Copeland said definitely that he would be a candidate on an anti-New Deal platform.

James J. Walker, former Mayor, who called at the White House said he would not run again. He had been suggested in some Tammany quarters as a compromise candidate.

Walker's name and that of former Mayor John P. O'Brien, who succeeded him, were proposed informally by several district leaders. They expressed dismay at dissension in their ranks which has followed the designation by Tammany Leader James J. Dooling of Senator Copeland as his choice in the mayoralty free-for-all.

The four pro-New Deal leaders have selected Grover A. Whalen, former city greeter, as their candidate.

NOTABLES ATTEND ROBINSON BURIAL AT LITTLE ROCK

Vice-President Garner and Other Congressional Leaders Pay Final Tribute to Senator.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 19.—Joseph Taylor Robinson, majority leader of the United States Senate, was buried here yesterday. The nation's leaders joined thousands of Arkansas residents in the final tribute.

A hot sun beamed throughout the forenoon. While the body lay in stat at the Arkansas capitol, a sudden shower scattered the mourners briefly.

Again the sun shone on the thousands who lined the three-mile route of the funeral procession, after services at First Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Clouds darkened the sky as the cortege entered Roselawn Memorial Park. Thunder sounded over the hills, and rain fell as the Rev. H. Bascom Watts read the burial ritual. Then a torrential downpour sent family and friends scurrying for shelter.

Police maintained a guard over the grave until late last night, protecting the floral display from souvenir hunters.

Vice-President at Burial.

Senator Robinson's burial brought together people from every walk of life. Vice-President John Nance Garner came from his home at Uvalde, Tex., to represent President Roosevelt. Postmaster-General James A. Farley attended. Nearly 50 of Robinson's Senate colleagues and a large delegation from the House served as honorary pallbearers.

Former Vice-President Charles G. Dawes and Patrick Hurley, Secretary of War under President Hoover, were in the funeral procession. Governors of Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma were among the 10,000 men and women, white and black, old and young, who walked past the bier.

Arrival of Special Train.

The day began with the arrival of the body on a special train from Washington. Accompanying it was the widow, members of her family, the Congressional delegation and other distinguished visitors.

For a short time the casket remained at the family home—a private period during which Mrs. Robinson was allowed to be alone.

Then a military escort carried the casket to the capitol, where for three hours a stream of people moved past it. Flowers, from orchids to roses, banked the rotunda on three sides. Behind the casket the floral tributes rose 12 feet high.

Shortly after the doors were opened Col. E. M. Watson and Capt. E. H. Bastedo, military and naval aids to the President, marched to the casket bearing a large wreath of bay leaves, bound with a simple streamer of dull bronze taffeta. Laying this on the casket, the officers paused a moment, saluted, and withdrew.

Vice-President Garner led the Congressional delegation past the casket.

Congressional Special Passes Through St. Louis.

The special 10-car train of Senators, Congressmen and other Washington officials, who attended the funeral of Senator Robinson, passed through St. Louis early this morning, arriving over the Missouri Pacific at 3:08 a. m., and departing a half hour later over the Baltimore & Ohio for Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill to authorize a $21,460,000 construction and rehabilitation program at military posts and forts in the United States, Panama and Hawaii.

The amounts for the larger projects in the United States include $2,880,000 for Chanute Field, Ill.; $2,275,000 for the Air Corps Technical School at Denver, Colo., and $1,770,000 for Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Colorado. Of the total, $3,302,300 would be used in Hawaii and $3,067,800 in Panama.

NEW YORK STATE FEELS THIRD EARTHQUAKE IN ITS HISTORY

Slight Tremors Jolt Long Island and Brooklyn, but Fail to Reach Manhattan.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The third earthquake in the history of New York ended with no apparent damage last midnight except to the nerves of residents of Long Island, where the earth tremors centered.

The earthquake, described by Dr. L. Don Leet, director of the Harvard University seismograph station, as of "slight intensity," began at 11:52 p. m. and lasted for about three minutes. The shocks were felt in sections of Connecticut and Long Island, but did not extend to Manhattan Island. Bungalows at nearby beaches rocked.

Dr. Leet said the movement centered 160 miles from the seismograph station at Cambridge, Mass. This would place the quake's origin, he said, roughly "in the middle of Long Island."

Dr. Leet said records showed "some damage" was done by a quake in New York City in 1893. Another, in 1884, did no damage.

LIQUOR INDUSTRY URGED TO ACCEPT SANE CONTROL

U. S. Alcohol Chief Is Speaker at National Conference of State Administrators.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 19.—W. S. Alexander, chief of the Federal Alcohol Administration, told the national conference of state liquor administrators today that prohibition's return would be far distant if the liquor industry submitted to sane control.

"Prohibition was a lesson the liquor industry will not soon forget," he said. "Except for a few instances, the industry now is reasonably clean. If it remains so, prohibition's return will be far distant."

Alexander said far-sighted members of the industry agreed on the necessity for unified State and Federal enforcement and for stringent regulation of the liquor business. He urged the states to follow the Federal Alcohol Administration in condemning deceptive labeling, undesirable advertising, commercial bribery, conditional liquor sales and exclusive liquor outlets.

EARHART HUNT ENDS AND SHIPS SAIL FOR HOME

U. S. Navy Vessels Give Up Search After Covering 250,000 Square Miles in South Pacific.

FLYER AND AID MISSING 16 DAYS

Not a Single Casualty During the Operations —No Official Estimate Given of the Cost.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, July 19. — Four United States Navy vessels and the 1500 men who sought Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Frederick Noonan, for 16 days, gave them up for dead today and sailed for home.

More than 250,000 square miles of equatorial ocean, reefs and islands were searched by ship and plane in the region of tiny Howland Island, which the pair tried to reach on a 2700-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea. Miss Earhart was circling the earth "just for fun," she said, but also to blaze possible new commercial routes.

The naval hunt, which began a few minutes after the pair were overdue at Howland, was called off when navy authorities decided they had exhausted every possibility of ever finding the flyers.

George Palmer Putnam, motion picture executive husband of Miss Earhart, who obtained leave from his duties to further her world-flight plans, declared in Los Angeles: "I am deeply appreciative of what the navy has done."

Ships in the Search.

The aircraft carrier Lexington, with its 63 planes, and three destroyers were the last searching vessels. Last week the Coast Guard cutter Itasca, the minesweeper Swan and the battleship Colorado steamed toward this port after searching thousands of square miles by air and sea.

Beginning with the hunt by the Itaska and Swan, stationed in the vicinity of Howland to aid the flyers in event of trouble, and climaxed by the arrival of the Lexington, the search attained a magnitude never before seen.

By air and sea, the search extended for a radius of 300 to 600 miles around Howland, 1500 miles south of here. All possible land havens were covered but Friday the Navy concluded the flyers had not landed on any of them.

The Lexington continued sending planes out Saturday and yesterday, however. The Lexington will return to San Diego.

No Casualties in Hunt.

Despite magnitude of the search, not a single casualty was reported. The cost of the search was not estimated officially. Planes from the Lexington flew more than 70,000 miles.

The search was disheartening from the beginning, due to lack of definite information as to the position of Miss Earhart's plane when it flashed its last message on July 2—"We are in the position of 157-37. . . . We are now running north and south." She reported gasoline was running low and she could see no land.

Numerous radio messages were received, but apparently none was authentic.

NEW ARMY COMBAT PLANE CARRIES SIX MACHINE GUNS

Craft, Manned by Crew of Five, to Operate in Sub-Stratosphere at 30,000 Feet.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The army is ready to send into the air what it terms the most formidable fighting plane in the world—a monoplane for combat in the sub-stratosphere.

The new five-seater fighter, being prepared for test flights at Buffalo, N. Y., is a radical departure from previous military designs. The Air Corps will devise new tactics to fit its use up to altitudes of 30,000 feet. The all-metal, armored plane is a twin-motored "pusher" with propellers behind the wings, carries six machine guns and light bombs, and has new devices to increase its speed and fighting power.

The War Department said the plane had been designed to cope with the "giant bombing planes of the flying fortress type now flying in the leading nations of the world." After factory tests, the plane will be flown to Wright Field, Dayton, O., for experimental flights by army men, and then sent to the General Headquarters Air Force at Langley Field, Va. Officials emphasized the new plane is not a small airplane, as have been previous pursuit planes. It will have a pilot, co-pilot-navigator, radio operator-gunner and two outboard wing gunners. The new plane has heated compartments for the crew, because otherwise the airmen would have to work in frigid temperatures at the 30,000 foot ceiling.

EARHART HUNT ENDS AND SHIPS SAIL FOR HOME

U. S. Navy Vessels Give Up Search After Covering 250,000 Square Miles in South Pacific.

Not a Single Casualty During the Operations —No Official Estimate Given of the Cost.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, July 19. — Four United States Navy vessels and the 2500 men who sought Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Frederick Noonan, for 16 days, gave them up for dead today and sailed for home.

More than 250,000 square miles of equatorial ocean, reefs and islands were searched by ship and plane in the region of tiny Howland Island, which the pair tried to reach on a 7000-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea. Miss Earhart was circling the earth "just for fun," she said, but also to blaze possible new commercial routes.

The naval hunt, which began a few minutes after the pair were overdue at Howland, was called off when navy authorities decided they had exhausted every possibility of ever finding the flyers.

George Palmer Putnam, motion picture executive husband of Miss Earhart, who obtained leave from his duties to further her world-flight plans, declared in Los Angeles: "I am deeply appreciative of what the navy has done."

Ships in the Search.

The aircraft carrier Lexington, with its 63 planes, and three destroyers were the last searching vessels. Last week the Coast Guard cutter Itasca, the minesweeper Swan and the battleship Colorado steamed toward this port after searching thousands of square miles by air and sea.

Beginning with the hunt by the Itaska and Swan, stationed in the vicinity of Howland to aid the flyers in event of trouble, and climaxed by the arrival of the Lexington, the search attained a magnitude never before seen.

By air and sea, the search extended for a radius of 300 to 600 miles around Howland, 1500 miles south of here. All possible land havens were covered but Friday the Navy concluded the flyers had not landed on any of them.

The Lexington continued sending planes out Saturday and yesterday, however. The Lexington will return to San Diego.

No Casualties in Hunt.

Despite magnitude of the search, not a single casualty was reported. The cost of the search was not estimated officially. Planes from the Lexington flew more than 70,000 miles.

The search was disheartening from the beginning, due to lack of definite information as to the position of Miss Earhart's plane when it flashed its last message on July 2—"We are in the position of 157-337. . . . We are now running north and south." She reported gasoline was running low and she could see no land.

Numerous radio messages were received, but apparently none was authentic.

NEW ARMY COMBAT PLANE CARRIES SIX MACHINE GUNS

Craft, Manned by Crew of Five, to Operate in Sub-Stratosphere at 30,000 Feet.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The army is ready to send into the air what it terms the most formidable fighting plane in the world—a monoplane for combat in the sub-stratosphere.

The new five-seater fighter, being prepared for test flights at Buffalo, N. Y., is a radical departure from previous military designs. The Air Corps will devise new tactics to fit its use up to altitudes of 30,000 feet. The all-metal, armored plane is a twin-motored "pusher" with propellers behind the wings, carries six machine guns and light bombs, and has new devices to increase its speed and fighting power.

The War Department said the plane had been designed to cope with the "giant bombing planes of the flying fortress type now flying the leading nations of the world." After factory tests, the plane will be flown to Wright Field, Dayton, O., for experimental flights by army men, and then sent to the General Headquarters Air Force at Langley Field, Va. Officials emphasized the new plane is not a small airplane, as have been previous pursuit planes. It will have a pilot, co-pilot-navigator, radio operator-gunner and two outboard wing gunners. The new plane has heated compartments for the crew, because otherwise the airmen would have to work in frigid temperatures at the 30,000 foot ceiling.

WADER DROWNED

ROY WALTER HEFFERNAN

Italy Self-Sufficient in Wheat.

ROME, July 19.—Edmundo Rossoni, Minister of Agriculture, told Italian farmers in a radio address yesterday that Italy this wear achieved self-sufficiency in wheat. He said the harvest for 1937 exceeds 80,000,000 quintals, (about 292,000,000 bushels) and that Italy was the only country which kept the price of bread unchanged in the last year.

DROWNS IN BIG RIVER, WADING AT CEDAR HILL

Roy Walter Heffernan, 21, Loses Balance and Falls Ten Feet Offshore.

Roy Walter Heffernan, a broker's clerk, was drowned yesterday afternoon when wading in the Big River at Cedar Hill. He was 21 years old and lived with his parents at 4720 Alma avenue.

With his parents, his three brothers and other relatives, he had gone to the river on a family outing

An inexperienced swimmer, he had been warned by his father to be careful and was wading only 10 feet off shore when the current apparently caused him to lose his balance and fall into deep water. He disappeared immediately, and his brother Robert, 19, also wading, was unable to assist him.

Recent rains have made the river at that point unusually high and swift.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., July 19.—Christina Cook, 17 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook of Essex, was drowned yesterday when bathing at Black River Beach here.

Through the City of TOMORROW Without a STOP

—predicts NORMAN BEL GEDDES

"Vehicles will be routed through the cities of 1960 on thoroughfares specifically designed to carry traffic moving at several established speeds," says Mr. Geddes, authority on future trends.

"A network of 50-mile-an-hour Express Highways in the city will handle all traffic going ten blocks or more, creating a continuous flow of cars, uninterrupted by stop lights, intersections or pedestrians.

"On Local Streets, elevated sidewalks will carry pedestrian traffic above streets . . . main building entrances and shop windows will be on second-story level. Trucks will be loaded and cars parked in open areas beneath buildings. Thus the entire width of street—from building-line to building-line—will be clear for motor traffic . . ."

. . . but TODAY, 4 miles in 5 are Stop and Go

YOU can drive up to ten miles on the amount of gasoline wasted by your 30 daily stops! 30 stops a day is the nation-wide average. The costliest kind of driving you do, both in time and money, is stop and go.

While leading traffic authorities are planning "the City of Tomorrow," Shell engineers have developed a fuel, Super-Shell, made especially to meet today's driving problem today.

They have found a way to rearrange the entire chemical structure of gasoline . . . actually they have balanced it.

Automotive engineers have a term for Super-Shell. They call it "motor-digestible," so quickly and completely is its energy changed into power . . . at all motor speeds.

You'll cut the cost of your stop and go by the regular use of Super-Shell. There's a Shell dealer near you.

PICCARD TO GO UP AGAIN; AIM IS STRATOSPHERE

Scientist Says His Test Flight Proved Practicability of Multi-Ballooned Craft.

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 19.—Dr. Jean Piccard announced today he would make a stratosphere flight in his new type aircraft made up of many small balloons.

He said his test ascension yesterday, in which he rose 11,000 feet in a gondola lifted by 95 small balloons, had proved its practicability. He landed after six hours in a tree at Lansing, Ia.

After his return here today, Piccard said he was seeking a sponsor for a high altitude flight in a similar craft. "We have learned many things," he said, "but there are some changes to be made."

He said his wife, who directed inflation of his craft here and who made a stratosphere flight with him from Detroit in 1934, would go along on the next trip. The Swiss-born scientist said he would use a sealed gondola, such as the one employed in the Detroit flight, for the next ascension.

Multi-Ballooned Craft Burns.

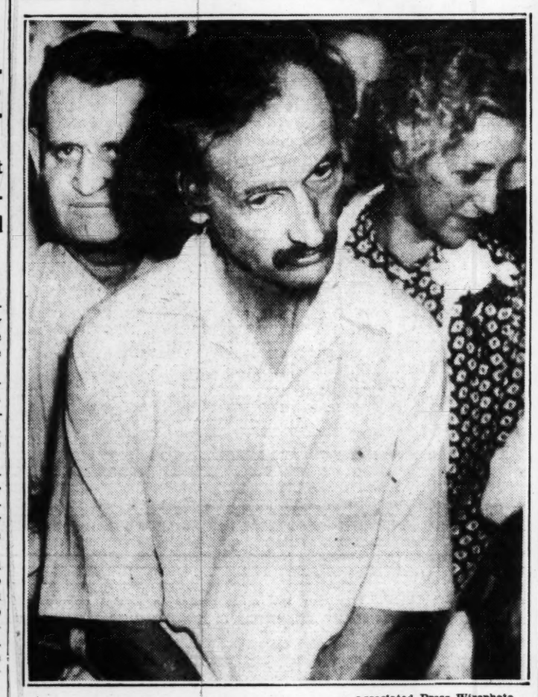

He said he did not consider the fire, which broke out in the gondola as he landed in a deep valley in northeastern Iowa, destroying the duraluminum shell and damaging the equipment, a serious matter.

"It was unfortunate," Mrs. Piccard said, "but the really big thing is that the balloon has proved practical for the work."

Twisted and charred wreckage was all that remained today of the craft, The Pleiades.

Dr. Piccard studied the results of the flight from mental notes.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

DR. JEAN PICCARD,

Fire which enveloped the novel craft as it landed in a clump of trees destroyed his delicate instruments and the data they recorded. The landing point was about 75 miles by air from here, where he took off Saturday midnight.

Escapes With Singed Hair.

Dr. Piccard escaped from his flaming "bath tub" gondola with nothing more than singed hair. The scientists said the fire might have been caused by the explosion of TNT which he detonated in order to facilitate the descent. The explosive blasted away the upper half of the 95 four-foot balloons filled with hydrogen gas.

Dr. Piccard took off from an athletic field at Rochester at 12:08 a. m., Sunday. He carried ultra-short wave radio equipment to communicate with his ground crew, but the latter lost contact about 3 a. m.

About daylight the craft began to lose altitude after reaching a height of 11,000 feet. Dr. Piccard cut loose some of the balloons with his sheath knife, but they caught in those above, so he used a pistol to "kill" about a dozen of them. He released the last cluster of bags immediately before landing.

The gondola plunged into the tree tops, bumped to earth and burst into flames as Dr. Piccard climbed from it.

It took Dr. Piccard an hour to walk to a farmhouse, where he announced himself. While his ground crew, newspaper reporters and cameramen were hunting for him many miles away, Dr. Piccard rode over twisting, rutted back roads from the farm to Lansing. There he calmly informed his wife, wating at Rochester, that he had landed.

URGES N. E. A. EDITORS TO FIGHT CLOSED SHOP

Stahlman, A. N. P. A. President, Addresses Convention of Non-Metropolitan Papers.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 19.—James G. Stahlman of Nashville, Tenn., president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, appealed to members of the National Editorial Association today to join in the A. N. P. A. opposition to a "closed news or editorial shop."

Stahlman, named chairman of "the newspaper committee" at a meeting of publishers and editors in Chicago three weeks ago, was principal speaker at the opening session of the fifty-second annual convention of the N. E. A., made up of publishers and editors of non-metropolitan papers.

Stahlman told of the action in the Chicago meeting, and said that Clayton T. Rand of Gulfport, Miss., president of the N. E. A. had sent a telegram to the meeting promising the "co-operation" of his organization.

Asks for Joint Effort.

"Taking you at his word," Stahlman said, "I am commissioned by my associates on that committee, representing practically all the two thousand daily newspapers in America, to extend a cordial invitation to the National Editorial Association to affiliate with the committee and join us in this effort to protect and defend a free press.

"Never has there been such a clear call to duty to the country, to its institutions, its people as ings in the ears of the Newspaper Publishers of America today," Stahlman declared. "The challenge is before us.

"If there is doubt in the mind of any sane man that 'the time is out of joint,' let him look about him. If any of you harbor any such doubts, turn to the pages of your own newspapers for confirmation.

"The world has gone haywire. And unless the press of America fulfills its high mission in the days that are ahead, we, too, will find that we have gone the way of the past."

"Freedom of the press" Stahlman defined as "responsibility to keep the people informed through a truthful and unbiased presentation of the news to which they are entitled and which will enable them to determine those things of a public nature which are either favorable or inimical to their own welfare and to act accordingly."

"Never in the history of the American commonwealth," Stahlman said, was there "such an opportunity for constructive service on the part of its press. Never has there been such a clear call to duty."

"I have heard it said that the people of America are tired of hearing about 'freedom of the press,' that 'freedom of the press' has become shopworn and trite. Shopworn? Maybe. Trite? Perhaps. But to me it is as fundamental as the decalogue and as eternal as the stars.

"A free press does not mean my right, or yours, as a publisher, to publish whatever we please, to violate any laws, to invade personal privacy, or to ignore the ethics of a great profession.

"It does mean our responsibility to comment fairly and intelligently in our editorial columns upon those things in order that we may help an informed people reach sound and enlightened decisions on matters most affecting their present and their future.

"A free press is nobody's right except a free people's. Newspapers are but trustees of that right and we can only deserve to hold it by proper and unselfish observation of our responsibilities in a republic such as ours."

Prior to the opening of the first session, President Rand said, "There is no doubt the National Editorial Association will indorse the newspaper committee's stand on freedom of the press and opposition to the closed editorial shop."

"Our interest is more an academic concern with freedom of the press," Rand said, since the closed shop, so far, "is not much of a problem to the small town newspaper publisher."

FORMER MAYOR IS PAROLED

John Schnepp of Springfield, Ill., Embezzled Estate Funds.

By the Associated Press.

CHESTER, Ill., July 19.—John Schnepp, 70 years old, former Mayor of Springfield, Ill., was paroled today from the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard. He was convicted of embezzlement of funds from an estate after his appointment as conservator. He was sentenced to a tearm of one to 10 years in May, 1935.

Schnepp accompanied by his wife, daughter and son-in-law, left by automobile for Springfield early today.

TITLE WORKERS TO ORGANIZE

C I O Signing Up Employes of Two St. Louis Firms.

Organization of about 300 employes of two title examining firms in St. Louis has been started by the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Temporarily the title examiners are being enrolled in the United Retail Employes, a union of store clerks, which is also organizing employes of the three large department stores in the city. A spokesman for the C I O said the title examiners had requested organization.

C I O STARTS ENROLLMENT OF U. S. EMPLOYES IN CITY

James T. H. Nash, Former Immigration Inspector, Is Directing Campaign.

The drive to organize Federal Government employes under the Committee for Industrial Organization began in St. Louis last week with the arrival of James T. H. Nash, former Immigration Inspector here, now an organizer for the C I O.

Nash hopes to enroll about 2000 Government workers in the St. Louis area in the United Federal Workers of America. Organized along characteristic C I O lines, the union is open to all classifications of Government workers except executives. No effort will be made to enlist Postoffice employes, who have their own American Federation of Labor unions, Nash said.

As soon as interest in the organization is stimulated through personal solicitation, meetings will be held, Nash said. The union has for its aims improvement in wages and working conditions. This must be done through legislation, as the Government signs no wage contracts with its employes, Nash said. He pointed out that the strong unions of Postoffice workers had accomplished beneficial results for their members.

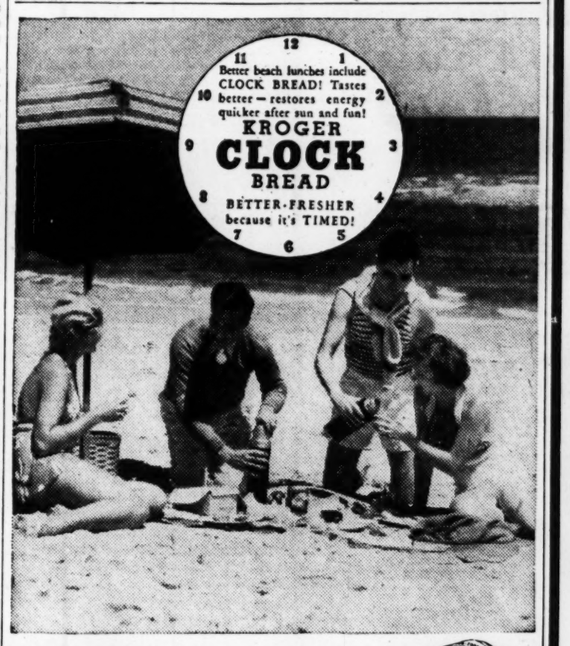

Nash, who retired from the immigration service on pension in 1933, has also been authorized to organize state, county and municipal employes under the C I O.

ELECTION BOARD AIDS REPORT ON METHODS IN OTHER CITIES

Meeting Held to Hear Clerks, Back From Nine-Day Inspection Trip.

The Election Board met this afternoon to receive a report from its two chief clerks, Richard D. Hatton, Democrat, and George Hug, Republican, on their recent nine-day trip, in which they studied permanent registration methods in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston and Cincinnati.

William H. Woodward, chairman of the board, declined to make public the report, pending a study by the members. The report includes principally recommendations for types of equipment and supplies. The inspection trip was decided on in connection with plan for operation of the permanent registration law, passed at the last session of the Legislature. The effectiveness of the new law in preventing fraud is in doubt, because it has no signature requirement for voters.

300 BOYS, GIRLS OPEN NAZI CAMP IN EAST

8000 Parent Members of Volksbund Attend Ceremonies Near Andover, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

ANDOVER, N. J., July 19. — Three hundred uniformed boys and girls settled down today to the routine of outdoor life at Nordland, Nazi-emblemed camp in the Sussex hills, after a day of "Heiling," folk-dancing and beer-drinking by 8000 parent members of the German-American Volksbund.

The 100-acre tract is one of 21 camps in the United States where more than 200,000 children of German descent spend the summer hiking, swimming, playing, and sun-bathing, said Fritz Kuhn, New York chemical engineer, who is the Volksbund leader.

The boys and girls think the camp is great, but find the militaristic discipline a bit strict. One rule is that all conversation must be in German. The object, said one leader, Fred Espenschied, is that the youngsters "won't forget they're German."

All comers were welcome—including those who sought a Federal investigation on the charge the camp was under Nazi control—at the first of the season's adult gatherings yesterday.

Flying the Stars and Stripes and Swastika banners, 1000 uniformed men accompanied by a military guard paraded by a platform featuring a picture of Chancellor Hitler.

Joining in the ceremonies were a group of Italian World War veterans headed by Dr. Salvatore Caridi, who told "my Nazi friends:"

"We are the best law-abiding citizens in the United States and we don't like to have anyone insult the leaders of the nations from which we come."

The crowd applauded when Rudolph Markmann, Eastern district leader of the Volksbund, said "we are against John L. Lewis and the C I O and will fight the because they are Communists ruled by Moscow."

After the program of speech Heil and Fascist salutes, the Volksbund turned to picknicking, beer wurst-eating and beer drinking. Dancing and singing wound up the day.

BRITAIN DEMANDS REBELS FREE ONE CAPTURED SHIP

Gen. Franco Warned He Will Be Held Responsible for Any Damage to Freighter Molton.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19. — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden disclosed to the House of Commons today that Great Britain has demanded that Spanish insurgents release the captured British merchantman Molton.

Eden said the demand was sent to Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco through Sir Herbert Chilton, British Ambassador to Spain who is at Hendaye, on the French-Spanish border.

The demand, he said, warned Gen. Franco that Britain would hold him responsible for any damage to the freighter.

Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced last Wednesday that the British ship had been captured by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera. The Admiralty office said the Molton was stopped inside Spanish territorial waters trying to reach Santander, major insurgent objective on the Bay of Biscay coast.

Two British warships steamed out of St. Jean de Luz, France, today after the Admiralty had announced another British merchantman, the Candleston Castle, had been "captured by an insurgent warship inside Spanish territorial waters."

An Admiralty spokesman denied, however, that the sudden departure of the battleship Royal Oak and the destroyer Basilisk was connected with the capture of the British ship.

The Candleston Castle, which formerly sailed under the name of Seven Seas Spray, was captured Saturday and was understood to be under convoy of insurgent warships to Ferrol, on the North Spanish coast.

The vessel's owners received a telegram from the Captain saying he and the crew were safe, but the message did not state the ship's position or whether it was still in insurgent hands.

As the Seven Seas Spray, the ship was the first to run the insurgent blockade and reach Bilbao with food supplies during the siege last April.

Both of the British warships departed in the direction of Spain so suddenly that five officers of the Royal Oak were left ashore. They overtook the battleship in a speedboat a mile and a half at sea.

The Candleston Castle had been lying off Santander, its owners stated, waiting for a chance to slip into the harbor to take out refugees. Santander is the last important northern city still in Government hands. A crew of 23 under Capt. Herbert was aboard.

In April the ship was stopped by the insurgents but was permitted to proceed even though supplies were being carried to Bilbao.

In a similar encounter off Santander two weeks ago insurgent warships halted the French freighter Tregastel, but released it a few days later.

POLICE MAKE NO DRIVE ON SALE OF BEER SUNDAY

Many of City's Taverns Were Closed Sunday as Result of Rumors.

Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel and Acting Chief of Police John H. Glassco said today they had made no order for a drive to enforce State and city regulations forbidding sale of liquor from midnight Saturday until midnight Sunday.

They said the closing of a number of taverns in the downtown district and on Grand boulevard at midnight Saturday, an exception to general disregard of regulations, apparently was a voluntary response to unauthentic reports that such a drive was contemplated. The law does not require closing during the Sunday period, but only forbids sale, and the city ordinance, less stringent than the State law, exempts 3.2 beer from the ban after 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

McDaniel said his office is not a policing agency, but acts in a judicial capacity upon complaints presented by police.

ADVANCE IN MEAT PRICES LAID TO DROUTH OF 1935

Retailers Point Out Many Farmers Sold Most of Stock; Labor Costs Also Factor.

Recent sharp advances in the price of beef and pork are attributed by retailers to a shortage caused by the 1935 drouth, when many farmers sold most of their stock.

The price of beef has increased about 45 per cent in the last month, porterhouse steaks now retailing for 45 to 60 cents a pound and other cuts selling for 35 to 50 cents a pound. Pork chops, selling at 32 cents a pound two weeks ago, now are 39 cents.

Also contributing to higher prices, butchers said, was the wage increase recently obtained by union meat cutters. Fish prices have increased as much as 7 cents a pound in the last month. A late freeze in California last spring has sent the price of oranges and lemons up about $1.50 a box and plums, freestone peaches and carrots are higher.

DOUBT OF PASSAGE OF REORGANIZATION BILL

Late Senator Robinson, as Chairman of Committee, Was in Charge of Measure

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The death of Majority Leader Robinson has raised new doubts about the future of the administration bill to reorganize the executive branch of government. Some legislators said its chances for passing at this session have diminished.

Robinson, they said, was almost the only member of the Senate's R-organization Committee to take an active part in pushing the bill. As chairman he directed a preliminary study of the measure and drafted a revised version which he introduced in the Senate shortly before his death.

Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, who lays more stress on curtailing Government expenses through reorganization than do backers of the administration proposal, expressed opposition to quick action on the bill. He said he would demand full public hearings. Before Robinson's death, Byrd said, the majority leader agreed to hold hearings before submitting the measure to the Senate. Byrd estimated several months would be necessary to explore the subject adequately.

Under the Robinson bill the President would be given broad power to transfer, group, consolidate or abolish agencies of government, although his acts would be subject to congressional review. The measure calls for extension of the merit system and establishment of a career service.

The general accounting office would be brought under the Budget Bureau, with a general auditing office set up to make a post audit of public accounts.

The bill would also create a new Cabinet post, the department of public welfare, and would authorize appointment of six executive assistants to the President.

MICHIGAN'S TRUCK STRIKE ENDS IN TRUCE

Detroit Milkmen's Walkout Also Settled—Closed Shop Agreements Signed.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19. — The statewide truck strike ended Saturday in a 30-day truce and the Detroit milkmen's walkout was settled by individual agreements between creamery operators and union employes.

Gov. Frank Murphy met representatives of intra-state trucking operators and their employes in Muskegon and announced their differences would be studied by a five-man commission.

In Detroit's strike of dairy workers and milk delivery men normal conditions were restored this morning following closed shop agreements with the United Dairy Workers' Union, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The H. A. McDonald Creamery Co. and the Michigan Farmers' Dairy signed the agreements Sunday. Earlier the Borden Farm Products Co., the Rosebud Creamery Co. and the Liberty Dairy Co. had consented to the closed shop principle, Borden signing Saturday and the other two agreeing to sign Monday.

Three Truck Firms at Akron Sign Union Contracts.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., July 19.—Partial settlement of the truck drivers' strike which has tied up freight hauling out of Akron since Friday was reached today when three truck firms signed union contracts.

C. O. Nichols, secretary of the Truck Drivers' Local, said nearly 400 drivers and other employes would return to work immediately. Companies involved were the C C C Highway, Inc., Commercial Motor Freight, Inc., and Motor Express, Inc.

ACID TEST COMING FOR ROOSEVELT IN EVENTS OF WEEK

tion to adjourn Congress at an early date, such as Aug. 1 or Aug. 15.

The Roosevelt forces will have two positive courses open: (1) To continue the debate, or (2) to advance a second "compromise." If the first plan is followed, the President will win or lose, but even if he achieves victory it will be at a tremendous sacrifice of party harmony and discipline. The Democratic party will continue split wide open and his pending New Deal proposals will encounter doubtful fates. If the second course is taken, it will be a signal that the opposition has won another battle, similar to its victory over the original White House bill.

Adjournment Issue.

The opposition said last week that it had four or five more votes to recommit than it had against the bill. The same claim is made for a general adjournment resolution. The possibility of an adjournment resolution recalls the President's diplomatic answer at a press conference several weeks ago.

A reporter asked: "Mr. President, will you accept an adjournment resolution by Congress?"

In reply, Mr. Roosevelt launched into a theoretical discussion of his constitutional powers over the adjournment of Congress, pointing out that he had authority to adjourn Congress only when the two Houses could not agree on an adjournment date. The reporter pointed out that while this was sound constitutional law, in actual politics, the President as head of the party in power could tell his congressional leaders what he wanted and what he would accept as to adjournment.

The President merely smiled and declined to answer. At this particular time, he will, of course, tell his leaders whether Congress shall or shall not stay in session, and if an adjournment resolution is passed over his objection, the result would be the same as an outright defeat of the court plan or as recommittal of the "compromise" to the Judiciary Committee.

Robinson's Successor.

The close division among the Democrats on the leadership, the court plan, and the possible motions to recommit and for adjournment is implicit in the Roosevelt proposal that Gov. Bailey of Arkansas appoint a successor to Senator Robinson at the earliest date.

The Governor himself would like to have the position, according to reports reaching Washington, and doesn't like the idea of appointing a man who might want to run in the special election required by the Arkansas law.

Mrs. Caraway, the widow of Senator Caraway of Arkansas, came to the Senate on the appointment of the Governor and, with the help of the late Huey Long of Louisiana, upset the plans of the State Democratic machine by running for and winning the senatorship in her own right.

Senator Robinson was a leader of his party in his state as well as in the Senate. His death has created as much confusion there as in Washington. But Gov. Bailey may have to bow to national exigencies and appoint a man quickly for White House benefit. The division is so close that the one vote may decide the issue.

MOTION TO SHELVE COURT BILL LIKELY

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD SPECIAL CONGRESSIONAL TRAIN, July 19.—Opponents of President Roosevelt's substitute bill to remake the Supreme Court announced today they would move for a Senate vote on the issue early this week.

Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, a leader of the opposition, said a motion to send the measure back to hostile Judiciary Committee for further study probably would be made tomorrow. He added: "We are confident we can carry the motion by a comfortable margin."

This was the first public statement on the controversy made by a member of the congressional delegation which accompanied the body of Senator Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, to Little Rock for burial. It marked the end of the political truce declared after the Senate Democratic leader's death Wednesday.

If the motion to recommit is carried, the bill would be buried for the rest of this session. Defeat of the motion, many Senators agreed, might cause a speedy collapse of the opposition, which counts on showing its greatest strength on the motion.

"Ready to Vote Any Time."

In reply to Burke, Senator Minton (Dem.), Indiana, a defender of the bill, declared: "We are ready to vote any time, and I know that we can win."

Other opposition leaders privately agreed with Burke's prediction that a vote would come a few hours after this special train, carrying 39 Senators, reaches Washington. They scheduled a club-car caucus for this evening, when they will work out details of their strategy. It will be attended by Burke and Senators Wheeler (Dem.), Montana; O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming; Clark (Dem.), Missouri, and half a dozen others who have been active in the fight.

Vice-President Garner, who joined the party at Little Rock, told the Senators he would take no part in the controversy. He conferred today with both candidates for the majority leadership, Senators Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, and Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, but carefully avoided any appearance of favoritism.

Postmaster-General Farley continued consultations with Senators on both sides of the court fight, but made little progress toward a compromise.

Burke declared bluntly he would "fight to the last ditch" any compromise, particularly one which Farley and his aids were said to have discussed, which would exempt present members of the Supreme Court from the application of any measure Congress might enact at this time.

In the meantime administration leaders were awaiting word from Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas on whether he will appoint a temporary successor to Senator Robinson. He told some Senators he preferred to leave the seat vacant until a special election can be held, probably Sept. 14, but administration supporters urged him to make an interim appointment on the ground that they need every possible vote. Gov. Bailey has been consistently friendly to the New Deal.

GREEN CALLS COUNCIL TO TALK OVER C I O

Mine Workers Meanwhile Will Hold Meeting to Discuss His Ouster.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—William Green summoned the American Federation of Labor's Executive Council yesterday to meet Aug. 21 in Atlantic City, N. J., to prepare a fall campaign against John L. Lewis. Expressing satisfaction with the Federation's membership campaign so far, Green said the council would canvass the entire C I O situation and decide how best the A. F. of L. could increase its gains and combat Lewis.

Meantime, members of the United Mine Workers international board assembled for a meeting Tuesday to decide whether to oust Green from the union for alleged "treason." Green has been a member of Lewis' union since it was organized in 1890. Last fall, however, the international board accused him of treason.

Green reported that the federation's membership had increased rapidly since 10 C I O unions were suspended last September. On July 1, he said, the total was 3,091,000, or 652,000 above the total for Aug. 31 last year. Suspension of the 10 unions cost the A. F. of L. nearly 1,000,000 members. The C I O claims a membership of more than 3,000,000.

Two of the principal questions to come before the A. F. of L. Executive Council are whether to recommend a permanent increase in dues and whether to extend industrial organization within the federation.

At its Cincinnati meeting last May the council asked all member unions to double their dues voluntarily to help finance the anti-Lewis campaign this summer. The regular dues are 1 cent for each member each month.

The C I O unions and the A. F. of L. first split over the issue of whether all the workers in each big industry should be organized into a single large union (the Lewis plan) or whether most workers should be organized by craft (the traditional A. F. of L. plan).

Each side in many instances has used the other's strategy as the fight developed. The electrical workers, an A. F. of L. union, for instance, has tried to organize employes in electrical manufacturing plants on an industrial basis. The C I O has organized bookkeepers and stenographers along craft lines.

PLEA FOR TWO-MILE CREEK SEWER DISTRICT IS HEARD

Judge Nolte Takes Petition for Incorporation Under Advisement; Cost Put at $169,000.

Petition for incorporation of the proposed Two-Mile Creek Sanitary Sewer District, covering a five-square-mile area north of Kirkwood and Glendale, was taken under advisement today by Circuit Judge Julius R. Nolte. Total cost of building six miles of trunk sanitary sewers, together with charges for connections with adjoining systems, would be about $169,000.

W. W. Horner, engineer for the proposed district, under court appointment, testified $73,000 would be raised by bond issue, $61,000 would be sought from the Public Works Administration and $35,000 in connection charges would be received from Kirkwood, the northern part of which would be drained by the system. The engineer said three trunsk are provided, one 18,000 feet long, following the general line of Two-Mile Creek, a second 8500 feet long, running from the northeast corner of Kirkwood and a third, 4500 feet long, connecting Kirkwood with the first trunk.

Drainage would be principally into sewers of the Ladue-Deer Creek system at Two-Mile Creek and Warson road. The proposed district is bounded roughly by Litzsinger road on the north, Manchester road on the south, Ballas road on the west and Warson road on the east. Included are Huntleigh and Royal Oak villages, the southern third of Ladue and a small corner of Rock Hill village. Most of the residences in the area are on large tracts, most of which now have septic tanks.

CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND writes

WHAM! HIS TIRE BLEW OUT AND A HAPPY VACATION CAME TO A SAD ENDING...

Read CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND'S True Story of a Massachusetts Motorist's "Close Call."

"The car had to be towed back to town"

HERE is a story from real life—and if it saves any lives I'll more than be repaid for my effort. It's about Rogers Cox of Newton Highlands, Mass. Rogers, his brother, sister and a friend had enjoyed two weeks of fishing, golfing, dancing, swimming. Now it was all over—except for the long drive back home. As they rolled along the Newburyport Turnpike the unexpected happened. It was just as if someone had stabbed a spike into a giant balloon. WHAM! A front tire collapsed. The car, out of control, side-swiped two trees before a third tree halted its wild course.

Motorists, when A TIRE BLOWS OUT—well, it's too late to be sorry then! The time for action is NOW—when you can easily drive in and say, "Put on Silvertowns all the way 'round." These tires have something no other tire can give you—the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific internal tire heat that causes many of these tragic blow-out accidents. By resisting this internal tire heat, the Golden Ply protects you and your family from blow-out dangers.

Rogers Cox has taken a long vacation from tire worries by having his car equipped with Golden Ply Silvertowns. Decide that you, too, are going to play safe, with Silvertowns. You pay no price premium for these super-quality, life-saving tires.

PARIS, MO., PASTOR TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY

He Holds Two-Hour Conference With Attorneys From Kansas City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FITTSFIELD, Ill., July 19.—The Rev. C. E. Newton will plead not guilty to a charge of murder in the killing of Mrs. Maybelle Kelly of Paris, Mo., it was announced today.

This decision was made known after the pastor had conferred for nearly two hours with two Kansas City attorneys, M. S. Turner and Daniel T. Johnson.

Judge A. Clay Williams said late today he would call a special grand jury to consider first degree murder charges against the pastor. The grand jury will report Friday morning. The State's Attorney had requested this action.

A hammer, believed to be the one the pastor used last Monday night, was found by a farmer yesterday in a roadside ditch near where Mrs. Kelly was killed. It was turned over to an officer to be taken to Sheriff Wendell Johnson here.

"That's the hammer," Johnson quoted Newton as saying when was shown him. The comment was made without any display of emotion.

Newton, in confessing the killing, was vague about what he used, saying that it was a dumbbell or a hammer or something. He claimed that if he used a hammer he did not know where he threw it. A dumbbell was found in his automobile, but the injuries on Mrs. Kelly's head seemed to have been inflicted with a hammer.

The State's Attorney will question the 51-year-old clergyman further later in an attempt to supplement the 11-page statement obtained Thursday night.

A missing $250 diamond ring and a wedding ring added new entanglements to the story of the death of Mrs. Kelly, 45, Newton's former parishioner.

The victim's husband reported the diamond gone from a safe deposit box, and said his wife's wedding ring was missing. Newton said Mrs. Kelly had given him the diamond ring two years ago for "safe keeping," but was unable to tell officers where it was. Kelly was quoted as saying that he saw the diamond last Christmos in his wife's possession.

The Prosecutor said bloody clothing found near Paris had been identified by Newton as that he wore at the time of Mrs. Kelly's death.

DIES AT BASEBALL GAME

Father, 57, Victim of Attack While Watching Son Play.

Joseph Sotolar, a laborer, 1814 Schild avenue, died Sunday, apparently of a heart attack, while watching his son playing a Municipal League baseball game at the Marquette playground, Virginia avenue and Osage street. The son, Frank, said his father, 57 years old, had been treated for a heart ailment for several years.

During the same game another spectator, John Kendzior, 3254 Delor street, was cut and bruised on the face when a bat slipped from the hands of one of the players and struck him.

HARRY BLEE,

NEOSHO (MO.) BANK ROBBERY SUSPECT SEIZED BY AGENTS

Federal Men Arrest Harry Blee in Los Angeles; To Be Returned to Kansas City, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Harry Blee, described as the last member at large of the O'Malley gang of bank robbers, has been arrested, Federal agents announced yesterday.

The fugitive was seized in Los Angeles Saturday by special agents to await removal to Kansas City, Mo., where he was indicted on Aug. 30, 1935, for participation in the $17,000 robbery of the First National Bank of Neosho, Mo.

Blee was captured without resistance, although a revolver was found in his room. Seven others have been apprehended in connection with the robbery, including Walter O'Malley, also known as Leo (Irish) O'Malley, who is serving a life sentence for participation in the kidnaping of August Luer, aged Alton (Ill.) banker, in 1933. The others are Jack Richards, Epp Melton, Virgil Melton, Fred Reese, Leonard Short and Clarence Sparger.

COMMISSION SELECTING 80 STUDENT PATROLMEN

Board Chooses Men From 102 Who Passed Physical and Mental Tests.

The Board of Police Commissioners today was selecting 80 student patrolmen from a group of 102 men who qualified in mental and physical examinations and personal interviews conducted by the board last week. Originally 459 men applied.

Today's elimination was on the basis of a second interview and a re-examination of records in last week's tests. Assisting the board were several members of the police department, including Acting Chief John H. Glassco and Chief of Detectives John J. Carroll. Mayor Dickmann, ex-officio member of the board, was present.

The 80 men finally chosen will enter upon a six months' course of instruction in police work, during which time they will receive $20 a week. At the conclusion of the course they will become probationary patrolmen at $155 a month.

BUDGE AND MAKO DEFEAT HENKEL AND VON CRAMM

Californians Rally After Dropping First Set of Match—Scores Are 4—6, 7—5, 8—6, 6—4—Final Singles Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 19. America's young California doubles combination of Don Budge and Gene Mako, whipped Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, today, 4—6, 7—5, 8—6, 6—4, and gave the United States a 2-1 lead in the Davis Cup international tennis finals with two more singles matches to be played.

Budge and Mako's brilliant victory in the crucial doubles test was regarded by most tennis critics as an almost certain guarantee that the Americans would win the series and thus gain the right to battle Great Britain for the coveted international trophy in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Even should Henkel defeat Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta in tomorrow's singles, Budge is considered a virtual certainty to whip Von Cramm for the deciding point.

Americans Come From Behind.

The Germans, battling fiercely to win the crucial double point, captured the opening set by cracking Mako's service in the eighth game and Budge's in the tenth.

They held a 5—3 lead in the second set but the Americans broke through Henkel's service in the ninth game and then drew level at 5—5 in the tenth. They gained their winning margin by breaking through Von Cramm in the eleventh game, Budge holding his delivery in the twelfth and final game.

In the third set, the Germans twice were within a point of breaking Mako's service in the tenth game. If they had succeeded they would have won the set at 6—4 but the Americans fought back, won the game and went on to capture the set by breaking through Henkel in the thirteenth game. Mako held his service in the fourteenth game for the set.

The Americans overcame a 4-1 lead in the fourth set to come from behind to gain the victory and give the United States its second point in the competition.

Germans Win First Game.

The Germans took the first game on Von Cramm's service after twice reaching deuce before Mako hit two outside the court. After losing the first three points in the second game on Budge's service, the Americans came back sharply to win it and draw level at one game all.

Games followed service in the third and four, each reaching deuce. The American pair however, cracked Von Cramm's service in the fifth game for a 3—2 lead and then held Budge's service in the sixth for a 4—2 lead.

The Germans managed to win the seventh game on Henkel's service after trailing, 15-30, and then broke Mako's delivery in the eighth with two perfect cross-court shots to draw level at 4—4.

The Germans then won the next two games and the set.

Budge Makes Great Smash.

The first two games of the second set followed service through Budge had to make a great smash to save the second on Mako's delivery.

Von Cramm held his service in the third game when Budge, overhit an easy smash. Budge, serving better than at any time during the match, tied it up again at 2—2 in the fourth game with the loss of only a single point.

Budge had the crowd in an uproar in the fifth game when he retrieved four straight smashes by the Germans, but Henkel kept backing in a hard first service and won the game to give the Teuton a 3-2 lead.

Mako, serving superbly, took the sixth game at love but Von Cramm

U. S. Leads Germany in Davis Cup Interzone Finals

BUDGE AND MAKO DEFEAT HENKEL AND VON CRAMM

Californians Rally After Dropping First Set of Match—Scores Are 4—6, 7—5, 8—6, 6—4—Final Singles Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 19. America's young California doubles combination of Don Budge and Gene Mako, whipped Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, today, 4—6, 7—5, 8—6, 6—4, and gave the United States a 3-1 lead in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals with two more singles matches to be played.

Budge and Mako's brilliant victory in the crucial doubles test was regarded by most tennis critics as an almost certain guarantee that the Americans would win the series and thus gain the right to battle Great Britain for the coveted international trophy in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Even should Henkel defeat Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta in tomorrow's singles, Budge is considered a virtual certainty to whip Von Cramm for the deciding point.

Americans Come From Behind.

The Germans, battling fiercely to win the crucial doubles point, captured the opening set by cracking Mako's service in the eighth game and Budge's in the tenth.

They held a 5—3 lead in the second set but the Americans broke through Henkel's service in the ninth game and then drew level at 5—5 in the tenth. They gained their winning margin by breaking through Von Cramm in the eleventh game, Budge holding his delivery in the twelfth and final game.

In the third set, the Germans twice were within a point of breaking Mako's service in the tenth game. If they had succeeded they would have won the set at 6—4 but the Americans fought back, won the game and went on to capture the set by breaking through Henkel in the thirteenth game. Mako held his service in the fourteenth game for the set.

The Americans overcame a 4-1 lead in the fourth set to come from behind to gain the victory and give the United States its second point in the competition.

Cellar No Longer Yawning for Browns; Team Is Improving

By James M. Gould.

Don Barnes' Browns aren't going to win a pennant this season. If this be treason or a rash prediction, the fans will have to make the most of it. But, on the other or financial hand, it is most probable that the club officials, posting their books after the campaign, will be able to note a profit. And that is something quite likely to appeal to the new owners.

In 1936, in 77 games at home, the then Browns played to 93,000—an average of 1208 a game. Already this year, with less than half the home season completed, the club has drawn 99,025 paid admissions, an average of 2676 a game. If this average is maintained—and it is likely to be for the club is playing pretty good ball—the total home attendance for 1937 would be 206,052, more than twice as big as last year.

The increased attendance is undoubtedly due to the hustling spirit of the players, their undoubted ability to "hit that ball" and their defensive play. Chances are that the new owners might have pointed to a tripled attendance in their first year had the pitching been up to the standard of the other departments.

Chance for Sixth Place.

There is little danger of a cellar-apartment this year and, with the Browns improving and the Washington Senators slipping badly, sixth place is not so far away. The Senators, at the moment, are six games ahead but this margin can be considerably cut in the coming series between the two clubs.

On the present home stay, the Browns have played .500 ball in six games, losing two of three to the first division Red Sox and taking the odd game in three from the Athletics. A very bad "break" held them even in yesterday's doubleheader with the Mackmen.

In the opener, Jim Walkup was the Brownie pitcher and though he won his sixth victory of the season by a comfortable 10-6 margin, Jim has seen better days. He allowed an even dozen hits, while three Philadelphia hurlers, permitting 11 between them, were miserably supported afield, the defense committing five errors.

Also, the eight passes handed out by Connie Mack's hurlers didn't exactly hurt the Brownie cause. In this game, Joe Vosmik was top-hitter for the Browns with three hits which drove in four runs. The Browns' big inning was the second when they scored four times, the Athletics putting on a three-run flurry in the fifth during which it looked as though Walkup were due for an early shower. But, he pulled himself and his pitching together and his last two innings were his best.

The second game was the more interesting of the two. After two innings, with Bonetti starting against Ross, the Mackmen had a 3-1 lead. Three runs in the third put the Browns a run to the good but two for the Athletics in the fourth put the Easteners in the

Brownies Idle; Play Yankees Two, Tomorrow

TODAY'S scheduled game with the Athletics having been postponed to a later date, the Browns had an off-day. Which, perhaps, is just as well, inasmuch as the league-leading Yankees open a series tomorrow with a doubleheader.

The Browns haven't had a large share of success against the New Yorkers thus far this season but Hornsby's team has shown real improvement of late and may make the series unexpectedly interesting.

SOUTH AMERICA SOCCER ELEVEN BEATS CANADA TO TAKE TITLE

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 19.—A vastly superior Argentine soccer team won the Pan-American games triangular tourney last night with a crushing 8-1 victory over Canada in the final game. Angel Laferrara, 19-year-old Argentine center forward and outstanding player of the meet, starred again, scoring four goals.

Despite the defeat tonight, the Canadians placed second under the total point system, beating out the third-place United States eleven by 2 points.

American fans again acclaimed Laferrara, who besides making half his team's goals, played a slashing, dribbling and defensive game. He kicked and headed nine goals into the net during the two games.

Several times the rangy Argentina missed easy chances at goals and sent the crowd into ripples of laughter when he beat on the goal posts in anger.

Pedro Agostini, clever ball juggler; Battaglia, expert dribbler, kicker and defensive star, and Gualdoni, left fullback defensive bulwark, came in for their share of applause.

Bounding B. Barrionuevo, Argentine goalie, wasn't pressed into service often because of the Canadians' feeble offensive, but he made three spectacular saves that sent the crowd wild. Leftback Olander of the Canadians gave him the most trouble with his fast dribbling and long range shots.

Laferrara started his scoring antics three minutes after the game started, taking a short pass from L. Carniglia and shooting a five-yard kick past Goalie Birch. At 13 minutes Sanchez, center half, gave the Argentinas their second goal with a left-footed boot that sped 40 yards before it hit the net on the fly.

At 29 minutes it was Laferrara again. He charged headlong into a mass of players in front of the goal, stole the ball away and angled in a goal.

Agostini grabbed the ball near the net, passed backward and watched Espuielli score the fourth goal after 10 minutes of the second half. Two minutes later Laferrara took a pass from Sanchez and booted another from inside the penalty circle.

The fans got their biggest thrill of the tournament when Agostini arched a 35-yard kick in front of the Canadian goal that Laferrara took on his head and butted in for another score after 17 minutes of the second period.

Agostini again figured in the scoring on the next goal when his long pass, intended for Laferrara in front of the goal, struck Right-back Ness on the leg and bounded into the net.

Two clever youngsters, Deambrossio and Sarlauga, tacked up the last goal, when, after dribbling between themselves for several yards, Deambrossio slanted in a hard shot.

The Canadians made their lone score on Olander's free shot that whizzed past Goalkeeper Barrionuevo after the Canadians were awarded a penalty shot.

CUBS WIN FROM BROOKLYN AND INCREASE LEAD

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 19. — The Chicago Cubs remained at the head of the National League and increased their lead to a full game today by defeating the Dodgers, 9 to 0. Tex Carleton went the route, limiting Brooklyn to six hits and giving the Cubs a clean sweep of the four-game series.

U. S. Ace in Cup Play

DON BUDGE

Looked upon as virtually a certain victor over Gottfried Von Cramm in the final singles matches of the inter-zone play. Leading 2 to 1, the American forces oppose the German in two singles contests with Bitsy Grant meeting Heinrich Henkel in the first and Budge opposing Von Cramm in the second. Should Grant lose it would be up to Budge to win and send the U. S. team into the challenge round against Great Britain.

Joe DiMaggio Hits Homer With Three On to Beat Bob Feller

By the Associated Press.

Old Blubber Malone is somewhat sore in certain portions of his anatomy today—but he figures it was worth it.

Just to keep the records straight, it must be explained that Old Blubber is a portly pitcher for the New York Yankees. Those who aren't his pals say his waistline, if stretched end to end, would make a good start on a cross-country highway. That being the case, violent exercise comes hard to Old Blubber.

But when he looked in from the bullpen at Cleveland yesterday and saw that home run shot of jolting Joe DiMaggio drop into the far-away left-field stands, bringing in four runs that sent blazing Bobby Feller down to a 5-1 defeat, Old Blubber just had to up and turn handsprings.

But more than causing Old Blubber to toss his heft around with no caution for his well-being, the clout that DiMaggio hit with the bases loaded, to break up a honey of a ball game, had a lot of added significance to Joe himself.

In the first place, it just piled on the already overwhelming evidence that he is the top sophomore in the baseball business this year. In the second, it gave a brand-new talking point to those who are carrying the torch for Joe as the season's most valuable player.

Ever since he came back to action after an early-season shoulder ailment, he has been powdering that apple at a terrific rate. Right now he's leading the big-time in homers—yesterday's was his twenty-fourth—and is giving his teammate, Lou Gehrig, a merry battle for the American League batting lead. Defensively, his arm is being talked of in the same breath as the greatest the game has known.

Yesterday, while most of the Yanks were fanning at thin air—Feller fanned seven—jarring Joe had a field day. He hit a triple and a double as well as his homer, drove in all five of the Yanks' runs, and generally put the needle in Feller's third straight futile "comeback" effort.

U. City Muny Scores.

The Jay B. Smiths trounced the Hannums, 7-4, and the Alexander & Sons team beat the Golubs, 9-3, in the opening games of the second half season in the University City Municipal Baseball League yesterday afternoon, at Heman Park.

DUROCHER DRIVES IN 2 RUNS; BERGER GETS HOMER IN 9TH

By J. Roy Stockton.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Silas Johnson, a Knight of the bull-pen during the early weeks of the pennant race, scored his fourth victory of the trip and his fifth of the season this afternoon when he held the Giants to six hits and gained the Cardinals' only triumph of their four-game series at the Polo Grounds, 3 to 2.

Johnson showed excellent control, going through nine hard innings without a single pass and his game was even better than the six-hit total of the enemy would indicate. One of the Giant runs was unearned, the result of a two-base error by Leo Durocher in the second inning and a scratch hit off Jim Brown's glove that should have been scored as an error. The other New York tally was a home run by Walter Berger in the ninth inning.

The Cardinals, making only eight hits off Harry Gumbert and Dick Coffman, were helped by the Giants' one error of the game. Mize double to start the ninth frame and when Bordagaray bunted for a sacrifice, Danning picked up the ball and his throw to first hit Bordagaray on the head, bounding into right field and Mize scored.

Durocher drove in the other two St. Louis runs with timely singles.

Three of the six New York hits were infield scratches.

NEW YORK, July 19.

Jess Haines or Mike Ryba will pitch against the Bees tomorrow in the first game of four to be played in three days. There will be a doubleheader Wednesday.

The final at the Polo Grounds attracted 5548 cash customers.

Terry Moore broke a string of 17 hitless trips to the plate with a single in the sixth and worked his way to third on Brown's sacrifice and Padgett's infield out, but Medwick ended the frame with a pop foul to Chiozza.

Medwick went hitless in four trips to the plate, suffering a shrinkage in his batting average. Joe failed to hit the ball out of the infield.

WRAY'S COLUMN

In the Black.

THE passing months slowly are grinding out the baseball grist this year, and the result, when translated into terms of the ledger, is likely to be all black. Even the second division teams seem to have a good chance to keep out of the red this year.

Our Browns, while not a conspicuous success artistically, probably will develop something on the bread-and-gravy side of the big book. The home attendance already has passed that of last year; fairly good away from home gates also have been noted. For the Cardinals, the remainder of the season will be velvet, thanks to a tremendous first half-season.

Even the Athletics, in the American League and the Phils in the National seem on the right side of the financial balance.

Time to Do Something.

BUT, in the American League in particular, something of an artistic or professional success will have to be forthcoming or there will be a return to the usual moaning of previous years.

The Browns, with the season not half over, this morning were 26½ games behind the Yankees and the Athletics are 29½ games in the rear. Cleveland, a club that was red-hot to grab the pennant early in the season, was in fifth place about 13½ games behind the leaders.

Fans have little interest in clubs that can't remain in the fight. They want winners, not losers. The hopeless second division team is still baseball's problem child.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Branch Rickey is expected to join the Cardinals at any minute now and it's too bad the general manager and big builder of the Red Birds wasn't in New York yesterday and able to attend the double-header that Frankie Frisch's Gas House Gang lost to the Giants of Bill Terry.

It was a financial success, that double-header. The two games attracted a crowd of 50,414 cash customers and that's a large crowd, especially when you consider that

WEINSTOCK DEFEATS THOMPSON IN COUNTY TENNIS FINAL

KEANEY, PARKER TEAM TRIUMPHS IN DOUBLES OF TITLE TOURNEY

New Singles Champion Rallies After Losing Two of First Three Sets of Match.

By Davison Obear.

Robert Weinstock, Washington University player defeated Frank Thompson, University of Virginia ace, 5—7, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1, 6—2 to capture the twenty-third annual St. Louis County men's singles tennis championship on the Westborough Country Club courts yesterday afternoon. He succeeds his brother, Herbert, as champion.

In winning, Weinstock gained permanent possession of the "Father Lynn" trophy donated four years ago by Charles F. Hoyt, a County tennis enthusiast. He won the first two legs on the trophy in 1934 and 1935, but did not defend the title last year.

The doubles championship went to Frank Keaney and Ward Parker, who defeated Herbert Weinstock and Joyce Portnoy, St. Louis district titleholders, 6—1, 4—6, 6—1, 6—0 in the final. It was the third tournament title for Keaney and Parker. They won the Missouri Valley doubles at Eldorado, Ark., last month and then captured the St. Louis Municipal doubles earlier this month.

The singles final produced some of the finest tennis seen in a county tournament in many years. Both players have good tennis form and they showed it to the gallery of some 300 persons.

Hirth Upsets Krueger.

Elmer Hirth, Belleville player, provided an outstanding upset in the Belleville open tennis championship yesterday by defeating William Krueger, St. Louis player, 6—2, 6—1 in a quarterfinal round match. Krueger was seeded No. 2, while Hirth was placed seventh in the list.

Before meeting Krueger, Hirth gained a victory over Glenn Gramm, the Harrisburg (Ill.) tennis ace, in a third-round match. Krueger won his third-round match by default from Tom Shanklin, East St. Louis player.

Richard Rosebrough, Webster Groves, Mo., and Krueger won their way into semifinal round through a 6—0, 6—4 victory over Larry Harper, East St. Louis and Ellar Daab, Belleville. McNeill Smith, East St. Louis and Bud Blattner, St. Louis won a first round doubles match from Art Judd and E. Schuder, Flora, Ill. team, 6—4, 6—4.

Mrs. Cousins Advances.

Mrs. Alpha Cousins, former Texas player, advanced to the third round of the St. Louis County open tennis championship by defeating Louise Untneker, 6—2, 6—4 on the Lewis Park courts in University City yesterday. This was the only second-round contest played during the day.

In a first-round feature Rosalind Werner won from Billie Peer, 6—3, 6—4. Miss Werner, whose playing last season was quite sensational, showed an improved game over last month and is expected to again rank well up in the first 10 this year.

With the arrival of the visiting players today the tournament will get into full swing. Miss Margaret Brown, young Milwaukee player, practised yesterday and her game indicates that she will be one of the favorites for the title.

Keaney and Parker Enter.

Frank Keaney and Ward Parker, will try for another title when they compete in the University City open championship which starts next Saturday.

Players may enter the University City tournament through H. J. Hopkins, 16 Yale avenue, or at the Park Department, University City, 6801 Delmar and downtown sporting goods stores. The entry fee is $1.50 in singles and $2.50 a team in doubles.

van. Each scored a run in the fifth and the Browns tied it with one in the sixth to save a defeat both for Bonetti and his relief-Chief Hogsett.

Knott took over the pitching in the seventh and he came in just in time to lose the game for, with one down and nobody on in the seventh, Peters, the Philadelphia infielder, parked one in the left field seats. That was the only hit Knott gave in his two innings and Trotter finished up with a hitless ninth.

West Forced on Base Hit.

Now, for the tough "break" aforementioned. Harry Kelley, who had started the first game and had worked only two frames, relieved Ross in the fifth. In the ninth, West, first up, walked. Vosmik hit to short right and Moses came in fast for the ball, but missed the catch, trapping the ball. West, of course, had to hold up, fearing the catch, and Moses' throw forced him at second.

West had a perfect day at bat in this game with two doubles, two passes and a single and Harry Davis got his second homer in two days and his second, incidentally, of the season. Kelley, charged with defeat in the opener, was credited with victory in No. 2.

Today is an open date for the Browns. The Athletics were scheduled to play, but it was considered the "better part of box office" to postpone the contest so that it might be combined into a double-header later in the season. Tomorrow, the larruping Yankee leaders open a four-fame series with a double header.

Brownie Notes.

The paid attendance for the double-header was 4401.

In the sixth inning of the second game, Benny Huffman, the Brownie catcher and Ambler, the Philadelphia second baseman, were painfully but not seriously hurt. Both had to retire. It happened this way: Huffman walked to start the inning. Carey, trying to sacrifice, bunted a pop-fly just past Pitcher Kelley. Ambler, apparently, saw Kelley couldn't field the ball and came dashing in. He crossed the path of Huffman who, fearing first a catch, had decided the ball would fall safe and, head down, dashed for second. The heads of the two players met and both went out cold. They were assisted off the field after recovering consciousness and no bad results were expected in either case.

West, the Browns' leading hitter, helped himself and his average with five hits in seven times at bat. Beau Bell, held to "one for five" in the opener, collected three safeties, including a triple, in the nightcap. The Beau and Sammy are having quite a race for the team leadership.

Johnson, recently returned to the Philadelphia outfield, drove in eight runs, four in each game.

Bases on balls were plentiful in the double bill. The Philadelphia pitchers handed out 14 and the Brownie hurlers, 11.

In the series with the Athletics, the Browns made 26 runs and, as a team, batted .337. In the six games on this homestand, the club has batted .316 and has averaged nearly seven runs a game.

Hildebrand and, probably Knott, are first choices as pitchers against the Yankees in the two games tomorrow. Not an enviable assignment the way the league-leaders are hitting.

HARRELL AND WARNEKE FAIL AS CARDS LOSE DOUBLE BILL TO GIANTS

there was no Dizzy Dean to lure the spectators to the box office window. Yes, the Cardinals still are the best box office attraction in the business. They can draw capacity crowds even when they are far down in the race. But it wasn't much of a baseball show that the Cardinals of 1937 gave.

One game of the double-header could have been won easily, had there been a capable relief pitcher on the roster, just as the opening game of the series could have been salvaged, had there been a strong-armed gentlemen to relieve Bob Weiland when he showed plainly that he was wobbling on his pitching pins.

However, it isn't fair to the pitchers to say that that department is to blame entirely for the failure of the Redbirds when they meet the sterner, first division opposition. And the double-header would have proved all that to Rickey. He would have seen outfield flies drop out of reach of an outfielder for triples. He would have seen grounders trickle through the infield. He would have seen wild throws by the catcher and all sorts of blunders and mistakes and if he wouldn't admit at the end of the day's activities that this was the weakest Cardinal team in 12 or 15 years—well, then it would be just a case of Mr. Rickey refusing to talk for publication.

The Cardinals were rather fortunate, or so it seemed for a time, to run into Hubbell when King Carl was not at his best. Joe Medwick tripled in the second inning and Johnny Mize singled and in the third Brown singled and Don Padgett hit a home run into the right field seats. That made the score 3 to 1. It so happened that the Cardinals scored two runs later and five runs off Hubbell is an unusual production. It would have been an easy game, for instance, for a Dizzy Dean in top form. Not easy of course, for a pitcher with a bad great toe. But for Dizzy in his usual New York form, this would have been a victory.

White Used in Relief.

However, Ray Harrell was the starting pitcher for the Redbirds and after three fair innings he lost control in the fourth and when he retired, the Giants were leading, 5 to 3.

Into the game at that point, one Adell "Abe" White entered. It seems that something was wrong with the picture when White appeared. In the old days, it was a Grimes or a Hallahan or a Dean, but in this crisis, Manager Frisch had to call on Abe White of the Buford (Ga.) Whites.

It so happened that the Cardinals tied the score during White's tenure of the hill, and so when three singles and a wild pitch gave the Giants their sixth run White became the losing pitcher.

That was the first game, a 6-5 defeat for the Redbirds. And that was a game that should have been won. The second was one of those painless affairs. The Giants bombarded Lon Warneke and the now becoming ubiquitous White for 16 hits and 11 runs and it was a breeze for Hal Schumacher. Prince Hal hadn't turned in a complete game since June 1, having been knocked out of seven consecutive contests. But he blanked the Redbirds. He gave nine hits, but he scattered them effectively and while the contest was close for four innings, the Giants put it safely in the bag with a six-run splurge in the fifth, during which Danning, Schumacher and Halsin singled; Berger doubled and Joe Moore and Sam Leslie tripled.

After that it was merely a matter of playing out the usual string of nine innings and the additional run off Warneke in the sixth and three off White in the seventh really didn't matter.

BUDGE AND MAKO WIN DOUBLES IN DAVIS CUP PLAY came right back to hold his delivery in the seventh game.

With Von Cramm leading the way, the Germans broke Budge's service in the eighth game for a 5-3 lead. Von Cramm alone won the first three points of the game.

Henkel, with a chance to win the set, lost his service in the ninth game and Mako held his delivery with the loss of a single point to draw even at 5—5.

The Americans took the lead in the eleventh game, breaking Von Cramm's service as the German ace double-faulted on game point. Budge held his service in the twelfth game with the aid of some great overhead work by Mako and the Americans galloped off with the set at 7—5.

Point score, second set:

Budge-Mako—

Break Henkel's Service.

Budge and Mako made a sparkling start in the third set, breaking Henkel's service. Henkel seemed a trifle annoyed when he dropped the game with a smash that went outside.

The Germans rallied, however, and took Mako's service in the second game when the blond Californian double-faulted the last point. Von Cramm held his service at love in the third game.

Budge won the fourth game on his own service and Henkel held his delivery in the fifth although he obviously was so afraid of foot-faulting that he didn't even try to get much speed on the first ball.

The Americans squared it again at 3-3 when Mako gave up only one point and that on a double-fault.

The Germans, behind 15—40 in the seventh game, rallied to win it behind Von Cramm's service. In the eighth game the Germans twice were within a point of breaking Budge's service but excellent overhead work by Mako enabled the Americans to win the game and draw even at 4—4.

Budge and Mako twice netted Henkel's easy first service and lost the ninth game to trail at 4-5. The Germans again were twice within a point of breaking Mako's delivery in the tenth game for the set but the Americans fought back fiercely to win it and square the set at 5—5.

The eleventh game went to deuce twice before the Germans could win it. Budge held his service in the twelfth to draw even at 6—6 and the Americans then cracked Henkel's delivery in the thirteenth for a vital 7—6 lead.

The Americans then capitalized on this advantage when Mako held his service in the fourteenth game for the set, 8—6, and a lead of two sets to one at the intermission.

Point score, third set.

Von Cramm-Henkel—
344 251 555 462 12—49—6

Budge-Mako—

Budge Scores an Ace.

Von Cramm, obviously the gallery's favorite, won his service on the first game of the fourth set but Budge scored a clean ace on his first service in the second game and easily won it to draw even at 1—1.

Henkel gave the Germans the third game at love and then the Teutons broke through Mako at love for a 3—1 lead. They quickly went to 4—1 on Von Cramm's service, again at love. It was the Germans' twelfth consecutive point without a break.

Budge brought the Americans back into the game in the sixth when he gave up only one point. The Californians then broke Henkel's service in the seventh to trail by only 3—4. Mako, in top form, won the eighth game on his own service with a great passing shot and a beautiful smash, thus bringing the Americans up on even terms at 4—4.

The American pair, continuing their sensational comeback, cracked Von Cramm's delivery in the ninth game for a 5—4 lead. Budge then held his own service at love for set and match.

Point score, fourth set:

Von Cramm-Henkel—
504 441 332 0—26—4

Budge-Mako —340 004 454 4—28—6

Franz Triumphs In Shoot Event

Oscar B. Franz added another title to his collection, when he captured the high-over-all honors with a 282x300 score in the Forty-ninth State shoot concluded yesterday at the Airport Gun Club on Denny road.

Franz, one of the outstanding shooters in this vicinity, won Saturday's opening 100-target 16-yard event with a 96 score and then came back yesterday morning to win the second 100-target event, this time with 98. He dropped a "bird" in each the first and fourth rounds.

H. C. Daley of Gillespie, Ill., had little difficulty in annexing the 100-target handicap event, shattering 89. Franz shared second place with F. Kelley in this event, each having an 88. Pete Baggerman was next in line with 87, while A. B. Springer, who recently won the high-over-all title in the Indiana State shoot at Indianapolis, was fourth with an 85.

Second place in the Forty-ninth State high-over-all went to W. F. J. Fienup, who broke 274 of his 300 targets. Dan Zimmer of the Creve Coeur Gun Club was third with 271x300.

The monthly shoot of the Illinois-Missouri Trapshooting League is scheduled to take place next Sunday at Alton.

FLORMAN WINS CITY BIKE RACE TITLE SECOND STRAIGHT YEAR

By Reno Hahn.

Bicycle enthusiasts watched in amazement as a slightly built, one-handed rider named Ray Florman made a show of the field of 32 entrants to win the Amateur Bicycle League of America city championship yesterday morning over the one and eight-tenths mile course in Forest Park just west of Jefferson Memorial.

Florman, a leading rider for the last two years, has found himself this year and the convincing exhibition he gave as he won the five and 25-mile races with scorching sprints that left the field far behind, stamps him as a threat for the national championship and the favorite for the State event to be held Aug. 1 over the same course.

Florman won the same title last year but not in the easy fashion he did yesterday. Leaning over the handlebars until he seemed standing on his head, Florman led the field by two lengths in the five-mile event and then rode in the same brilliant manner to win four of the five sprints in the 25-mile race by equally easy margins.

Riders Caught in Two Spills.

The 25-mile race was a thriller. Two spills removed a half-dozen riders from the race as the field, led by former Olympic rider, Chester Nelson, made a desperate but futile effort to catch Florman.

The first accident happened on the third lap, the first sprint of the race. About 10 riders were sprawled on the ground 200 yards from the tape when they collided while sprinting for the lead.

Dick Suever, former sprint champion, was the most seriously injured, his body badly skinned and bruised and his face cut as he skidded along the concrete road. Velmo Chappius was also bruised. He and Ken Connor, Pat Boyle, and Ray Rowald were forced from the race.

On the second sprint lap, No. 6, Lou Droz, who finished second to Florman in the five-mile event, took a bad tumble when his front wheel collapsed. He tried to re-enter the race on another bike, but his right arm was too badly scraped to enable him to continue.

Chris Finkenkeller won the first sprint, with Chester Nelsen Sr. second and Florman third, but that was the last time Florman trailed. He won the last four sprints, with Nelsen second in three of them.

The Nelsens Share in Honors.

The Nelsen family won its share of honors. Mrs. Nelsen Sr. tied for the first women's championship event with Melba Gruendmeyer, winning the one-mile event and placing second in the five-mile, while Miss Gruendmeyer placed second in the first race and won the second. In the race-off, Miss Gruendmeyer won by a scant half-length as Mrs. Nelsen lost ground in the stretch by veering to one side as she neared the finish.

Chester Nelsen Jr. won the junior title in a race-off with Gilbert Gramlich. Young Nelsen won the mile and two-mile events and took third in the five-mile. He failed to place in the 10-mile event when he had tire trouble and dropped out of the field. Gramlich placed second in all four races. Young Nelsen won by a length and a half in the one-mile race for the title.

Ten riders qualified for the State senior championships. They were: Florman, Nelsen, Chris Finkenkeller, Ralph Molkenbur, Joe Dellerman, Herman Gruenewald, Lou Droz, Leroy Long, Ray Rowald and Ray George.

ified observers, is destined to shove Joe Louis off the championship pedestal.

Described in superlatives, backed up by statistics showing 22 knockouts in 28 (amateur) fights, the former Cleveland Hotel baggage hustler, Lem Franklin, is described as being better than Joe Louis was at the same age, 21.

This 204-pound hope is 6 feet 2 inches tall. He turned professional after a recently completed career larded with Golden Glove and international amateur successes. When he drops his right on the enemy's jaw, so they tell in Chicago, the victim thinks a truck hit him—and so on, for several pages.

Louis Has What It Takes.

BUT—there are other things than height, weight and an amateur record that go into the makeup of a real fighter. Not the least of them is experience. Joe Louis has it; Lem Franklin has it to get. And the getting of the same is one of the tough parts of climbing in the ring world.

However, Lem comes recommended by veteran handlers of fighters. If he should make good for his sponsors that would give the dusky group three outstanding Negro heavies in the field, all young.

Of young white hopes, here in America, we have no standouts. Pastor, Nestell and that sort are about the best.

Taking No Chances.

TOMMY FARR may be "just another English heavyweight," although champion of the British Empire, but the management of world champion Louis is not taking the matter as lightly as that. Louis, this week will resume hard training at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and will put in a month or so of serious work for his international battle of Aug. 26.

Chicken and pork chops have added only 6¾ pounds to Louis' weight since the night of June 22 when he fought and stopped Braddock.

That extra poundage should not be much to handle. But Joe has a real harvest in greenbacks confronting him, if he can defend his title four times a year, as planned; and the men who are exploiting him—Julian Black, John Roxborough and Mike Jacobs evidently intend to ride herd on him and see that he keeps in shape.

One lapse in this respect cost Joe prestige that it had taken years to build up. Max Schmeling wrecked all that when Louis entered the ring below par. The same mistake will not occur again in the Louis camp.

A "Big Name" Race.

ONE of the most interesting of the newer turf features of national consequence will be run next Saturday at Arlington, where the "Classic" will be decided at one and one-fourth miles.

This race has had a comparatively short existence of only eight years but in that time it has been won by some of the most famous horses known to the American turf. These include Blue Larkspur, which E. R. Bradley thinks the greatest horse he ever bred; Gallant Fox, which as a three-year-old won the amazing total of $308,000; Cavalcade, the outstanding champion of his three-year-old campaign, and Omaha and Granville, top three-year-olds of their day.

This year would probably have seen an even greater thoroughbred, War Admiral, added to the list of famous winners of the Classic, but for the injury suffered by the son of Man o' War in the Belmont.

That race saw the third major victory of War Admiral this year and his performances marked him for unusually high rating. Now he's out of the Classic, although he is beginning to train once more.

Easy for Pompoon?

HOWEVER, even with War Admiral out, a performer just a shade below the 1937 Kentucky Derby winner is likely to go to the post and if he does he will probably win the niche he deserves in the Hall of Fame.

Pompoon, twice second to War Admiral, is reported to be a candidate for the Classic. He has worked well and apparently has recovered from the illness which caused him to be taken out of training for some weeks.

If he is right, he will only have to run back to his form in the Preakness or Derby to beat the field he will meet in the Classic —Flying Scot, Privileged, Good Gerald, Over the Top, Eagle Pass, Dellor, Yellow Tulip, Oriental, Grey Gold, Burning Star, Old Nassau and Sunset Trail II.

Nothing shown by these performers indicates ability to beat a horse which has run War Admiral to a head.

Hope he turns the trick. Pompoon has proved that he is not the "quitter" it was feared he would prove to be, due to his breeding. If he wins the Classic he may yet get a chance to meet War Admiral in a later race this season and — though we doubt this—of turning the tables on his rival.

On his racing this year Pompoon is a better horse than a majority of the thoroughbreds that have won the Kentucky Derby in years gone by.

Phillies Topped All Clubs With 89 Safeties — Reds Yielded Only 13 Runs in Five Battles.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Despite a surprising show of defensive strength by the Cincinnati Reds, the big league teams from New York and Chicago held the spotlight in the baseball week ended with yesterday's games.

The New Yorkers—the Yanks on the one hand and the Giants on the other—had a shade the better of it over their closest rivals. The Yanks, enjoying their most successful Western swing of the year, won four of five starts, while the White Sox, their closest rivals, took five and dropped two.

The Giants all but caught up with the Cubs in their red hot National League chase by playing one more game, and winning it. The New Yorkers came through in five of their seven times out. The Cubs, playing only six contests, won four and dropped two.

Yankees Scored 44 Runs.

Although they played fewer games than most of the others, the Yanks led the American League in run-making, with 44 tallies. Over in the National, however, the futile Phillies, with 48 runs, and the Giants, with 44, were tops.

Hitting honors for the week went to the Phillies, with 89 safe blows, and the Giants with 81. These two clubs also deadlocked for home run honors with eight apiece, while the Yanks fell off to five in their specialty.

Defensively, the Reds and Boston Bees, backed by crack rookie pitching, were way out in front. Cincinnati allowed 13 enemy runs in five games, and Boston 14 in seven.

The Reds also were the best fielding team, committing only two errors, while the usually erratic Dodgers had only three fumbles in half a dozen games.

Standings for the week, showing games won and lost, runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs for each club:

San Romani Married.

By the Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kan., July 19.—Little Archie San Romani forsook the speedy stride that has made him one of the world's crack mile runners for a staid march to the marriage altar here yesterday. He and Miss Lena Plumley of Arkansas City, Kan., were married in the First Methodist Episcopal Church before a crowd of 400 townspeople and students and faculty members of the Emporia Teachers College, where their romance began.

YANKS SCORED 44 RUNS, TAKING FOUR OF FIVE LAST WEEK

in the Louis camp.

A "Big Name" Race.

ONE of the most interesting of the newer turf features of national consequence will be run next Saturday at Arlington, where the "Classic" will be decided at one and one-fourth miles.

This race has had a comparatively short existence of only eight years but in that time it has been won by some of the most famous horses known to the American turf. These include Blue Larkspur, which E. R. Bradley thinks the greatest horse he ever bred; Gallant Fox, which as a three-year-old won the amazing total of $308,000; Cavalcade, the outstanding champion of his three-year-old campaign, and Omaha and Granville, top three-year-olds of their day.

This year would probably have seen an even greater thoroughbred, War Admiral, added to the list of famous winners of the Classic, but for the injury suffered by the son of Man o' War in the Belmont.

That race saw the third major victory of War Admiral this year and his performances marked him for unusually high rating. Now he's out of the Classic, although he is beginning to train once more.

Easy for Pompoon?

HOWEVER, even with War Admiral out, a performer just a shade below the 1937 Kentucky Derby winner is likely to go to the post and if he does he will probably win the niche he deserves in the Hall of Fame.

Pompoon, twice second to War Admiral, is reported to be a candidate for the Classic. He has worked well and apparently has recovered from the illness which caused him to be taken out of training for some weeks.

If he is right, he will only have to run back to his form in the Preakness or Derby to beat the field he will meet in the Classic—Flying Scot, Privileged, Gosum, Gerald, Over the Top, Eagle Pass, Dellor, Yellow Tulip, Orientalist, Grey Gold, Burning Star, Old Nassau and Sunset Trail II.

Nothing shown by these performers indicates ability to beat a horse which has run War Admiral to a head.

Hope he turns the trick. Pompoon has proved that he is not the "quitter" it was feared he would prove to be, due to his breeding. If he wins the Classic he may yet get a chance to meet War Admiral in a later race this season and — though we doubt this—of turning the tables on his rival.

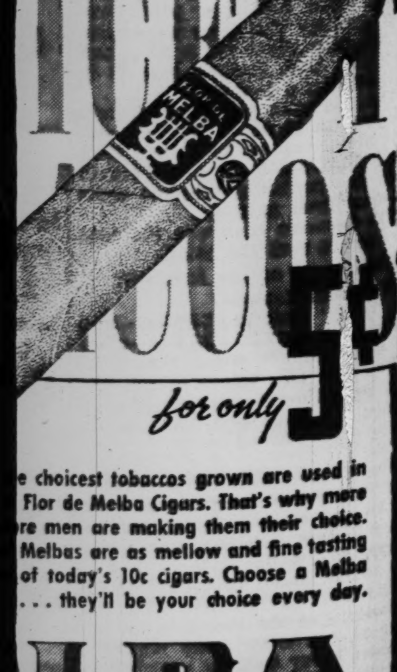

On his racing this year Pompoon is a better horse than a majority of the thoroughbreds that have won the Kentucky Derby in years gone by.

GRIMM, IMPROVED, TO REJOIN HIS TEAM SOON

Dr. Robert F. Hyland said Charley Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, was "much improved" today and would rejoin his baseball club when it returned home next week from an Eastern tour.

Grimm entered St. John's Hospital last Saturday for examination and observation for what Hyland said was a sciatic condition. Hyland said Grimm would undergo further treatment after the close of the 1937 season.

CARDINALS AND BROWNIES EACH BROKE EVEN IN THEIR 6 GAMES

Phillies Topped All Clubs With 89 Safeties — Reds Yielded Only 13 Runs in Five Battles.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Despite a surprising show of defensive strength by the Cincinnati Reds, the big league teams from New York and Chicago held the spotlight in the baseball week ended with yesterday's games.

The New Yorkers—the Yanks on the one hand and the Giants on the other—had a shade the better of it over their closest rivals. The Yanks, enjoying their most successful Western swing of the year, won four of five starts, while the White Sox, their closest rivals, took five and dropped two.

The Giants all but caught up with the Cubs in their red hot National League chase by playing one more game, and winning it. The New Yorkers came through in five of their seven times out. The Cubs, playing only six contests, won four and dropped two.

Yankees Scored 44 Runs.

Although they played fewer games than most of the others, the Yanks led the American League in run-making, with 44 tallies. Over in the National, however, the futile Phillies, with 48 runs, and the Giants, with 44, were tops.

Hitting honors for the week went to the Phillies, with 89 safe blows, and the Giants with 81. These two clubs also deadlocked for home run honors with eight apiece, while the Yanks fell off to five in their specialty.

Defensively, the Reds and Boston Bees, backed by crack rookie pitching, were way out in front. Cincinnati allowed 13 enemy runs in five games, and Boston 14 in seven.

The Reds also were the best fielding team, committing only two errors, while the usually erratic Dodgers had only three fumbles in half a dozen games.

Standings for the week, showing games won and lost, runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs for each club:

Nice Going.

OH, a life on the winding trail
And a home in a tourist camp,
Where there is no daily mail,
And no bills your style to cramp.

No greasy pots and pans
To test the tourist's nerve;
Where the food all comes in cans
Pre-cooked and ready to serve.

What joy to be on your way
On a care-free trailer trip!
No hotel bills to pay
And no bell boys to tip!

Oh, the life of a jolly rover
Is something to cheer about;
No drip-pans running over,
No cats to be put out.

How 'Bout It, Watson?

Analyzing the make of lipstick on the cigarette butt is said to be a new development in bringing the crime home to the husband-bumper-offer.

Having turned the spotlight on himself, Dizzy Dean cannot afford to be anything short of perfect. Hence the repercussion in that Dean-Hartnett-Gehrig shake-off episode in the all-star game.

Some want the presidents of the two major leagues to pick the all-star teams, some are satisfied the way it is, some want to give it back to the fans, and still others are in favor of tossing it in the lap of Sweeney. You can't please 'em all.

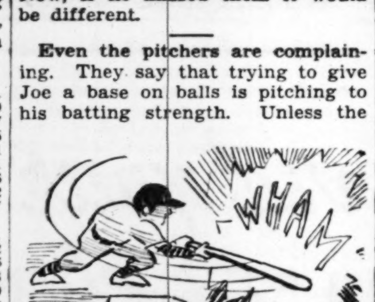

A most amusing incident occurred in the game between Detroit and Cleveland recently. Umpire

Brick Owens was hit in the face by a foul tip and had to retire from the game.

We don't believe that the theory that Joe Medwick's weakness is hitting bad balls will stand up. Now, if he missed them it would be different.

Even the pitchers are complaining. They say that trying to give Joe a base on balls is pitching to his batting strength. Unless the catcher stands somewhere in the vicinity of first base it can't be done.

Honus Wagner never was considered a weakling at the bat and many a wild pitch old Honus used to knock over the fence.

And by the way, if a guy can't be ruled off for changing the subject, whatever in the world has become of James J. Braddock, former heavyweight boxing champ?

While a base on balls is sometimes as good as a hit, but not often, one mustn't be too choosey.

We understand that Vice-President Garner was among those who attended the all-star ball game although his name wasn't even mentioned in the summary.

Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Van Mungo will tell you that these dream games would be all right if it weren't for the rude awakening.

Tommy Farr beat the injunction suit all right. So did Jimmy Braddock but he couldn't beat Joe Louis.

Dizzy Dean to Depart Tonight To Join Cards

Dizzy Dean, strong-armed righthander of the Cardinals' pitching staff, will depart tonight to join the club in Boston. Dizzy has been suffering from a toe injury suffered in the All-Star game at Washington July 7 and has not seen service with the Redbirds since July 4 when he shut out Cincinnati.

Dizzy entertained some idea of remaining in St. Louis until the team returned home from the eastern trip but the Redbirds' acute need for pitchers together with the steady improvement of Dizzy's toe caused the ace righthander to change his mind.

Unless the train ride aggravates Dizzy's injury he very probably will pitch Wednesday and give some of the over-worked members of Frankie Frisch's hurling staff a much-needed rest.

ALLISON BEATS SUTTER TO WIN EASTERN EVENT

By the Associated Press.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 19.—A physician will decide whether Wilmer L. Allison, former national champion, will play any more tennis this season.

After winning a leg on the Clifford Hemphill bowl in the annual Spring Lake Invitation Tournament yesterday, the Texas veteran said he would consult a New York specialist concerning two injuries which tempted him to default several times during the singles competition.

A bandaged right arm and an aggravated right knee had little effect on his game, however, as he defeated Ernest Sutter of New Orleans, national intercollegiate champion, 1—6, 6—1, 6—4, 6—2, in the final.

But Allison wants to be sure that continued activity will not precipitate his permanent retirement from the tennis courts—hence the trip to New York.

If the doctor permits Allison will enter the annual Longwood Cricket Club Tournament which started today at Chestnut Hill, Mass. The ex-champion holds two legs on the Longwood trophy, and if the field is not too formidable, he may attempt to retire the cup.

From there Allison aims for the fiftieth annual Seabright (N. J.) Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club Tournament — but the national championships are "out."

"I'll be heading back to my brokerage business in Austin after the Seabright Tournament," he said.

ELWOOD COOKE WINS MIDWEST TENNIS TITLE

OMAHA, Neb., July 19.—Elwood Cooke blasted his way to the men's singles title in the Midwestern amateur tennis tournament yesterday, defeating Morey Lewis of Gambier, O., in straight sets, 7—5, 6—2, 6—1.

The 23-year-old Portland, Ore., player, seeded No. 1, had too much power for the youthful Lewis, just out of the junior class where he gained No. 6 ranking in the nation last year.

Cooke also shared in the men's doubles title when a flip of a coin gave him and Charles Fleming of Cedar Rapids, Ia., a victory over Eugene Lambert of Gambier, O., and Lewis. The Ohioans won the first set, 9—7, but were trailing in games, 2—3, in the second set when rain terminated the match.

DENGIS VICTOR IN MARATHON; ARGENTINE ACE TAKES SECOND

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 19. — Tireless Pat Dengis of Baltimore, runner-up for the American marathon title, celebrated his thirty-seventh birthday last night by winning the 26-mile marathon event of the Pan-American Games in 2:42.43.

One-fifth of a mile back came Jose Ribas, the Argentine who holds the world 20-mile mark. He finished in two hours and 44 minutes.

Dengis, running leisurely the first 15 miles of the grind, made his move at the 17-mile mark where he took the lead from Juan Acosta, Cuban, who set the early pace. For the last nine miles Dengis trotted along ahead of Ribas, gradually widening his lead.

The Baltimore veteran sprinted the last 100 yards and then fell into his wife's arms.

Mel Porter of New York, the American champion, finished third in two hours, 49 minutes and 59 seconds.

Acosta, the pace setter, collapsed as he passed the finish line in fourth place with a time of two hours, 53 minutes and 58 seconds. The little Cuban was given a tremendous cheer when revived and helped off the field by members of the Argentina soccer team.

The crowd got a kick out of Bartlett of Canada when he sprinted around the last lap to finish in fifth place at two hours, 57 minutes and six seconds.

Jose Rios of Peru finished sixth at three hours, 10 minutes and 53 seconds, while John Semple of the United States lagged in last place at three hours, 23 minutes and 31 seconds.

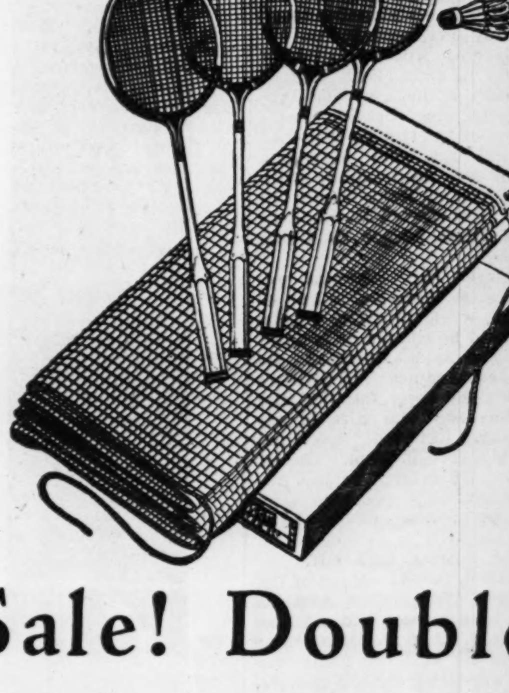

Iron Infield.

The New York Yankees' infield was intact for the first 51 games of this season.

TESTIMONY OF THREAT TO SHUT SHOE PLANT

Woman Says Hamilton-Brown Head Demanded Workers Return at Union.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNION, Mo., July 19.—Testimony that Luke E. Hart of St. Louis, president of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., threatened to close the company's plant here unless striking workers returned to their jobs was given today at a National Labor Relations Board hearing.

The sixty-fourth witness on the stand since the inquiry into charges of unfair labor practices against the firm began July 8, Mrs. Richel Vincent was the first to make a direct reference to the company president. She told also of remarks by supervisory employes and declared that Charles Cole, Superintendent of Union Schools, urged her to sign a "white card."

Hart, Mrs. Vincent testified, appeared at a meeting of workers in the Franklin County Circuit Courtroom on April 6. She said he forecast a prosperous year for the concern, but asserted that the shoe company could not meet the 15 per cent wage increase demanded by strikers.

Tells of Threat to Move Plant.

"Mr. Hart said if the people in Union didn't want to work the plant would be moved elsewhere," she testified. Mrs. Vincent said Hart remarked that the company's Owensville plant might be reopened and that the Columbia plant wanted the work.

David C. Shaw, N L R B attorney, asked Mrs. Vincent to identify those attending the meeting. She replied, "I guess you would call them scabs."

The witness testified she returned to the plant while a strike was in progress. A foreman told her that non-striking employes would be allowed to read books, play cards or to "sit around." She said she was paid by the hour during that period, although she was a piece work employe. On May 3, Mrs. Vincent joined Local 125 of the United Shoe Workers of America, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate. She was laid off June 3.

Relating that Charles Jannings, plant superintendent, had promised to "remember" non-strikers, Mrs. Vincent said she hurried to complain about the layoff. She said she was the oldest in point of service of five employes at her work table. "I told him that I had come in and scabbed for him," she said.

Never Called Back to Work.

Jannings, Mrs. Vincent asserted, told her to "keep my shirt on." She said promises to call her back to work never had been fulfilled, although she had been informed indirectly that reinstatement might be possible if she signed a "white card." She identified the card as a membership application for the Commercial Shoe Workers' organization, which complainants assert is a company-sponsored union.

Mrs. Vincent, whose testimony was broader in scope than that of any preceding witness, quoted Jannings as remarking that he "wanted to get rid of the trouble-makers." She declared that Tom Rowland, foreman of her department, questioned her several times about the C I O unit. She quoted Rowland as saying, "I think people in Union are simple."

She declared the foreman remarked that strikers would not be able to get work in other plants, as they would be classed as trouble-makers. She said Rowland remarked several times that strikers should consider their families and homes. She said the wife of another foreman asserted "they'll get rid of all the rest of them." The remark, she said related to the discharge of six employes who were active in organization of the C I O local.

Union Officer Laid Off.

Elmer Ollen, vice-president of the United Shoe Workers of America unit here, said he was laid off May 12, nine days after the local was chartered. He said his name was one of 11 appearing on the charter. The day before his discharge, Ollen testified, he was complimented highly by his foreman, Harry Brooks. He said the foreman "wished he had 50 more men like me." He asserted Brooks would not definitely tell him whether he was fired or laid off temporarily. Ollen, now working at a St. Louis shoe factory, said he had earned $150 since his dismissal at Hambro plant here.

Shaw announced he hoped to complete the board's case by the end of this week. About 20 former Hambro plant employes, now working in St. Louis factories, are to testify.

Hart told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the testimony last week of Mrs. Gertrude Deering had given an erroneous impression of wages at Hambro plant. Mrs. Deering said that on many occasions her pay amounted from 9 to 11 cents a day. The company president showed payroll figures which indicated that Mrs. Deering's wages over the last year had averaged about $10 a week.

House Sinks Eight Inches.

A $3000 four-room frame bungalow, recently constructed on the new South Belt highway in Belleville, has sunk eight inches into the ground, causing the basement walls to crack in several places and pulling the concrete foundation away from the framework. St. Clair County authorities attributed the damage to undermining of the property by an old coal mine. The home was built by Fremont J. Hollerbach.

FIFTY-POUND BLUE CATFISH CAUGHT IN MERAMEC RIVER

Jess Kellogg, 3157 Watson Road, Finds Big Fish on His Trot Line.

A blue catfish weighing 50 pounds was caught Saturday night in the Meramec River by Jess Kellogg, 3157 Watson road, after a 15-minute struggle. From an ordinary trotline with medium-size hooks, Kellogg finally got the fish in his motorboat by slipping a hand through the gills and hauling it in.

Kellogg, a foreman, was alone between Sylvan Beach and Fenton when he felt a heavy pull from one of the hooks on the line. During the struggle to land the catfish he was scratched about the hands and wrists. Fearing the prize catch would thrash about in the boat until it got back in the water, Kellogg stood on the fish with heavy boots and headed for shore.

Arriving there, he shouted to his wife, who threw a rope and pulled the boat in. The catfish is being kept in a Gravois restaurant icebox while Kellogg makes plans for a fish fry for his friends.

AUTO DRIVER FINED $260

Robert A. Dodson, a car inspector of Centralia, Ill., was fined $260 by City Judge James F. Nangle today on charges of careless driving and driving when intoxicated. He was arrested yesterday on Chouteau avenue at Twenty-second street by police who said he passed their scout car at high speed and nearly ran down four women pedestrians. He denied the charges and said he would appeal.

Cecil Montague, a steel worker, 2118 Gravois avenue, was fined $152 by Judge Nangle on similar charges, and his driver's license suspended for one year. Police testified they arrested him Saturday after his automobile struck the rear of a car that had stopped for a traffic light at Jefferson and Lafayette avenue. He pleaded not guilty.

FISH QUESTIONS MORGENTHAU ON MRS. ROOSEVELT'S TAXES

Asks Him If Treasury Has Ruled She Does Not Have to Report Charity Broadcast Proceeds.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Congressman Fish (Rep.), New York, asked Secretary Morgenthau yesterday if the Treasury had ruled that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt does not have to report for income tax purposes the proceeds of her charity broadcasts. Fish also inquired, in a letter, if such a ruling had been made public and if the Treasury "still approves of such a ruling."

Robert H. Jackson, Assistant Attorney-General, said recently that the Internal Revenue Bureau had held that Mrs. Roosevelt need not report money received from broadcasts, since it is turned over to a charitable institution. Jackson is a former general counsel of the revenue bureau.

"If such ruling exists," Fish wrote Morgenthau, "what is there to prevent business men from taking one day out of each week's earnings and giving it to charity without having to report it as income? Would not the ruling of Mr. Jackson, if applied equally to all donors of charity, permit assignment of income that would defeat the Government in the collection of much needed taxes?"

He added that any rulings "made privately with respect to tax returns of members of the administration or their families should be applied equally to the public as a whole."

Freed on Bond; Says Robert C. Dunn Made Objectionable Remark About Woman.

Robert C. Dunn, assistant manager of the West End Laundry, suffered a fractured jaw when struck during an altercation at Hotel Chase at 1:30 a. m. yesterday.

Bert Boaz Jr., 22 years old, of the St. Regis Apartments, 4954 Lindell boulevard, was released on $500 bond after being charged with common assault. He told police he was chatting with a woman when Dunn, whom he did not know, made an objectionable remark. He said he struck Dunn with his fist when the remark was repeated, despite a warning.

Dunn, who was accompanied by his wife, with whom he lives at 5328 Delmar boulevard, and his sister, Miss Dorothy Dunn, 5225 Maple avenue, said he was struck without provocation. He was treated at St. John's Hospital.

CHINESE REPORTED TO HAVE AGREED TO JAPAN'S TERMS

Gen. Sung Cheh Yuan of 29th Army Said to Have Ordered Withdrawal of His Soldiers.

TOKIO CONTINUES TO BOLSTER ARMY

More Reinforcements Sent to Peiping Front Hourly; Dislodging of Garrison in City Sought.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, July 19. — The headquarters of the Japanese army in North China at Tientsin described today as insufficient the verbal settlement of the Chinese-Japanese crisis reported to have been made yesterday.

Japanese military authorities declared they would not be satisfied with the assurances Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, commander of the Twenty-ninth Chinese army, was said to have given them until the conditions are actually fulfilled.

"It is entirely too early for peaceful optimism," a Japanese spokesman declared.

Gen. Sung, who is also chairman of the Chahar-Hopeh political council, arrived here today. Dispatches from Tientsin had said his mission was to persuade his more recalcitrant commanders, Gen. Feng Chi-an and Gen. Chin Teh-chen, to withdraw their troops from the North China area in fulfillment of the truce.

Gen. Feng's Thirty-seventh division has borne the brunt of the almost two weeks of intermittent fighting since the first clash with Japanese troops at midnight July 7 over possession of the Marco Polo bridge on the Yungting River west of here. They are intensely anti-Japanese and might bolt any settlement.

Refuses to Talk.

The Twenty-ninth army commander declined to make any statement when he arrived here this morning from Tientsin. (A dispatch from the Central Chinese capital at Nanking denied any local agreement had been made and described Gen. Sung's visit to Lieutenant-General Kiyoshi Katsuki, Japanese army commander, as "a mere courtesy call.")

Gen. Sung was said to have apologized formally fo rthe clash between his troops and the Japanese, promised to punish several officers—below the rank of field officer—as responsible for the incident, agreed to supression of anti-Japanese agitation and promised to support Japan's anti-communism fight.

If any truce has been reached, however, it is not interfering with the steady strengthening of the Japanese forces in the North China area. Some 3600 men, with complete campaign equipment, have arrived from Manchoukuo, the Japanese protectorate to the East, in the last 24 hours.

Preparations were underway to receive a Japanese army corps of 30,000 men from Korea and Japan proper. Military authorities at Tientsin instructed a Japanese wharfage company at Tangku, the port of Tientsin, to remove 7000 tons of coal from their wharf by July 22 and hold all lighters in readiness for Japanese troop movements.

Some Fighting Continues.

Despite reports of a settlement, sporadic fighting continued between the opposing troops in the area. Chinese gendarmes on the walls of Wanpinghsien, where the original clash occurred, exchanged rifle fire with the Japanese positions about the town late yesterday. Highways in the vicinity of the western suburb are mined and barricades have been erected.

Chinese observers estimated there were 12,000 Japanese troops in North China with a strangle hold on Peiping. Japanese troops control the railway from Peiping to Shanhaikwan, on the border of Manchoukuo, and encircle the ancient capital of China on all sides with the line extending to the west to the Marco Polo bridge.

The main Japanese objective was believed to be the removal of 1000 troops of the Chinese Thirty-seventh Division from their Garrison Post inside Peiping. Preparations were evident for the retreat of other units of the Thirty-seventh from the positions they hold on the Yungting River to Paotingfu to the south.

It was not known whether the move was planned to meet the terms of the agreement with the Japanese or was a strategic manuever to link their strength with other Chinese forces in the area.

The main body of Gen. Feng's Thirty-seventh Division and Gen. Chao Teng-Yu's 132nd Division of the Twenty-ninth Army are reported to be at Paotingfu while Gen. Wan Fu-Lin's Fifty-third Army and the Twenty-seventh and Thirty-first Divisions of Gen. Sun Lien-Chung's Twenty-sixth Honan Army are said to be in the vicinity.

Lloyd George Says Palestine Report Is Deplorable Ending To Imaginative Experiment

Jews Spent $385,000,000 Replacing "Squalid Desolation" With Prosperity—Success, Which Arab Shared, Caused Hatred.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, World War Premier of Great Britain.

(World copyright, 1937, by Universal Service. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

LONDON, July 19.—The Palestine report is a deplorable ending to one of the most imaginative and promising experiments which the great war made possible.

Ideals incorporated in treaties of peace—the International Federation to Ensure Peace—the reduction of armaments to a point where they would not exceed the dimensions of an adequate police force—the elimination of war as a means of adjusting and determining disputes between nations, have all been gradually abandoned.

And now the Jewish National Home in Palestine is to be mutilated and left to shamble along, a disfigured and hopeless cripple.

Millions of brave men, resolutely led, won the victory. A succession of weak governments have already muddled away most of its greatest achievements and extinguished its Brightest hopes.

Report Is Confession of Failure.

It was well said a few days ago by one of the ablest publicists of the day, who is by no means hostile to the existing British Government, that the Palestine report is "a confession of failure, wounding to our national pride."

That is the British view of this document.

It is a lamentable admission that Britain, owing to the feebleness, vacillation and pusillanimity of her administrators, failed to carry through the mission entrusted to her by the leading nations of the world.

It must necessarily lower British prestige, coming as it does after the fiascos of Manchuria, Abyssinia and Spanish non-intervention.

What will 16,500,000 Jews, dispersed over the surface of the globe in every continent, think of this proposal to break the solemn pledge given them by the great nations in return for services promised and rendered?

Holy Cities Excluded.

The Zionists, to whom the promise of a national home was given, have to be satisfied with a mutilated Canaan, without Zion, Bethlehem or Judea.

It will be a national home for Jews from which will be excluded their holy cities, the site of the temple of their fathers and the lands in which their immortal poets and prophets dwelled.

It will be a Jewish home without Judea—Zionism without Zion. They will return to their promised land to find a promise broken by those who gave it.

Who is responsible for the failure?

Have the Jews failed to keep their part of the bargain? The promise they gave of help in the war was fulfilled in letter and spirit. And their help was truly helpful. That is admitted.

Trouble Due to Success.

Have they failed in their efforts at colonization? Trouble has arisen entirely from the magnitude of their success. The report handsomely acknowledges their triumph.

Their land settlements are models of intensive culture. They have drained malarial swamps, which produced nothing but germs of disease, and converted them into gardens which maintain happy and prosperous little communities.

They have established flourishing industries on the barren sand dunes of the Mediterranean.

They have built Tel Aviv, a modern city of 150,000 inhabitants, which, in its productive activity, in its administration, its amenities and the culture of its people, will rival any town of its size on the shores of that great inland sea.

The Jewish settlements have not only prospered themselves, but they have diffused that prosperity throughout the whole land of Canaan.

Arabs' Wages Trebled.

Trade has leaped up, revenue has increased fourfold, the wages of the Arab laborer (who now wants to slaughter all his benefactors) have been at least trebled, and his health and that of his children has improved by the elimination of malaria and by the Jewish health services.

The report faithfully records the fact that before the Jews took the country in hand it was a squalid desolation. Fertile valleys and plains, which formerly maintained millions, had become poisonous bogs or parched deserts.

According to the report, "the population, which is still overwhelmingly Arab in character, eked out a precarious existence."

Since the mandate the Jews have poured over $385,000,000 of capital into this land, impoverished by centuries of Arba and Turkish neglect, inefficiency and corruption.

Money Spent for Development.

This money has not been invested in usury nor in the building of luxury houses for speculators who have made fortunes on the Jerusalem Stock Exchange, but in the honest productive development of

AUSTRIAN POLICE PHOTOGRAPH MEN GIVING NAZI SALUTE

Von Papen Addresses Reunion of War Veterans—Parade Permit Canceled.

By the Associated Press.

WELS, Austria, July 19.—Police canceled a parade permit yesterday when 10,000 German and Austrian war veterans participated in illegal Nazi demonstrations at a meeting addressed by Franz von Papen, German Ambassador. After the former soldiers sang the Horst Wessel song and gave the Nazi salute, several hundred police arrested a few ringleaders and threatened to clear the field if demonstrations continued.

The veterans, instead of parading, retired to beer halls. Authorities estimated about 1300 German visitors attended, but it was reported the Austrians asked the number be limited. Police with small cameras took hundreds of photographs of persons making the forbidden Nazi salute and additional arrests were expected.

Von Papen told the gathering that the German peoples must be fused and said, "our object is peace, but it must be with honor." Edmund Glaise-Horstenau, Austrian Minister of the Interior, who was war-time liaison officer between the German and Austrian general staffs, recalled the close co-operation of the two countries during the war. There is a solidarity of purpose today, too, he said.

CHARGES U. S. INFLUENCE LOWERS BRITISH MORALS

Church of England Official Blames "Debasing Films" in Part for Pending Divorce Bill.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 19.—The Very Rev. W. E. R. Morrow, provost of Chelmsford Cathedral, in his sermon at Chelmsford last night blamed American influence for the bill now before Parliament to relax British divorce laws.

"In every contact with the United States," the provost said, "there has been a lowering of moral standards and a flippancy in which the noblest ideals of domestic life have been derided. This is seen in numerous debasing films in which the marriage tie has been broken and those guilty of doing so have been extolled as heroes and heroines."

AMERICAN ARRESTED IN CHINA

Woman to Be Tried on Charge of Transporting Narcotics.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, July 19.—An American woman, said by United States authorities to be Mrs. Margaret Florence Evers, a former Miss Carrol of San Francisco, was brought here from Hankow today to stand trial on a charge of transporting narcotics.

Officials said $10,000 worth of narcotics was found in her luggage when she went to a hospital in Anyang, Honan Province, after a trip from Peiping. Mrs. Evers, who is 48, said she had been an English teacher in Shanghai and Peiping for nine years and denied any knowledge of the narcotics. She said a former student had entrusted her with two pieces of luggage. It was in that luggage that the narcotics were found.

GEORGE BARTON FRENCH DIES

Retired Rail President Was World War "Dollar-a-Year Man."

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 19.—George Barton French, retired railroad president and World War "dollar-a-year man," died of a heart attack Saturday night while playing bridge at his home. He was 73 years old.

French, a native of Richmond, Va., was the son of a partner of J. P. Morgan, the elder. He was for many years connected with the Chicago office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, and in 1910 was appointed president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad. He was for a time a member of the United States Reclamation Commission.

Many Russians Unaware of Flights.

MOSCOW, July 19.—The newspaper, Pravda, Communist party organ, took provincial Communist leaders to task today because thousands of Russians still were unaware of the two Soviet flights from Moscow to the United States. The newspaper declared that "lack of adequate propaganda among the people tends to weaken the party's influence over them."

JAPANESE HAND CHINA ULTIMATUM AFTER NEW CLASH

Troops to Take "Independent Action Unless All Fighting Is Stopped in Peiping Battie Zone.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 19.—A Domei (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Tientsin tonight said the Japanese Army command there had served an ultimatum on the Chinese military, declaring it would "take independent action" unless China ceased alleged attacks on Japanese patrols and withdrew troops from the disputed area west of Peiping.

This threat followed a renewal of fighting in the zone west of Peiping, where Japanese and Chinese troops have been in intermittent conflict since July 7.

Japanese military reports said Chinese soldiers making a concrete pillbox near Lukouchiao, on the Yungting River, 10 miles west of Peiping, fired on a Japanese detachment, gravely wounding Capt. Misayoshi Yamazaki.

The attitude of the Japanese command was described in dispatches as the most determined it has yet assumed in the North China situation.

Troop Train Raided.

Its notice was said to declare that unless all Chinese firing ceased the Japanese would begin action at noon Tuesday.

Japanese army leaders were reported to regard the situation as grave and to consider the new clash violated the local, oral settlement reached by military leaders of the two sides at Tientsin Sunday.

It is near Lukouchiao that the first Chinese-Japanese clash of the present crisis occurred 12 days ago.

A dispatch from Nanking said China had informed Japan it could not accept the demand for a local settlement of the conflict in North China and that any agreement must have Nanking's approval.

This communication was handed to Shinrokuro Hidaka, Japanese charge d'affaires, by a representative of Foreign Minister Wang Chung-hui.

Tells Nanking to Reconsider.

Hidaka, according to Nanking dispatches, declared he could not accept the statement of the Chinese Government's attitude. He told the envoy he would wait until midnight tonight for Nanking to submit a new reply.

Previous Chinese-Japanese crisis in North China have been settled between Japanese commanders on the spot and local Chinese officials. The Japanese Army, a dominant factor in determining China's policy, had insisted that any settlement of the present dispute must be local and that Nanking's acceptance or objection was of little importance.

The Chinese Government vigorously protested to Japan today that Japanese scouting planes had aided Chinese troop and supply trains with machine guns in Hopeh Province, violating China's territorial sovereignty.

Concerning the airplane-troop train clash Japanese admitted their planes had fired on the trains at Yuanshih, 170 miles south of Peiping on the Hankow Railroad, but declared the troops aboard the trains had first fired on the Japanese craft. The Chinese declared their troops had suffered many casualties in the attack.

Japan, scoffing reports that any real truce had been reached at the Tientsin conference Sunday, charged heavy concentrations of Chinese troops had violated an agreement which the Japanese Army says forbids the Nanking Government from sending troops into North China.

Ready for State of Emergency.

Particularly heavy concentrations of Chinese troops were said to have been made at Paotingfu, 85 miles south of Peiping while armies were moving in from the Northwest and South on the area where Japanese and Chinese have been fighting since July 7.

In view of the steadily increasing tension in the rich North China region, the Tokio metropolitan area was prepared for a state of emergency.

First reports of Chinese mobilizations drew a warning from Japan that she considered them a violation of the Ho-umezu agreement which formed the basis for the charges of invasion made today.

The terms of the agreement signed in 1935 by Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Chinese Minister of War and then ranking North China official, and Gen. Yoshijiri Umezu, at the time commander of the Japanese North China garrison, have never been made public. The Nanking Government does not recognize the agreement.

The Chinese Ambassador Hsu Shih-ying, en route to Tokio, was believed to be carrying important instructions from his Government.

The foreign office issued a detailed analysis of the reported Chinese troop movements to the north

PARASITE FLY EFFECTIVE IN FIGHTING GRASSHOPPERS

Scarcothagid, Found in Colorado, Lays Eggs Under Wing of Larger Insect.

By the Associated Press.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 19.—A fly known as sarcothagid is proving itself a stalwart ally in Colorado's war on grasshoppers.

Mortal insect enemy of the grasshopper, this near cousin of the common house fly may speed materially annihilation of the pests now ravaging ranges and fields in the State's worst infestation since 1880. While an experiment in spreading poison bait by airplane is to be attempted near Fort Morgan Tuesday, the effectiveness of sarcothagid's aerial onslaught is proved, Entomologist Sam C. McCampbell said today.

He said the fly, reported in increasing numbers in Eastern Colorado counties, has been credited in some years with as high as 90 per cent destruction of the season's grasshopper hatch. Darting after grasshoppers in flight, sarcothagid deposits its eggs on their bodies, usually right beneath the wings. The maggot that hatches from the egg within two or three days devours its way inside the grasshopper's body. Careful not to munch on any vital organ until it reaches maturity in 10 or 15 days, the parasite finally cuts into a vital spot, killing the insect so suddenly it may fall dead in flight, McCampbell said.

PATNA, India, July 19. — The death list in the wreck of the Calcutta Express reached 107 persons today as authorities continued their investigation of one of the worst rail disasters in India's history.

The dead included six women and one child. Sixty-five persons were injured. The engine and seven coaches of the express left the rails and plunged over an embankment 15 miles from Patna yesterday.

COMMUNISTS IN SPAIN AVOID COLLECTIVISM

"Soil Belongs to Those Who Work It" Says Minister of Agriculture.

(Copyright, 1937, by New York Tribune, Inc.)

VALENCIA, July 17.—"The soil belongs to those who work it and the State has no more than the right to intervene."

In these words, Viscente Uribe, Minister of Agriculture, defined the Government's land policy. In doing so he made it clear to the peasants that neither the Government, as a whole, nor particularly the Communist party, of which Uribe is a member, had any intention of forcing collectivization on them. On the contrary, the Communist party is one of the outstanding opponents of the collectivizing projects of the Anarchists, and the Government has broken up many collectives which the Anarchists had forcibly imposed on the countryside. As a result, the peasants are strongly with the republican government.

As another result the Communists are making nearly as fast progress in the countryside as in the towns. For they advocate and apply a program far removed from what is considered "Bolshevik." It is much nearer that of the French revolution which created the great conservative land owning peasant class, the backbone of French economy for nearly a century and a half. Spain, unlike Russia, is a land where the problem is much more to restore exhausted resources than to exploit virgin ones.

This is particularly the case with the land. The correspondent, accustomed to Western wheat lands, stared amazed at the wheat fields around Albacete, which by American standards seemed pitifully thin, although it is "the best crop Spain has ever seen." The land was very even and the fields very clean, but the correspondent did not see a field that would run 25 bushels to the acre. Where the road ran through the cuttings, it could be seen there was no top soil whatever. It had disappeared long ago. Crops were grown right on the sub soil. Everywhere there

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Thad Snow Reads Up on Fascism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AMONG periodicals which I receive are the Saturday Evening Post, the National City Bank Letter and Deutsche Weckruf. These publications are dissimilar in many respects, so I do not assert broadly that they fall under the same classification.

The Deutsche Weckruf, I suppose, would be called the official American Fascist journal. It is printed in German, which I read rustily, but carries a page in English which I read avidly. I am interested because I am unable to be dead sure that "it can't happen here."

I have read some books on Fascism and I have now just finished reading the Fascist Bible—Herr Hitler's "Mein Kampf." My somewhat weakened physical condition may account for low mental resistance. The book is overpowering. It contains no uncertainty, no questioning, no humor to relieve its tension. At any rate, I find myself quite under the spell of this remarkable book.

I am wondering if I would make a good Fascist, and if so how I should go about exterminating the Jews. First, I suppose, I ought to make sure that I am of pure Aryan stock and, like Hitler, chosen of God to exterminate "God's chosen." How could I find out if I am Aryan? Haven't I heard something about a blood test call the "Wasserman test"? Perhaps Martha Carr or Dr. Clendening knows if this test would tell if pure Aryan blood runs in my veins. I am blue-eyed and almost white-haired.

Are our Jews as bad as the German Jews? It is the international Jews that are the worst and nearly all are that kind in Germany. And all are Communists. If our Jews are like that, it would be real sport to crack both an international Jew and a Communist on one and the same head, like dropping two quails at one shot. There are not many Jews in my community and I would need, if possible, to overcome my personal liking for them before I go about killing them. How could I do this? But until I find out about the purity of my Aryan blood, I suppose I have no right to feel with Herr Hitler that I am chosen to "act for the Almighty Creator; that by fighting the Jews I am doing the Lord's work."

There is a new book just off the press: "The Spirit and Structure of Fascism," by Brady. It is well recommended. I am sending for it and will read it while awaiting the result of my blood test. The Jews will still be here for me to exterminate if my blood tests out "Aryan," and nothing else, and if this new book doesn't somewhat abate the spell of "Mein Kampf."

Those Marrying Squires.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WISH to commend your excellent and timely editorial, "No Credit to Missouri," in which you take to task those marrying squires who desire to reap a harvest by inducing Illinoisans to evade the recent marriage law passed by the Legislature of their State.

That law is unfortunately necessary and I resent the advertisements of law officers encouraging law evasion on the part of our young people. God knows they don't need to be taught that.

Our local paper has judiciously discontinued an advertisement which it should not have taken in the first place. Publicity hurts, but it does much good.

"Red-Hots" in the Labor Movement.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM going to give you some information I received from an honest ex-business agent, who served for 10 years, but whom crooks defeated. I am sorry to relate a story of this kind. My heart was with the C I O because my experience as a business agent had showed me the crookedness of the A. F. of L., and their payment of high salaries while men were in distress. I had hopes that the C I O would be run by men who were not yet contaminated.

My friend tells me that "red-hots" and racketeers are breaking their necks picking out places to organize. They put up the real workers as officers, and stay in the background because of their records, but they handle all the money. This means "good night" for the trade union movement. Because after these racketeers see how easy it is to make a living, they will go out and grab off the gold mines of the A. F. of L. They will do as they did in Chicago; tell a business agent to resign and, if he doesn't, "out go his lights." And they only have to kill one or two and the rest will know they mean it.

It's a great field for racketeers than booze and not nearly as dangerous, unless one gets a nice, "fat" union that a bigger racketeer wants. UNION MAN.

Comment on State Legislatures.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE average state Legislature is nothing to boast about. In your columns recently you printed editorials from several newspapers in other states scoring the work of their Legislatures. In every case the criticisms were the same. In no instance were the interests of the taxpayer particularly considered. The only people the representative seemed to care about were those ever-present panhandling blocs who could deliver votes for him.

ROBERT INMAN PEELE.

Alton, Ill.

HENRY FORD AND THE UNION.

As much of industrial autocracy and the use of brutal strength as it shows, the evidence brought to light in the National Labor Relations Board hearing on charges against the Ford Motor Co. contains nothing particularly novel or surprising. The simple fact is that only by the employment of such methods could the Ford establishment have remained unorganized while all other automobile plants in the Detroit area recognized the United Automobile Workers of America.

A strong labor union movement does not leave an island of unorganized industry surrounded by union plants, except when extraordinary steps are taken to halt its advance. Hence, the testimony that ex-wrestlers and pugilists, football giants and ex-convicts were used to manhandle union organizers was more or less to have been expected. Evidence that the inhuman mass attack and beating inflicted May 16 on a group of union men distributing literature at the gate to the River Rouge plant was planned in advance and carried out by men hired for the purpose, rather than by "loyal employes," only bears out what was a matter of common knowledge.

Perhaps the most forceful form of intimidation has come from Mr. Ford himself, in the form of a declaration that he would never recognize the "United Automobile Workers of America or any other union." The inference is that he would close down his plants and leave 125,000 employes without jobs in Detroit alone rather than enter into a collective bargaining agreement with any legitimate employe organization, no matter what percentage of its employes it signed up.

It is worth noting, however, that Mr. Ford was willing to have his employes join the Ford Brotherhood of America, the company union which was nursed along until the Supreme Court upheld the Wagner Act.

Red-baiting has been the principal line of defense of Louis Colombo, Mr. Ford's counsel at the Labor Board hearing. Mr. Colombo has gone to great lengths to make it appear that the U A W A is a Communist-dominated organization. But while Mr. Colombo has been telling the country that the union is run by Communists, Mr. Ford has been telling his employes that the union is dominated by Wall Street, which is seeking to use it as a tool to stabilize wages and prevent him from giving future increases. So we have the picture of Wall Street in a deep-laid plot with a Communist outfit—a Red scare which not even Ham Fish would take seriously.

How long a company can use the tactics pictured at the Labor Board hearing to exclude the union from its plants will depend upon how vigorously the courts and the administration proceed to enforce the Wagner Act and how quickly Congress moves to correct any weakness it may have in protecting the right of collective bargaining. Also a factor is public opinion, which just now, due to excesses of the labor movement in certain fields, is more favorable to Mr. Ford than at any time in the past.

On Mr. Ford's side, it may be noted that his wage policy has not been niggardly and that even now he is talking of broad increases. The tragedy is that he does not realize there are other things of value to the worker than the money he draws—things that take into consideration the dignity and worth of the individual, which can be guaranteed only by a measure of democracy in industry.

Mr. Ford once said he would quit making motor cars if prohibition were repealed, but he changed his mind. He may yet change his mind about recognizing the union, particularly if the union re-establishes itself in the public esteem by order and observance of its contracts.

NOTE ON ST. LOUIS JUSTICE.

Every tactic known to legal tricksters is being used by St. Louis election crooks to avoid the consequences of their acts—except one. They are not filing motions for change of venue. That indicates a perfect satisfaction with the treatment they are getting at the hands of St. Louis Circuit Judges.

AIR SERVICE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

Wild visionaries long ago began predicting that the Atlantic Ocean would some day be spanned by passenger planes operating on regular schedule. It has been only a few years since practical technicians and business men began working on the possibilities. Now at last that new era is about to dawn.

Without fanfare, a Pan-American clipper and a British flying boat in the last 10 days have completed two-way crossings of the Atlantic. These are merely experimental flights. The length of time before regular service begins and the scientific caution with which the groundwork is being laid may be gauged by the fact that 18 months of survey flights were conducted before passengers embarked from San Francisco on the first clipper trip to Hawaii and the Orient.

From New York to London in 24 hours by scheduled transport service! The prospect staggers the imagination. Even more staggering is the type of plane now being built for use when the line begins operations. Russell Owen, describing the new craft in the New York Times, makes the point that these are not airplanes but, more properly, flying ships.

They will have sleeping accommodations for 40 passengers and a crew of eight or nine men—more than a Pullman car. Loaded for the take-off, they will weigh 40 tons. Four 1500-horsepower motors will propel them. Their wing span will be 150 feet. Five thousand pounds of mail, express and luggage can be carried. Gasoline capacity will be great enough to allow 5000 miles of flight without refueling, an ample margin for fighting headwinds and detouring storms on the 2000-mile passage.

Aviation is out of the stunt stage. It has become an important arm of transport and a major business. With scheduled service across the turbulent Atlantic in its preliminary stages, with virtual flying ocean liners in the building, one realizes that we are living in a new and dramatic age.

SPEAK OUT, SENATOR LEWIS!

How strange it is to find the name of a distinguished American like Senator Lewis of Illinois among the names of six Senators who have yet to express their views on the President's plan to pack the Supreme Court. Such reticence is understandable on the part of a sharp politician who waits to see where his own advantage lies; but it is mystifying in the case of a man like Senator Lewis, whose long career in public life is sufficient testimony of his character.

Here is the gravest issue to be presented to the Senate in generations. Here also is an issue which has been thoroughly explored by the ablest minds in more than five months of debate. Out of that debate it emerges in perfect clarity. Shall the President destroy the independence of the judiciary, or shall he not? Certainly the Senator from Illinois knows his own mind by this time. Why, then, when 89 of his colleagues have informed the public of their stand, does he remain mutely on the sidelines?

We hope to see the Senator take his stand with such of his colleagues as Senators Wheeler, Clark, Burke, Van Nuys and McCarran, who have electrified the country by their scorn of party ties when a great principle is at stake.

NO DOG RACING.

Gambling interests have made another attempt in the St. Louis area to revive dog racing, long notorious for its vicious accompaniments. The Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at Cahokia, Ill., was to have been the scene of the illegal enterprise. But these interests have encountered in Sheriff Sieckmann of St. Clair County an officer who knows the law and knows his duty. After his threat to raid the track and stop the races, the attempt has been called off.

Dog racing is inherently no more undesirable than horse racing. But since neither Missouri nor Illinois gives legal recognition to the dog tracks, the results of their operation, when they have operated, has been to gouge the public, to provide fat profits for the promoters and to establish a stronghold for gangsters and thugs. Bettors did not get a fair run for their money, because, in the absence of regulation, the promoters' "take" was any percentage their consciences, if any, dictated.

A dog track in operation, under these circumstances, has been a sure sign of official corruption. These illegal enterprises cannot run unless law enforcement authorities are "fixed," sometimes by outright bribes, sometimes by political or private pressure. The history of these outlaw enterprises in this region has been a sordid one.

But the word from St. Clair County this time is "nothing doing." A similar scheme to open a track in St. Louis County last month got the same answer. Such rebuffs, of course, do not end the promoters' efforts. Later attempts to set up these Golcondas will inevitably be made, and the public must insist that its officials see that the law is obeyed.

WHERE BEAUTY DWELLS.

A nationally syndicated columnist the other day remarked that Louisville, Ky., seems to have more pretty women for its size than any other city in the country. This comment has been modestly reprinted by papers in Louisville and vicinity, usually with the generous observation that Louisville probably hasn't so many more pretty girls than other Southern cities, like Memphis, Atlanta, Charleston and New Orleans. They always infer, however, that the South has a monopoly on feminine pulchritude.

It reminds us of a line old-time Kentucky politicians used to recite whenever they went out of the State to speak. It runs like this: "I am from Kentucky, where the grass is greener, fanned by Kentucky breezes and kissed by Kentucky suns; where the harvests are yellower, fanned by Kentucky breezes and kissed by Kentucky suns; where the girls are prettier, fanned by Kentucky breezes and kissed by Kentucky sons."

DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY ON SALES TAX.

A way has been discovered to escape payment of the Missouri sales tax, but it is available to very few persons living in the State. To obtain this exemption, it is necessary to be a foreign consul, a member of the staff or an employe. The German Consul here thriftily raised the point, and the Attorney-General's office has ruled that he and his help cannot be taxed. All persons in this group will shortly receive certificates entitling them to make purchases anywhere without bothering about mills and extra pennies. Comity of nations and international law are for them a wonderful thing.

We have been looking into this matter, and find that diplomatic immunity stretches across the ages all the way from Greece and Rome to Missouri store counters. The first envoys among nations were viewed as personal representatives of monarchs, and since monarchs were sacred in those days, envoys had to be sacred, too. As international law developed, nations agreed on certain privileges for envoys abroad, including inviolability of person, freedom from local criminal and civil jurisdiction, exemption from taxation, etc. These extend to their employes as well, though opinion is divided on whether they cover employes who are citizens of the receiving state. Missouri exempts them all, foreign-born and native.

Missourians shouldn't become indignant, however, for this is no ordinary tax-exemption loophole. It operates on a reciprocal basis. Exemption here enables our representatives abroad, where taxes are far heavier, to escape confiscatory levies. Diplomatic immunity from taxation is something really worth claiming in, for instance, Germany and Italy.

MORE CATHOLICS SENTENCED IN GERMANY.

The Nazis have scored another great propaganda victory in their war on religion. One of their controlled courts, this time at Trier, has convicted and sentenced 15 Catholics, arrested in the cloisters of the order of the Good Samaritan, on charges of immorality. The news will be broadcast over the length and breadth of Germany as further evidence that church institutions are dens of corruption, that children are in the gravest peril when sent there for religious instruction.

One detail will not be stressed: that of these 15, two were employes of the order and 13 were lay members. These lay members are chiefly derelicts, given refuge by monasteries and converts after the war and during the depression, as an act of Christian charity. They took no vows; they are merely menials in the institutions. Their offenses have been punished by the church itself, and the records of these church trials, running back for years and seized in raids by the Nazis, are the evidence for the present series of prosecutions. The great majority of those convicted in the hugely publicized immorality trials have been members of this group. Because of offenses by these persons, the whole institution of the church, with all its good works, moral influence and selfless service, has been condemned by the anti-religious rulers of Germany.

Despite such persecutions, both the Catholic and the Protestant churches in Germany are standing fast against the Nazi war on religion. In a land enveloped by tyranny, only the churches have the courage to defy the tyrants.

Tokio dispatches indicate that any conflict in the Far East will be wholly China's fault. China is stirring up all the trouble by refusing to let Japan conduct its plundering in peace.

JIM FARLEY HAS IT "IN THE BAG."

A British Economist Reports on America

Supreme Court issue, labor, gold question and tariff pacts were topics he heard most about on recent 6000-mile tour of country, London economic authority says; finds trade improved, farm areas more contented, but business worried over Washington policies; hopes Great Britain won't disappoint U. S. on reciprocal treaties.

Sir Josiah Stamp, British Economist, Banker and Writer, in the London Times.

MY recent tour in the United States was all east of the Mississippi basin, and not so extensive as the one before, but I covered some 6000 miles by rail and visited a dozen large cities and towns, mixing with most classes of the community, so that I was able to make broad comparisons with conditions and opinions of two years ago.

In New York, generally, the first subject arising in discussion is the Supreme Court issue. In Detroit, the uppermost question is the proper attitude to be taken toward the existing labor claims for "recognition." In Chicago, the first question to be asked was always, "What is going to happen about all this gold? Ought we to reduce the price, and if so, what will be the significance?" In Washington, most interest was taken in the prospects of the offer of commercial treaties now before the world.

Everywhere, but especially in Michigan, information is eagerly sought as to British experience on the labor question. The growth of respected and statesmanlike trade union leadership here, held largely responsible for keeping discipline within its own ranks in relation to its agreements, was universally commented upon in order to raise the question whether the material exists for such leadership in the States without several generations of education and experience, and whether there is the spirit among the rank and file to play their part.

The general opinion was that the conciliatory and negotiating attitude of mind, as distinct from an immediate appeal to force, is not so easy to attain, that the type of leader does not yet exist and that the very polyglot character of the working population makes it difficult to get the same ideas of discipline.

On the "gold question," although interest is so wide and active, there are very few constructive ideas. Generally the feeling is against altering the buying price of gold at present, in the hope that something may happen to reverse the "inflow" trend.

The prospects of greater freedom of trade are not much discussed outside Washington, but there, from the fervent spirit of Cordell Hull downward, the highest hopes are set upon them. The commercial proposals are seen in direct relation to the risk of war, to an extent which is not appreciated at all in this country.

No peace is possible in Europe without trade appeasement, and, although it is realized that there may be immense domestic political objections to the United States' proposals, there is an idea that popular support might be more easily carried for a large and comprehensive gesture than for small concessions, because the moral appeal of world leadership by the United States will cover the smaller political tariff issues.

Appreciation is shown of the extreme difficulty of the British position in reconciling with this movement a significant amount of imperial preference. There is no desire to whittle preference down to the point where it ceases to be of importance, for one notices quite a new conception of the importance of the unity of the British Empire as a stabilizing influence in the world. All the same, the fear that the success of the great new liberalizing movement may be "jeopardized"—more pungent terms are generally used—by "a few raisins and apples," that is, by smaller detailed dominion interests, is very widespread.

I cannot urge too strongly the disappointment that will be felt in Washington if this gesture comes to nothing. In their judgment, it will set back the possibility of a similar opportunity for many years, put them in an awkward political position for what they think their critics will call quixotic generosity, and bring nearer the new war. There is more talk in America in a week about the certainty of war in Europe, and speculation on the exact day and place when and where it will break out, than in this country in 12 months.

Debates about the wisdom of the fiscal policy in the taxation of capital gains, and the special taxation of undistributed reserves are everywhere vigorous, but many suspect that the recent drive on tax-evaders or avoiders is a political device to divert attention. But the business world, in its anti-Roosevelt complex, sees a thief in every bush.

The improvement in general business is fairly clear, despite a recent lull. Fewer beggars are to be seen, and even the hitchhikers beckoning from the roadside for a lift seem mainly to be sporting or necessitous students getting home for the vacation by the cheapest route.

The agricultural areas are much more contented. Abuses of the unemployment dole have passed from the indignation phase into the commonplace jokes of the stage. The major cloud across business is the unknown upshot of the labor policy and the feeling that Washington is not in full sympathy with business.

America, despite wanton prodigality and excess, continues to impress with its immense resources and its resilience, and conveys in every context a feeling of significant world destiny.

POOR JUDGMENT.

From the Baltimore Sun.

POLITICIANS are slow to learn, as is shown again by the mess stirred up over the high-pressure salesmanship of the Democratic campaign book to make up a deficit in the campaign fund. The party managers might have anticipated the unsavory developments that have followed that exploit.

In the first place, if it did not violate the letter of the Corrupt Practices Act, it was a violation of the spirit of that law. And, of course, the use of the President's signature in the book was inexcusable. Aside from those objections to the venture, anyone should have known that, after the facts were ventilated, disgruntled Government contractors would charge that their difficulties were due to refusal to buy the book.

It is in the natural course of such business that Republican Representatives are flashing from day to day new accusations, "supported by affidavits," from business men who say they lost profitable Government business connections because of unwillingness to pay tribute to the Democratic organization.

Such a sequel was so certain that even eagerness to get the money should not have induced presumably shrewd politicians to ignore the risk.

So It Isn't Free!

From the Kansas City Star.

FROM time to time, the people of Missouri and other states are reminded of a generous Government which is spending large amounts of money every year for their benefit. Much was heard of this in the campaign last year. Lists were prepared for each state, showing the volume of Federal funds that had been poured in since the beginning of the New Deal. Nothing was said about the source of the money; apparently it came out of the pocket of a mythical person known as Uncle Sam.

Enlightenment as to where Uncle Sam gets his money is afforded by the report of internal revenue receipts for the year ending June 30. For the recent period of 12 months, it is shown that total Federal tax collections from Missouri amounted to nearly $108,500,000. These were not paid simply by the few, but by virtually every person in the State, in direct or indirect form. They included not only income and corporation taxes, but liquor taxes, nuisance taxes (a long list covering gasoline, motor car tires and accessories and many others), social security taxes and the like.

As to the amounts returned to the State, they have been larger than usual, of course, in the days of the present liberal regime at Washington. Up to a few months ago, the total turned into this State was estimated at $562,000,000 in the four years elapsed since 1933. That was an average of about $140,000,000 a year.

But the bulk of this was in the form of loans, by the R F C, the H O L C and the F C A, principally. This was money to be paid back by the individual borrowers themselves. Less than 15 per cent of the total had been spent for direct relief and only a little more than 20 per cent for work relief, grants and so on, which would not be repaid by the recipients directly.

But it is readily seen that when a balance is struck, and especially as all the internal revenue payments increase, this State will be getting nothing that it does not pay for and that the chances will be, as the spending inevitably tapers off, Missouri's payments to the Government will exceed its "receipts," in all their dubious forms.

This State, along with the others, must help to pay the debts that have been accumulated in the free and easy days of Government largess. Nobody should be fooled.

CURE FOR LEGISLATIVE ILLS.

From the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram.

THE Missouri Legislature is coming in for considerable criticism. Reports indicate that its session failed lamentably in reaching the Missouri ideal of public service. The thought runs through the bill of complaints that there was not sufficient attention paid to the selection of the personnel.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch alleges that the session was too expensively long-drawn-out, too improvident in finance, too heedless in passing bills, too dilatory. It mentions the Nebraska experiment and says the record of that State's first year with a unicameral Legislature is sufficient to justify states not enjoying the service they deserve to take steps toward a change to the Nebraska model. It concludes:

"The breakdown of state legislative systems, in Missouri as elsewhere, is a vital challenge to the public's self-interest. If, in spite of the fact that they are being robbed and cheated by their faithless representatives, they continue to be indifferent, the people deserve the misrule they are getting."

Missouri is the "Show-Me State." It begins to appear as though a fellow feeling may eventually make the other 47 states kin to Nebraska. Missouri is learning.

Congress Should Adjourn

WITH the death of Senator Robinson, the only sensible thing to do is for Congress to finish up its routine business and adjourn. There is no doubt that this is what Congress would do if the President nodded his head.

Why should he not do it? If he believes that the large controversial measures, the judiciary bill, the reorganization bill, the farm bill and the wages-and-hours bill cannot wait for the regular session in January, what can he possibly lose by agreeing to an adjournment until autumn?

The obvious fact is that the climate of Washington in midsummer is dangerous to the health and even worse for the nerves of men who have to carry heavy responsibility. No one who has not spent a summer in Washington can fully appreciate the cruel, sodden and exasperating heat which smothers the capital night and day, makes the streets hideous and the nights without rest. Most men cannot think straight when they are so dreadfully uncomfortable, and only saints are amiable.

In a great emergency like that of 1917-18 or of 1933, men have to make the best of the Washington summer. But at least in such emergencies they are working in unison with every one else and they are uncomfortable in a common cause.

Today, however, men are at cross-purposes. They are irritable, impatient, suspicious and resentful. Surely, it is wrong to ask them to make great decisions when those same decisions can be made far more intelligently after they have had a rest, have cooled off and composed their minds.

It is necessary to choose a new leader of the Democrats in the Senate. There is no leader now in sight who commands as much respect as did Senator Robinson in both wings of the Democratic party. With the judiciary bill in its present status, the struggle over the court must surely become a struggle for the leadership of the party.

Unless it is the President's purpose to split his party, to seek to crush the dissenters here and now, and to establish his personal ascendancy over what is left of his party, the obvious thing to do is to recommit the judiciary bill, postpone the other bills, and by these concessions to narrow the schism and restore a little good feeling.

For what will be the position of Senator Robinson's successor if he has to inaugurate his leadership by attempting to override a passionately convinced minority in his own party?

To ask for an adjournment is even better than to conduct a filibuster. For no one can honestly say that Congress is more fit to decide these great issues in July than it will be in October. If, as the President no doubt believes, the people are with him, why should he hesitate to let Congress adjourn? Will the people care less for his measures in October than they do in July? Has he any reason to fear that the tides of opinion are running against him?

It may be that he has reason to fear that they are. But that is not a good reason for insistence now on laws that a calmer and cooler opinion might not support.

DISCHARGE OF MARRIED WOMEN ATTACKED BY CLUB

National Federation President Says Merit System Should Be Followed.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 19. —Denial of the right of married women to work is "a direct violation of a fundamental tenet of the merit principle," Miss Charl Ormond Williams, president, told the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs today.

Miss Williams made the statement in a strong protest to Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Works Progress Administration assistant, against an appeal by the Massachusetts Women' Political Club that married women be discharged first in any W P A personnel reduction.

"We have long believed that denial of the right of married women to work is an oblique attack upon the rights of all women," Miss Williams said.

The federation, representing 65,000 busines and professional women, 70 per cent of them unmarried, was "unalterably opposed" to the "discriminatory" action of the Massachusetts Club, she said. She repeated, the federation's stand for selection of public personnel "solely on the basis of merit."

MISSIONARY TO CHINA TELLS ABOUT CHURCH MERGER THERE

The Rev. Ralph C. Wells Reports to Second Presbyterian Congregation.

The organization of the Church of Christ in China through the merger of mission churches of 14 denominations was described yesterday by the Rev. Ralph C. Wells, missionary in China, to the congregation of Second Presbyterian Church, which sponsors his work.

The new church, with 135,000 Chinese members, is the largest Protestant Christian body in the country, Dr. Wells said. The Presbyterian, Reformed, English Methodist and United Church of Canada were denominations which joined in the merger.

Although only two out of 1000 Chinese are Christians, many Christians are leaders in business and the professions, and Christianity has an influence on the country out of proportion to its numerical strength, Dr. Wells declared. Stationed in Shanghai, he is chairman of the China Council of Presbyterian Churches, United States of America.

The line runs roughly 350 miles south of Peiping.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE HEAD QUITS IN ROW

Tyler Dennett, Pulitzer Prize Biographer, Resigns in Dispute With Trustees.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 19.—Difficulties with the trustees of Williams College has resulted in the resignation of President Tyler Dennett, Pulitzer prize winner, with the prospect his intimate friend, Dr. James Phinney Baxter III, of Harvard, will be his successor.

Well informed sources said today Dr. Baxter, associate professor of history at Harvard, would be named by the board of trustees to succeed Dennett when his resignation becomes effective Sept. 1.

Dennett, who succeeded A. Harry Garfield, son of the martyred President, three years ago, announced yesterday the trustees accepted his resignation July 9.

Difficulties with the trustees over financial policies, and the question whether the president was to be regarded as an employe of the board or as a leader of faculty and trustees, occasioned his resignation, Dr. Dennett stated.

"The question which occasioned my resignation," Dr. Dennett said, in announcing it, "Is whether a liberal arts college has non-educational policies which are the particular concern of the board of trustees, and whether the board should take action on such policies without reference to the effect on the general plan for developing the college."

During Dr. Dennett's administration he made numerous curricular innovations, introduced comprehensive examinations and the degree with honors. He won the Pulitzer prize in 1934 with his biography of John Hay.

Dr. Baxter, a graduate of Williams with the class of 1914, is an expert in the field of naval affairs and diplomatic history. Elected an alumni member of the Williams trustees in 1936, Dr. Baxter was made a permanent member last month to succeed the late Dr. Harry P. Dewey of Minneapolis.

2,750,000 FISH PUT IN MISSOURI STREAMS

1936 Distribution Included Bass, Crappie, Blue Gill, Sunfish, Channel Cat and Trout.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—State Game and Fish Department's hatcheries distributed about 2,750,000 fish in the State's lake and streams during 1936, according to its annual report given out here.

On July 1 the department was replacede by the new State Conservation Commission.

Of the total distributed nearly 600,000 were bass, of which 589,734 were large-mouth and 19,780 small-mouth.

Also distributed were 523,947 crappie, 735,250 bluegill, 637,105 green sunfish, 10,600 goggle-eye, 159,669 channel cat, 3300 other varieties of catfish and 90,000 trout.

G. B. Herndon, chief of hatcheries, stressed that the department continued the policy adopted in 1933 of a shift away from emphasas on production of trout, to which only about 2 per cent of the State's fishing waters are adapted, toward the black bass and other native fish.

In 1933, he said, 30 per cent of the production was devoted to trout and the State had three trout hatcheries and only three modern bass ponds. At present the State has two trout hatcheries and 41 bass ponds.

Trout propagation has been made self-supporting through a policy of planting only catchable size fish in the three major State park streams.

"It is not contended to be purely a conservation measure, as the species will not reproduce itself materially in Missouri or other states west of the rockies," Herndon said. "Revenue derived from license sales attributed directly to trout fishing, and from concessions at the State parks, supports the program.

Production of all varieties of fish was hampered by dry weather in 1936.

Fish planting in the State now is carried on directly by employes of the hatcheries instead of the old system which Herndon describes as "shipping them by train to be unloaded and all too often left on the station platform and much later hauled to the lake or stream and dumped by those entirely ignorant of fish restoration."

were gaping washouts, "arroyos," ruined land and goat-bitten barrens. A long term program of soil restoration is necessary.

American experience demonstrates that such large scale operations necessitate government intervention and control, but are not incompatible with individual ownership. Uribe stressed:

"Our state is not a Socialist state, but neither is it capitalist. For many the revolution was nothing but a chance to create collectives with might and main. Others believed help for the small farmer was a counter-revolutionary act. We believe that to try to create collectives by force is to create a destructive spirit behind the lines. War must be won on fronts and as we have not yet conquered the enemy, it is more than premature to have rehearsals that might prejudice victory. During the war period we have been faced with outrages and acts of violence committed especially by the so-called 'uncontrollables,' who were nothing more than gangs of outlaws who went to the villages to steal the products of the peasants' work." This refers to committees set up by the Poum (Trotskyists, for want of a better name) and the C. N. T. (Anarcho-Syndicalist trade union), to force the peasants into collective farms.

"But, the Communist party had already told the peasants that if such people came to rob them of their harvests, they should rise against them as they saw fit. In this way, the party gave the peasants the confidence they needed, and thanks to this policy the outrages were ended."

Thanks also to the energy with which the government repressed such collectivizations and the Ministry of Agriculture's land campaign last fall, more land was sown; 85,000,000 pesetas in credits have been advanced by the Ministry of Agriculture, and tons of seed have been distributed. The agriculture credits office also granted another 25,000,000 pesetas.

Work is particularly directed for the present to co-operative organization, following close study of Danish, Canadian and New Zealand co-operatives. They specialize in wholesale purchase of fertilizers and implements for marketing crops.

In Catalonia, which has had longer experience with co-operatives, retail stores for members are also functioning. There are certain areas in Spain, particularly the territory now occupied by the rebels, where there are vast areas occupied by large estates. Collectives will be introduced there as the best method of bringing the underpopulated and ill equipped regions into production.

Uribe stated:

"Collective work in the country is necessary, but it must be done voluntarily. It must be left to the peasant to organize; he must be able to do this freely in the form he prefers."

LLOYD GEORGE CALLS PALESTINE REPORT DEPLORABLE

the resources of the country; in drainage, reclamation and planting of marsh wilderness; in housing, in new industries, in electricity.

But it is acknowledged that the transformation which has taken place is attributable not merely to Jewish money, but more so to Jewish skill, intelligence and enterprise.

The advent of the Jews has been like a transfusion of healthy blood to a community that lacked vitality and vigor.

This success from which Arabs, both high and low, have profited has not induced gratitude in their breasts. On the contrary, it has incited jealousy, suspicion, fear and downright hatred. Hence the trouble.

When for two or three years the prospects of a Jewish settlement appeared dubious, the Arab was tolerant and quiescent. Now that its triumphs are accomplished and are an acknowledged fact, the Arab is in revolt at the movement whose achievements in 15 years are such a condemnation of his centuries of ineptitude.

Division Is Not Intelligent.

Even if the partition was inevitable, the actual division of territory and towns proposed in the report is not intelligent. It dooms large tracts of once fertile land in the north and south to desolation.

South of Galilean Lake and north of Beersheba there are hundreds of thousands of acres which Jews once fertilized with their industry which are now pure desert and swamp.

Jewish enterprise would in a few years restore their pristine verdure and glory. But this foolish document perpetuates these unsightly wastes. The Arabs prefer this blot to Jewish occupation.

The Arabs have every reason to be thankful for the war to which the Zionist pledge was incident, for the treaties that registered an allied victory in the war.

Before the war there was not a single free Arab nation in the world. Every Arab country had a foreign master. Now at least four great Arab nations are independent and self-governing—Arabia, Iraq, Syria, Egypt.

Allies Gave Arabs Freedom.

Had the allies been defeated in the war these millions of now-liberated Arabs would have been still under foreign domination.

How much did the Arabs contribute to their own emancipation? In Iraq, Syria and Palestine they fought in the armies of their oppressors. The Arab tribes who rebelled against Turkey under Hussein's leadership rendered effective assistance to the allies, but their numbers aggregated but a few thousand horsemen.

They fought with all the dash and daring that once upon a time made the prowess of Arab cavalry the terror of the nations and empires from the Euphrates to the Loire. But the vast majority of their race in the great war were fighting for their Turkish conquerors.

Arab freedom was won by soldiers and sailors of the British Empire. Allenby had under his command in the Palestine campaign 450,000 men drawn from every part of the empire. This figure included men of all ranks and races.

The maximum strength of the Mesopotamian force was 446,000 men. The casualties sustained by the empire in two campaigns for Arab liberation amounted to 146,000 men and the expenditures reached billions of dollars.

England Got Years of Worry.

What did Britain get out of all this costly effort? Apart from the overthrow of one of Germany's allies, nothing for herself except years of worry.

What did the Arab get out of it? Freedom over vast territory much more extensive than that ruled over by the imposing empire of Assyrian Kings.

The idea of partition is repudiated by both the Arab and the Jew. The notion which underlies this crazy scheme is the hasty assumption that two races, two languages and two religions cannot dwell in amity in the same country.

This is contrary to the experience of the British Empire.

In India, both parties, Congress and imperialist alike, accept the common thesis that Aryan, Semite, Hindu, Moslem, Buddhist and Christian must, and can, continue to live together and share the responsibilities of government in one great community.

Briton, French, Protestant and Catholic live side by side and jointly govern the vast Dominion of Canada. The same experience applies to South Africa.

Why is it impossible to contemplate similar co-operation of races and creeds in Palestine? Arabs and Jews are both Semites in their origin.

STEEL, MOTOR GROUPS LEAD RALLY; TRADE MORE ACTIVE

News of Day, Including Second Quarter Corporation Reports, Favorably Viewed by Wall Street and Bids for Favorites Are Lifted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19. — With steels and motors beating a new recovery trail, stock market leaders today pushed up fractions to 3 points. There were a few wider gains.

Business news, including highly satisfactory second quarter corporation reports, was to the liking of Wall street and bids for favorites were lifted at the start.

U. S. Steel began the trek with an advance of a point at the opening on a block of 4000 shares. It later crossed 119, up more than 2, to a new top for the current recovery.

Chrysler jumped around 4, J. I. Case 7, Sloss-Sheffield 5 and Deere and Howe Sound 3 each at the best. There was profit selling in the final lap, but this was well absorbed and late recessions were unimportant in most instances.

While activity was not pronounced, transfers were in the neighborhood of 950,000 shares.

Steel Setback Slight.

Buyers apparently saw nothing particularly disturbing in a slight setback in this week's steel mill operating rate and another break in the French franc to a low since 1926.

Bonds and commodities failed to provide inspiration for stocks. Uneven trends prevailed in the loans division. Wheat at Chicago was off 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents a bushel and corn was down 2¼ to up ⅜.

Conspicuous share gainers included Bethlehem, Steel, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, General Motors, Yellow Truck, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Macy, International Harvester, American Can, Westinghouse, Continental Can, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, International Nickel, Allis Chalmers, General Electric, duPont, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Up as much as a point at the last were Wheeling Steel, National Lead, American Power & Light, Continental Oil, Spiegel, Inc., Commercial Solvents and Budd Mfg.

At mid-afternoon the French currency was off .01½ of a cent at 3.75½ cents and sterling was up ¼ of a cent at $4.97⅝.

Cotton yielded 5 to 15 cents a bale.

News of the Day.

Warner Bros. held to a narrow groove despite its 13-weeks' statement disclosing an increase in net nearly three times the total in the same period last year. Paramount picked up a following.

Brokers reported some short covering in the motors, in addition to fresh buying, on the theory this group may have been oversold lately.

Indications the agricultural machinery manufacturers are striving to develop new customers in the low-price field, together with bumper crop prospects, brought a renewal of interest in this department. Rails also were mildly responsive to the farm outlook, as were mail orders.

Coppers and oils were in the limelight as consumption was believed to augur well for profits over the remainder of the year.

Over Week-End Developments.

Buoying the recovery side was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which predicted a renewal of steel purchasing now that production has come back promptly after the removal of labor hindrances.

Efforts to reduce backlogs in sheets and tin plate, it was said, have had no great effect. It was also stressed that reservations by automobile builders for 1938 models are just around the corner.

The opinion was advanced that prices for the fourth quarter, expected to be announced shortly, will be reaffirmed on most products.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LONDON, July 19.—There was a continued demand for trans-Atlantic shares in today's stock market, especially U. S. Steel. Prices closed somewhat easier, although business was small. Gilt-edged securities and foreign bonds held steady, while industrials were heavy. Home rails were in better demand and the metal groups were mixed, with copper issues selling lower.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 19.—The Bourse had an irregular tone at the close, with Government bonds very firm, rentes advancing 85 to 305 centimes. Bank of France shares moved up 405 francs and Royal Dutch was slightly higher. Suez Canal lost 100 francs.

LIVERPOOL, July 19.—A decided smaller milling demand and reports of cooler weather in Canada had a depressing influence on wheat futures, which closed 1½d to 1⅝d net lower. Cotton futures closed 3 to 5 points lower and the market was quiet in absence of speculative interest. Prices sold off on disappointing overseas advices and Bombay selling.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Coffee, spot closed steady Monday; Rio No. 7, 9¼c; santos No. 4, 11½c.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 19.—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—New business in wool was slow Monday but quotations were steady compared with last week. Current mill requirements were filled largely by previously purchased wools now being delivered. Buyers were looking for bargains. Some showed interest in graded territory wools for futures requirements.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES STEADY 1 TO 3 LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Early moderate advances in cotton today on trade buying and covering encountered increased selling and domestic liquidation as crop advices from the South continued favorable.

Futures closed steady, 1 to 3 lower. Oct. 12.01; Dec. 11.93@11.94; Jan. 11.94; March 12.01@12.02; May 12.04@12.05. Spot steady; middling 12.51.

Dec. sold off from 12.00 to 11.85 and mid-afternoon was 11.88 with the list 7 to 9 points net lower.

The selling was not active. It included a moderate volume of liquidation and hedge selling. Traders generally inclined to hold off and when the selling let up prices responded to small covering and trade buying.

Reports of weevils from Texas and forecast for showers in the eastern belt brought in some local buying causing December to rally from 11.93@12.00. Shortly after the first half hour it was selling at 11.98 with prices generally 2 to 4 points net higher.

Declines at Liverpool were attributed to disappointing overseas advices. Reports from Shanghai to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicated an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in the Chinese cotton acreage and said that this could produce a crop of 4,000,000 bales and would place China as a rival to India as the world's second largest cotton producer.

The market was quiet later in the morning. Price movements were narrow and by midday the market was at or within a point of Saturday's closing levels. There was little inclination to sell owing to nervousness over the Texas weevil situation but buyers were cautious owing to the generally favorable crop advices.

Reports from correspondents of the New York Cotton Exchange Service indicated the condition of the crop in mid-July was exceptionally high.

December, which rallied from 11.93c to 12.00c, was selling at 11.95c at midday.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—Spot cotton closed quiet; 2 points lower; sales 394; low middling 10.85; middling 12.35; good middling 12.90; receipts 220; stocks 272,462.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 19.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 12.25c, unchanged from Saturday. Sales amounted to 135 bales.

WHEAT DIPS ON 21,861,000 BU. VISIBLE GAIN

Record Weekly Increase in United States Supply of Fine Grain — Loss of Over 2 Cents at One Period.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19—Pulled down by the largest weekly increase of the United States wheat visible supply ever known, wheat tumbled 2½ cents a bushel maximum late today.

The increase was 21,861,000 bushels. A year ago, the increase was but 13,739,000 bushels.

At the close, wheat was 1⅛@1⅞c under Saturday's finish, Sept. $1.26⅜@⅝; Dec. $1.27⅞@28. Corn, 2¼c off to ⅜c up; Sept. $1.10¼@⅜; Dec. 77⅝@@c, and oats 1⅝@2c down.

Approximately 1½ cents fall of values marked Chicago wheat trade at times early today, with indications that buying power had halted to await rust developments.

The fact that American and Canadian wheat prices were both apparently out of line to permit much export business acted as a weight on the market. County also on the side of downturns of values was talk that the drouth disaster to Canadian crops had been discounted to a large degree, and was without further immediate effect as a market stimulus. It was contended, too, in various quarters that the wheat market was vulnerable to selling pressure in the absence of any sensational military happenings in the Far East or in Europe.

Contributing to the downward trend of wheat prices here was the circumstance that the Liverpool market, due ⅝-1⅛ cents lower, closed today 1⅞-2 cents down. On the other hand, some dispatches received from domestic spring wheat districts, notably about Mandan, N. D., said that even with the best of weather the damage this season from black rust will be serious and with sultry weather a calamity.

Corn, rye, and oats averaged lower with wheat. Corn crop prospects continued auspicious.

Provisions responded to upturns of hog values.

Wheat futures purchases Saturday totaled 34,986,000 bushels; corn 4,641,000. Open interest in wheat was 100,477,000 bushels, and in corn 33,960,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 19.—Wheat futures were lower today, at one time being 1⅞@2⅝c off. At the close September sold at $1.25⅜, down 1c. and December at $1.27¼, down 1⅝c. July closed at $1.25.

Liverpool wheat opened 1⅛@1½d higher and in a later cable was ⅛@¼d net up. The close was 1½@1⅝d lower.

Winnipeg wheat started ⅛@½c higher and early was 2½@2⅝c lower. The close was 3⅝@3¾c lower.

Argentine wheat opened 1¼c up and corn unchanged.

Local wheat receipts which were 658,500 bushels, compared with 640,500 a week ago and 619,500 a year ago, included 420 cars local and 19 through. Corn receipts which were 21,000 bushels, compared with 19,500 a week ago and 66,000 a year ago, included 13 cars local and one through. Oats receipts which were 78,000 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 60,000 a year ago included 37 cars local and two through. Hay receipts were two cars local.

TRI-STATE LEAD AND ZINC

By the Associated Press.

WHEAT DIPS ON 21,861,000 BU. VISIBLE GAIN

Record Weekly Increase in United States Supply of Fine Grain — Loss of Over 2 Cents at One Period.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19—Pulled down by the largest weekly increase of the United States wheat visible supply ever known, wheat tumbled 2¼ cents a bushel maximum late today.

The increase was 21,861,000 bushels. A year ago, the increase was but 13,739,000 bushels.

At the close, wheat was 1⅛@1⅞c under Saturday's finish, Sept. $1.26⅜@⅝; Dec. $1.27⅞@28. Corn, 2¼c off to ⅜c up; Sept. $1.10¼@⅜; Dec. 77⅝@@c, and oats 1⅝@3c down.

Approximately 1½ cents fall of values marked Chicago wheat trade at times early today, with indications that buying power had halted to await rust developments.

The fact that American and Canadian wheat prices were both apparently out of line to permit much export business acted as a weight on the market. County also on the side of downturns of values was talk that the drouth disaster to Canadian crops had been discounted to a large degree, and was without further immediate effect as a market stimulus. It was contended, too, in various quarters that the wheat market was vulnerable to selling pressure in the absence of any sensational military happenings in the Far East or in Europe.

Contributing to the downward trend of wheat prices here was the circumstance that the Liverpool market, due ⅝-1¼ cents lower, closed today 1⅞-2 cents down. On the other hand, some dispatches received from domestic spring wheat districts, notably about Mandan, N. D., said that even with the best of weather the damage this season from black rust will be serious and with sultry weather a calamity.

Corn, rye, and oats averaged lower with wheat. Corn crop prospects continued auspicious.

Provisions responded to upturns of hog values.

Wheat futures purchases Saturday totaled 34,986,000 bushels; corn 4,641,000. Open interest in wheat was 100,477,000 bushels, and in corn 33,960,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 19—Wheat futures were lower today, at one time being 1⅞@2⅝c off. At the close September sold at $1.25⅜, down 1c, and December at $1.27¼, down 1⅜c. July closed at $1.25.

Liverpool wheat opened 1⅛@1½d higher and in a later cable was ⅛@¼d net up. The close was 1½@1⅝d lower.

Winnipeg wheat started ⅛@½c higher and early was 2½@2⅝c lower. The close was 3⅜@3¾c lower.

Argentine wheat opened 1¼c up and corn unchanged.

Local wheat receipts which were 658,500 bushels, compared with 640,500 a week ago and 619,500 a year ago, included 420 cars local and 19 through. Corn receipts which were 21,000 bushels, compared with 19,500 a week ago and 66,000 a year ago, included 13 cars local and one through. Oats receipts which were 78,000 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 60,000 a year ago included 37 cars local and two through. Hay receipts were two cars local.

TRI-STATE LEAD AND ZINC

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 19.—Recent heavy purchases of slab zinc and a resultant rise in domestic and foreign quotations brought about a 50-cent increase for zinc concentrates on the Joplin market last week. FRENCH FRANC RATE LOWEST SINCE 1926

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A sharp drop in the French franc, carrying it to the lowest level since 1926, failed to disturb other leading foreign currencies today and most ended higher in terms of the dollar.

The franc dropped .01½ of a cent to 3.75½c. The currency for 90-day delivery, however, remained at a discount of .17 of a cent. Continued financial difficulties of the Chautemps Government was the main factor behind the drop in spot francs, bankers said.

The British pound sterling advanced 3-16 of a cent to 4.97 9-16, German marks were .01 of a cent higher, and Swiss francs improved .01 of a cent. The guilder lost .01 of a cent.

In London dollar ended at 4.97⅝, off 5-16 of a cent from the New York weekend rate and in Paris the American currency was quoted at the equivalent of 3.781 cents to the franc, against Saturday's New York rate of 3.770 cents.

The Federal Reserve Bank reported gold engagements abroad included $749,000 in India and $6,900,000 in Japan.

HALF YEAR'S PLANT EXPANSION PLANS

Securities Commission Records Show Industry Going to Market for $378,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Securities Commission records showed that industry has gone to the financial markets for $378,000,000 to finance expansion of plants, equipment and investories during the first half of this year.

Registration statements disclosed plans to build new paper mills in Florida and Washington, copper plants in Arizona, distillery warehouses in Indiana, chemical plants in the east, roofing plants in New Jersey, pipelines in Kansas, utilities in Connecticut, Ohio and Texas, a brass mill in Connecticut, a steel mill in Indiana and many other projects.

During the half year, companies met legal requirements for selling securities calling for $113,000,000 to be spent directly on plant and equipment and $265,000,000 to be added to working capital and spent for expansion or similar purposes. Officials described these two types of issues as "new money" financing, as distinguished from refunding, debt retirement or investment.

The statement of the companies, however, indicated these construction financing securities are only part of a much more vast industrial expansion movement. The Phelps-Dodge Corporation, for instance, issued $20,285,000 worth of securities but explained they were only part payment on a $40,856,000 expansion project for its copper properties at Morenci and Ajo, Ariz.

Just before the recent strike began, the Inland Steel Co. registered $8,600,000 worth of securities intended to help pay for $16,000,000 worth of improvements in progress at Indian Harbor, Ind., and $5,200,000 worth of future construction.

Some of the other large construction plans indicated in connection with new issues in recent months include:

STEEL PRODUCTION RATE 82.5 PER CENT

Most of 15.4 Point Jump Registered in Preceding Week Is Maintained.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Operations in the steel industry for the current week declined .2 of a point to 82.5 per cent of capacity, compared with 82.7 per cent last week, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated.

A month ago operations averaged 75.9 per cent of capacity while a year ago the rate was 70.9 per cent.

The small decline indicated Mills had held most of the 15.4-point jump registered in the preceding week as a result of rebound from July 4 holiday closings, and reopening of strike-bound plants.

On the basis of incoming orders, steel circles estimated production might continue around the current rate through July.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Weekly summary of the iron and steel markets by the magazine Steel:

With production snapping back promptly after removal of the labor blockade that had liimted output since late in May, steelmakers are giving the most positive evidence of belief in continued strength and expectation of renewed buying after the usual summer slackness.

In fact, except in bars, strip and some other lines, they find it incumbent to make every effort to give delivery on as much booked tonnage as possible to be in position to meet requirements of consumers when fall buying starts. In sheets and tin plate best efforts to reduce backlogs have not had much effect and reservations by automobile builders for 1938 models are just around the corner, some small lots already having been covered.

Bookings by some leading sellers have been at only 25 to 30 per cent below the June average and considerably better than at this time last year.

Announcement of finished steel and other prices for fourth quarter is expected within a short time and the belief is that prices will be reaffirmed on most products, with minor exceptions.

To market observers who believe scrap prices foretell future conditions the present situation forecasts an active fall and winter. The increase in price last week was general at $1 to $2 per ton, dealers finding difficulty in obtaining sufficient tonnage to meet requirements. The rise is fully as rapid as the decline that started in April.

Full Plant Operation.

Full operation in plants was felt last week and the national operating rate rose 8 points to 82 per cent of capacity, the best level since interruptions started at the end of May. Resumptions gave Cleveland 32 points rise to 79 per cent, Chicago 14 points to 84, Youngstown 2 to 78, Pittsburgh 21 to 88, Wheeling 14 to 91. Eastern Pennsylvania rose 3 points to 68 and Detroit 2 points to 97. New England showed the only decline, 2 points to 78. No change was shown by Birmingham at 96 per cent, Cincinnati at 93, St. Louis at 93 and Buffalo at 88.

Movement of iron ore from the Lake Superior district continues at accelerating pace, June shipments being 10,107,883 tons, a gain of 64,027 tons over May. For the season, to July 1, total shipments were 23,922,294 tons, more than double the 11,677,510 tons in the corresponding period of 1936. Strike conditions in steelworks had no effect on ore shipments and steelmakers are building stocks against heavy demands expected to continue through the winter.

Auto Production Up.

Automobile production last week rose to 115,380 units from the previous week, which was shortened by the holiday, but failed to reach the level of the second previous week. General Motors produced 49,840 cars, Chrysler 26,300 and Ford 26,655.

Imports of steel and iron products in May were considerably under those of April and May, 1936, reflecting the world situation, in which foreign nations need their products at home. May imports, aside from scrap, were 39,877 gross tons, compared with 56,484 in April and 43,696 in May, 1936. Scrap imports, principally from Canada, were 9175 tons in May, 11,713 in April and 15,695 in May, 1936. Five months imports, excluding scrap, were 226,058 tons, compared with 212,723 tons in the same period of 1936.

Great Britain continues production of steel ingots and pig iron at a rate close to the highest it ever attained. In June 1,106,400 tons of ingots was made, only slightly below the all-time record of 1,109,500 tons made in March. Even at this pace domestic steel supplies are insufficient and arrangements have been made for increasing the entente import quota by 200,000 tons for the current year.

Because of the general rise in scrap, steelmaking grades being $1 higher in almost every case, the composite scrap price rose $1, to $18.75, practically the level of the second week in May, when it was $18.75. This is the third consecutive rise, each being at a faster rate. The composite is still $3.33 below the peak, at the beginning of April, when it was $22.08. The iron and steel composite also felt the uplift of the scrap movement, rising 13 cents, to $40.04. The finished steel composite is stationary at $61.70.

MISSOURI KIDNAPER TO SEEK TRIAL DELAY

Case of Killer of Willow Springs Doctor Set for Tomorrow at Alton.

By the Associated Press.

ALTON, Mo., July 19.—Prosecuting Attorney Will D. Roberts of Howell County said today he has learned William Costello of Kansas City, attorney for Robert Kenyon, 23-year-old Missouri farm hand held for the kidnaping and killing of Dr. J. C. B. Davis at Willow Springs, will ask for continuance when the case comes up in Circuit Court here tomorrow.

Prosecutor Roberts has said he would ask for the death penalty. The case was brought here on a change of venue. Circuit Judge W. Barton of Houston will preside.

If a continuance is granted, the trial will be reset for the November term.

30 State Witnesses.

Attorney Roberts has subpenaed 30 witnesses, but so far the defense has indicated it will use only three. They are Walter Braddock of Grimmett, Mrs. Will Hopkins, who lives near Grimmett, and the accused man's friend, Opal Welch, 17, who lives near Dora. Among those who will testify for the State are some of the 18 Government agents who worked with Howell County officers and State patrolmen on the case.

The 67-year-old physician, who was credited with bringing "half the town of Willow Springs into the world," disappeared Jan. 29 after he had been summoned into the country on a fake medical call.

Body Found Week Later.

A week later his bullet-pierced body was found in a thicket 13 miles south of Willow Springs. He was the fourth person to be killed by kidnapers in the country in the past five years.

The Davis family did not become alarmed when he failed to return from the call that night. Later they received two ransom notes demanding $5000 in bills of $1000, $100 and $20 denominations. One was in the doctor's handwriting. The other was a crudely printed note.

Efforts to make contact with the abductor failed. Kenyon was arrested shortly after Federal agents and State highway patrolmen entered the case. He led officers to the hidden body of the physician. The body was found face down with six bullet wounds. A check book was clutched in the left hand.

After Federal agents and highway officers questioned the youth, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, announced Kenyon had made a "full confession" assuming entire blame for the crime.

Col. B. Marvin Casteel, director of the highway patrol, said Kenyon had told him in an oral statement that he had killed the doctor about 35 minutes after he appeared at his office.

"Kenyon said he marched the doctor from his car into a thicket by the road," Col. Casteel said.

Offered Check to Kenyon.

"Dr. Davis drew his check book from his pocket and argued with Kenyon to accept a check for $5000. Kenyon refused. Dr. Davis took a couple of steps toward him and Kenyon pulled the trigger, he told me. He said he shot the physician twice in the chest. The doctor turned as he fell and Kenyon shot him twice more in the back and twice in the back of the head.

Col. Casteel quoted him as saying he killed the doctor because he had no place to keep him while he was negotiating for ransom.

Hoover said officers had found in Kenyon's pocket a tablet of writing paper which bore indentations shown to duplicate words in the two ransom notes.

Kenyon, held most of the time since his arrest in the Jackson County jail at Kansas City, waived preliminary hearing. He has been in jail at West Plains since June 1.

HEALTH SERVICE URGES MEN TO DOFF TIES IN HOT WEATHER

U. S. Officials Would Like to See Them Discard Collars and Sleeves as Well.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — The Public Health Service would like to see all men discard collars and ties during the hot season.

By doing so, doctors declare, the men would give perspiration a chance to evaporate, thereby improving their tempers and perhaps avoiding prostration.

"Hot weather is a physiological sock on the jaw," one surgeon declared, "but if you give the body a chance to do its normal work of sweating and evaporating it from the skin, you will keep cool."

Women have had an advantage over men for many years with their light dresses which enable perspiration to evaporate quickly, the surgeon declared, but men are rapidly catching up.

"Wearing shorts is of little help," he declared, "because the principal necessity is to promote evaporation from the upper part of the body. Men are finally coming to wearing lighter and less clothing, particularly on the golf courses and at the swimming pools. Now if we could start a movement to eliminate collars, ties and sleeves, we would all feel much better."

PART FOUR — ST. LOUIS, MONDAY, JULY 19, 1937. — PAGES 1—6D

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

THERE'S nothin' in the world that spurs a man's ambition like the responsibility of children. Sometimes a wife, alone, can't make a man settle down but when he sees those little children that are dependent upon him, he'll drop his wild ways and work his fingers to the bone. It's just like my Uncle Hod — he was always a "ne'er-do-well" and never worked a day in his life until his son was born. When he came into town and started lookin' for a job people just couldn't believe it. One of the citizens said, "Well, why is it that you've never taken a job when we've offered it to you, but now you're actually askin' for work?" Uncle Hod says, "Well, I've got a son now and I've got to get ahold of some money." He said, "When my boy is twenty-one years old, I want'ta get him a hair cut — I want him to have things in life that I have missed."

A Naive Optimism

By Ely Culbertson

OPTIMISM undoubtedly is a healthy trait, but, like every other good t..i . can be carried to ridiculous extreme. This is particularly true at bridge. A player who barges blindly ahead on the assumption that he should find at least normal breaks automatically deprives himself of safety measures that have been devised for his protection against bad breaks. From the defenders' point of view, over-optimism consists in placing partner with a card, or cards, that there is virtually no chance of his holding.

In the hand show below, West's opening lead against a slam contract was the height of optimism, with no logic as a compensating factor.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ K 8 6 ♥ A Q 7 ♦ A Q J ♣ 7 6 3 2
♠ 9 5 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ K 10 9 8 4 2 ♣ A		♠ 7 4 2 ♥ K 9 8 5 ♦ 6 5 2 ♣ J 10 9
	♠ A Q J 10 3 ♥ J 10 ♦ 7 ♣ K Q 8 5 4

The bidding:

South.	North.	East.
1 spade	3 no trump	Pass
4 clubs	4 no trump	Pass
5 spades	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

With no appreciable hesitation, and probably even less thought, West laid down the club ace. After the dummy appeared he looked frantically, but, of course, fruitlessly, for a means of putting his partner on lead, so that he might ruff a club for the setting trick. His heart shift, however, met no success. Declarer climbed up with dummy's ace, drew trumps, and finessed his singleton diamond, discarding his losing heart on the diamond ace. The rest of the tricks then could be claimed, since the club suit was solid.

For West to have expected his partner to have a quick entry was nothing less than naive. The bidding was clearly indicative of the fact that North and South held almost all of the missing high honors. But if, by a miracle, East had had a quick entry there would be no need for a club ruff in order to defeat the contract. Surely the club ace always would be a trick. Therefore East's supposed entry would, of itself, defeat the contract. A ruff would, in that event, be merely the inconsequential second setting trick.

West should have held on to his club ace for dear life, and unless declarer had peeked into his hand the contract would have failed. Declarer would have lost no trick in spades, hearts, or diamonds, but when it came to playing the club suit for only one loser, it would have taken clairvoyance to have held the loss to one trick. The play of a club from dummy and a duck from the closed hand, on the assumption that the ace was blank, would have been sheer double dummy.

The conclusion therefore is that the slam was fulfilled only through West's outrageous optimism.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Using the two-way three-bid, should partner's three spade opening bid be raised to four with the following:
♠ 6 3 ♥ 9 8 7 4 3 ♦ 9 ♣ 10 8 6 4?
Answer: Yes.

Green beans should be uniform in size if they are to cook evenly. Test beans for freshness by seeing if they snap when they are broken in half. The best peas will be velvety to touch, bright green in color (never yellow) and rather plump. Plumpness indicates that pods are filled with peas of even size.

SINISTER MR. RAINS

Movie Villian Would Rather Be Known as a Bookworm

By Marguerite Tazelaar

NEW YORK, July 19.

CLAUDE RAINS, "The Invisible Man," "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," and other odd characters, would prefer not to be identified with these eccentrics. He would rather think of himself, and have his public think of him, as a gentle bookworm, but in vain. Autograph hunters pounce on him as if he were a sensational object, and even his best friends expect him to be sinister most of the time.

Possibly to justify himself to himself, he has bought a farm in Pennsylvania — the way-station is marked Cheyney—where he and Mrs. Rains have just retired to raise sheep, prune trees, snip rose bushes and survey their broad acres with gentle pride. But, Mr. Rains sighed, before the end of summer he will be back at the Hollywood studios, rising at 6 in the morning and toiling until late in the evening at the job of being sinister.

Not that he minds, for while he admitted his aspiration was to be a country squire, he always hoped there would be "a little drop of acting" thrown in. Talking to him, one sees why he is associated with his characters, for the same fiery eye lights his face as he indulges in his expansive and rather droll conversation, the same black lock of hair bobs across his forehead, and his voice recalls ghosts one has encountered on stage and screen. Though it was a hot night, he was dressed in a black sack suit that somehow seemed altogether fitting for him, and emphasized the small, compact figure.

In 90 days, he observed, he would become an American citizen, which appeared to be a pleasing prospect. He has been in this country since 1926, arriving from England when the Theater Guild signed him. For five years he acted in such things as "Volpone," "The Camel Through the Needle's Eye," "The Moon and the Yellow River," which, incidentally is his favorite; Shaw's "Apple Cart," "The Good Earth" and "He."

In 1933 he went to Hollywood to appear in his first picture, "The Invisible Man." James Whale, the director, selected him because he liked his voice, which was virtually all of Rains that was used. He said he had more fun acting the invisible man than doing almost anything else in his career. Except for a return to New York in 1934 to play in "They Shall Not Die," he remained in Hollywood, appearing in "Hearts Divided," "Anthony Adverse," "Stolen Holiday" and "The Prince and the Pauper." His latest picture, in which he talks with a Southern accent, is "They Won't Forget."

WHILE he hopes to return to a Broadway play before long, Mr. Rains said pictures satisfied him, and that although he still missed an audience, he found both mediums exacting. The cameras, he said, almost take the place of an audience because they are so frightening. They never lie, he said.

"You can pass a lot of time," he continued, "in the preparation of a screen character. You put in just as much time as you would on the stage rehearsing for four weeks. I get down to the studios at 6 to put on my makeup, get on the set an hour or so later, and remain there all day and often part of the night. But I enjoy it. As soon as my picture commitments are over, my wife and I return to Pennsylvania and the farm, and stay as long as possible. That' home to us, whether we're in Hollywood or not."

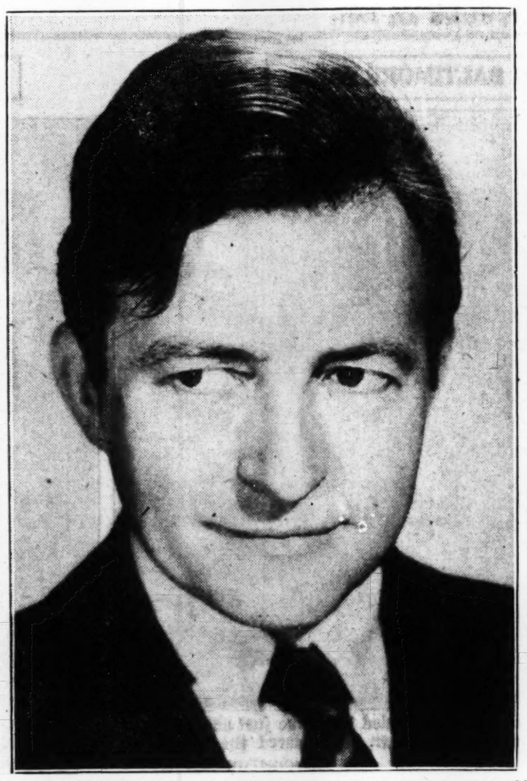

While Mr. Rains came here in 1926, it was not his first visit. Before the World War started Granville Barker had engaged him to lecture before members of the Drama League in America. He had been stage director at the Haymarket Theater in London, had traveled with a company to Australia and was familiar with the theater.

He went to Boston, Chicago and as far west as Kansas City. He also played a part on the road in "Fanny's First Play" for Barker and the Shuberts. One of his duties was to stand in the lobby before the show to clock the customers. But soon, preferring to be backstage, he let the clocking go, resorting to his imagination for figures, which nearly led to his being fired.

Back in New York he had an offer from Frohman to act at $100 a week. He was about to accept when the war broke out, and his conscience wouldn't let him, so he sailed for home. As he was waiting hopefully for a commission, he saw in the street one day a magnificent fellow twice his size, wearing Scottish kilts.

"What a warrior!" he thought to himself, and decided to follow him. He followed him right into the drill hall of the London Scottish Regiment, where he was asked to fill out an application. He pretended he was a Scot, and apparently gave such a good performance he was signed. He came out of the hall looking as Scotch as Rob Roy, "but," he added, "not looking in the least magnificent."

Ultimately Rains fought with the London Scottish, was wounded and gassed at Vimy Ridge, and came out of the war a captain. He then started acting at the St. James Theater in London and in 1926 he returned to America.

CLAUDE RAINS WHO IS SPENDING THE SUMMER ON A PENNSYLVANIA FARM

CLOTHES CURRICULUM

By Marjorie Hillis

WITH a year of school just over, a lot of parents must be thinking about next year's school, and if I were one of them with a daughter, I should be looking for one that had a course in current fashions. There are not many courses of just the type I mean, although I'm told that there is an increasing interest in them. But most of the girls I've met who have taken fashion courses have learned about Roman togas and how Helen of Troy dressed, and very little about how to buy themselves a hat. Or they've learned how to draw or design a dress, but not how to plan a wardrobe.

This doesn't seem to me to make very much sense. It must be fully as important to the average girl to know how to dress suitably and becomingly on what she can pay as to know how to do a problem in geometry or translate a Latin sentence. She ought to know something about values in clothes and the reasons behind them; something about the types of clothes that are appropriate for the particular type of life she is leading and expects to lead; something about the best way to divide the amount of money she can spend on her wardrobe. It is taken for granted by most mothers and practically all schools that a girl knows this by instinct—but you have only to look around any feminine gathering to see that only a small proportion have the instinct.

A great many expensive mistakes would be avoided and a great many unhappy experiences, as well, if girls learned how to dress efficiently. And I don't know why this would be difficult to teach. Most girls would be interested. The average girl or woman loves to buy clothes, even though she does it badly—which isn't true of most of the things one does. (Often, we don't know how badly we dress, though we do know how badly we swim or play tennis.) Girls would enjoy planning a wardrobe, at the beginning of the year, and they would be interested in hearing how and why it was wrong and acquiring sufficient knowledge to plan a better one. It might not be a bad idea to make one requisite for receiving a diploma the ability, not merely to chart out a wardrobe that was smart and suitable, with everything planned in relation to everything else; with costumes that had interchangeable parts and were planned around one color scheme, and all of it for a reasonable amount of money—but also to prove the knowledge by buying and wearing the wardrobe.

I feel sure that such a course would do away with a lot of financial quarrels and crises in the future!

How Can N. Y. Know If There Is Full Moon?

Visitor Complains Because Tall Buildings Shut Off View of Sky.

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, July 19.

ONE of the things that mar New York for out-of-town visitors, I learn from a visitor from Dallas who prefers to remain nameless, is our lack of moon-consciousness. She is willing to concede that we have approximately the same moon hanging around our heavens that they have down there in Dallas. But she complains of never seeing it here. The high buildings shut it out. One never knows in New York whether it is full moon, half or quarter time.

She is probably right. And apparently other out-of-towners, transplanted (probably against their desire) to New York, have registered their moon-consciousness sufficiently so that the latest trend in restaurants and nightclubs is to doff their roofs whenever possible.

The Jumbo Marden's Riviera across the George Washington Bridge has a roof like a rolltop desk. You just press something, and off comes the roof. The Claremont Inn, nestling in the greenery at Central Park, is luring them in with promises of stars and a moon from the terrace. The St. Regis roof, the Astor roof, and, of course the starlit Waldorf Astoria, have long used the moon as bait.

This brings us face to face with a momentous conclusion. You can't quite outwit nature. We New Yorkers have grown so content with synthetic substitutes for most natural phenomena, that we jog along for months without even missing one of heaven's most important astral bodies. Then along comes a romantic, sweet little Texas girl and puts us right back into our proper place.

A number of New York hostesses are relishing gifts of a copper or zinc mail box painted with the design of their pet pastime. Marian Miller, authority on children's education with the Child's Study Association, learned from her new letter and package box for her house at Pound Ridge, Conn., that her fondest pastime is gardening, and her favorite flower, delphinium. Her own delphinium bed, painted in true colors, now greets the postman every day on the Miller mail box.

I WENT to the twenty-fifth birthday party of the Automat chain of restaurants a few days ago. This nickel-in-the-slot system of selecting food from behind small glass compartments is attractive to over 300,000 persons daily, who frequent New York's 50 Automats. This party provided no birthday candles. Nothing but food. We invited ones were given handfuls of nickels and asked to make our selections and serve ourselves, just as do the rest of the world. We were urged to choose the two specialties, plus coffee, in which this chain excels; spaghetti and baked beans. No particular fancier of either dish, I must report they made good eating.

A local dream man is Vincent Price, whose first appearance on a New York stage was an important one; that of playing Prince Consort to Helen Hayes' Queen in "Victoria Regina." This tall, slender actor's return in the fall in a Viennese comedy called "Jean" has girls' hearts going pit-a-pat.

Rosaline Greene, who was announcer on Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt's last radio programs, is as fond of leaves as she is of flowers. The other evening on Waldorf Roof, she wore white orchids on her shoulder and green laurel leaves about her girdle. My heart skipped a beat when I came face to face with a small cage of white mice in Princess Ketto Mikelandze's apartment. It's a smart new fad.

Marriage Brings Changes.

Look about you at the couples who have recently married, say, within the last few years. Note the change in them. Husband and wife are growing more like each other.

ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

Freddie Bartholomew, youthful screen star, is today's guest columnist for Walter Winchell, who is on vacation.

Dear Mr. Winchell:

I feel very important getting to write your column for you. I hope you like it, for I am actually writing it myself. My tutor is letting me write it in school as a bit of "English Composition." If I may say so without being impertinent, I doubt if your column has ever come under that heading before—and of course, some people still may think not, after reading this.

I wonder if other people are interested in some of the same questions which I should like to ask you about. I read your column, and, of course, a great deal of it I don't understand, but I know you must be very good because so many people talk about you. I know that lots of times people here in Hollywood find out from your column things that are going on around them. How do you manage to get such news so quickly? Right now, everything I think of I'm afraid you've heard already.

I think my party might be a flash, as you call it. Last week M. G. M. allowed me to give a party at the studio, to which I invited all the girls and boys in pictures. There were about 50 of us, and, of course, we had a great time. I think this is the first big children party that has ever been given in a studio. You should have seen the executive bungalow when we got through with it!

Another question I should like to ask you is, how do you write such a personal column without hurting people's feelings—or do you? Right now I am afraid to mention any names for I may get sued. Speaking of suing—do you know that by English law the person who loses a case can be made, and usually is made, to pay the legal costs for both sides? I think that's an awfully good law because it makes people very careful and they don't sue unless they're pretty sure of winning.

I am sorry I did not meet you when you were out here making your picture. You do a lot of things, don't you? When you die (my tutor says that's a very abrupt way of putting it) how do you want to be remembered? As a gossip writer? As an actor? Or maybe as a maker-upper of new words? I hope you say actor because I am ambitious to be a writer—and I hope I succeed with this column as well as you did in "Wake Up and Live."

Do you have as much trouble with punctuation as I do? Or do you just refuse to worry and let your Girl Friday have the joy (?) of doing it? Of course, since this is an English Composition, I'll get my punctuation corrected, and I think I'll copy it because I don't want you to see the one with all the red marks on it.

Another question I should like to ask is about you and Mr. Ben Bernie. Don't you think that everyone now knows that you are really the best of friends? For a long time I felt awfully sorry for Mr. Bernie because I thought he didn't have a chance to say anything back. I didn't know he was saying things about you over the wireless. Now I'm not sorry for either of you.

Everyone enjoys your writing because you mention the names of so many people, and a lot of people must play a sort of game trying to do things to get in your column. (I can't mention any names). When my Granny and Grandpa were here, we got in the habit of staying home most of the time, and then I am too young to go to Hollywood parties which begin so late. Mr. Mayer has us over to his house nearly every Sunday to breakfast, or BRUNCH (a new word, which means breakfast and lunch). Mr. Clarence Brown and Mr. Louis Lighten let me use the horses at their ranches whenever I want. Miss Sophie Tucker, Judge and Mrs. Ben Lindsey and Constance Collier include us in nearly all their parties.

Writing a column is like writing a long letter to millions of people, instead of one friend, isn't it? I could write to you about my riding, swimming, Motor Glide, Reginald Denny's model airoplanes, and home made dark rooms for camera work, but I don't think any of my experiences are unusual in any of those things—except that I own the first Motor Glide ever sold to the public. On the other hand, I do know more than anyone else in the world about one subject—and that is my Aunt Cissy. Cissy is of course the nicest person in the world, and she is a remarkable person in other respects. She chooses lovely dresses, and, unless I watch her very carefully, awful hats. She seldom says "NO" but when she does, she's like the Rock of Gibraltar. I know friends are very happy that Cissy is now my adopted Mother,—or I'm her adopted son.

In ending this, I sincerely hope for everybody's sake that I never pick up your column and read that —"Miss Bartholomew is thinking of middle-aisling with anyone." There's nobody half good enough.

Yours sincerely,
FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW.

Summer Ideal For Those Who Are Under P...

Sunshine, Fresh Air and S... sible Exercise All Aids Health.

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

THESE summer days should be of great benefit to the individual who is neither sick nor well—the generally under par person. He or she has a hard time in winter—indoor life, short days, little sunshine, overheated homes, colds—all take their toll.

Now you can throw physic to the dogs and open the doors and windows, and, what is still better, leave the house entirely.

In different countries the treatment of disease is conditioned by national customs, and to a certain extent by natural resources. In France and Italy, as summer comes on, the people flock to the watering resorts with which those countries are so richly endowed—to take the waters or to bathe in the medicated springs. Even in America they congregate at the seaside, where very far away, and while in that climate, the sea is warm and enticing.

In the Scandinavian and German countries good health is considered inevitably with exercise in the open air—with gymnastic clubs, walking clubs, bicycling clubs, turnverein, mountain climbing, tours on foot through the forests and hills, and for those who are under par, especially those wtih arthritis and chronic rheumatism, this is combined with massage and applications of heat and light.

In America we have been in the past perhaps too inclined to depend on drugs for treatment. That is why I say throw physic to the dogs. Take a leaf from our neighbors and depend on physical means of treatment.

True, we have become more conscious in the past few years of a healthy tendency if diet is substituted for drugs.

In exercise I think we depend little too much on games. For nervous temperaments cannot be content to use the body except in the form of a contest. Frequently this means too strenuous exercise for a short time, especially for a person whose whole system is run down. Even worse, it brings out a nervous excitement, the striving to win, which is itself fatiguing. Compare the tense faces of the tennis or polo player with the calm and restful look of a group of young athletes in a field practicing through routine and communistic exercises which involve all the muscles of the body systematically.

Even worse is the tendency we are developing to let the experts hold the contests for us while we go and look on. An afternoon at the ball game is a poor substitute for a long walk or a bicycle jaunt in the country with a group of congenial pathetic companions.

Special baths have been recognized from the earliest times as conducive to health. I am informed that the Aztecs of Mexico probably had special steam baths. At least architectural remains have been interpreted in that way. Buildings were constructed so that one room large stones could be heated and water poured over them. The steam thus generated was conducted through a hole in the wall to a closed chamber where the patients took what we now call Turkish baths. The Romans had probably the greatest hot baths the world has ever seen.

We have all these resources for physical therapy at hand — sunshine, fresh air, mountains, lakes, seas and springs. Let us use them sensibly and with moderation and calm.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a boy 17 years old and I could almost fill a book with the problem I have in mind. I want to know why the boys and girls of my age drink, smoke, pet and go crazy over the modern jazz and swing music. I am no angel, but I whole-heartedly agree with the elder people who are pessimistic about the way the youth of today carry on. The man who said we came from monkeys is part right. In their amusements, the boys and girls are all "monkey see, monkey do."

It seems a shame the truly good music, such as the works of Chopin, Mozart and Bach are neglected. If it should happen to be played for them, it is heckled. People call me "old-fashioned," just because I am a lover of good music and I avoid some of the modern evils. Mrs. Carr, what is your opinion of this situation? Thanking you for your trouble, I remain.

"JUST DIFFERENT."

Probably you have a talent and a real appreciation of good music; but an appreciation of these things, because of lack of ear and training, is not given to everyone. "Jazz" and "swing," like all popular and over-done things are beginning to make us feel that they are done ad nauseum. A good "tune," catchy and in such rhythm that we feel we must dance whether we want to just then or not, is always fun. But it is surprising that the themes cannot be made more varied. And the songs now are so overdone on the radio, we sometimes feel as if we could shoot both the radio and the singer.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

PSYCHIATRIST advises me to get a piano for my second oldest daughter. He thinks it would help her to stop worrying and get her out of the state of mind she has fallen in. I have four girls and am left with these children to support. I think if I could get some kind of music, it would make our lives so much easier and happier. Their father left them two years ago and they have seen a lot of unhappiness. That is why the doctor thinks they ought to get new interest in something. I am giving you best references, a social worker included. I could send for the piano.

HOPING.

Dear Martha Carr:

WILL you please tell me what is necessary to get mention for a book of poems in "Of the Making of Many Books" other than having a book worth mentioning?

Can a book of poems be copyrighted after it is published and if so how? Thank you for the help I am sure to get. You well-wisher,

MRS. A.

Submit your book to the editor of the department "Of the Making of Many Books." If he thinks it worthy of a review in that column you will get it; there is nothing else to do. Write to the United States Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. and the regulations for copyright will be sent you.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I JUST want to say a few words to the young man who signed himself "Dan." Personally, I like dancing; but, since I am not good at it, some other kind of amusement will suffice. To me, some of the so-called dancing now isn't dancing at all. I am about the only girl in my crowd who doesn't dance well, because they have had more practice. But there are plenty of other ways to have a good time. If I ever met a young man in "Dan's" place, I'd think a miracle was about to happen.

NOT BORN TO DANCE.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE wanted very much to know just how the old mint-julep was made in the South. If you can get this information, I shall appreciate it. NORTHERNER.

As a child, I remember that an old family friend, a Virginian, always had a large silver pitcher and a "muddler" (a long glass stem terminating in a globe). Into that ample pitcher was put loaf sugar, sprigs of mint and crushed ice. The muddler was used to crush the sugar and bruise the mint. Over this was poured a little whisky. Again the muddler was used (as a chemist uses his pestle). The pitcher, then placed in the icebox, was thoroughly chilled, taken out and more crushed ice added with whiskey to taste. Glasses, also set in the icebox, were chilled and so the frost formed upon them as well as upon the pitcher.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM very much in need of a single bed for my crippled grandmother. I hope if it is possible for anyone to spare this they will be kind enough to do so; as it is impossible for me now to buy one. I shall be grateful to you for your help through the column.

MRS. H.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Sunshine, Fresh Air and Sensible Exercise All Aids to Health.

In America we have been in the past perhaps too inclined to depend on drugs for treatment. That is why I say throw physic to the dogs. Take a leaf from our neighbors and depend on physical means of treatment.

True, we have become more and more conscious in the past few years of a healthy tendency if not at all a substituted for drugs.

In exercise I think we depend a little too much on games. Our nervous temperaments cannot be content to use the body except in the form of a contest. Frequently this means too strenuous exercise for a short time, especially for the person whose whole system is run down. Even worse, it brings with it nervous excitement, the stimulus to win, which is itself fatiguing. Compare the tense faces of the tennis or polo player with the calm and restful look of a group of young athletes in a field going through routine and communal exercises which involve all the muscles of the body systematically.

Even worse is the tendency we are developing to let the experts hold the contests for us while we go and look on. An afternoon of the ball game is a poor substitute for a long walk or a bicycle jaunt in the country with a group of sympathetic companions.

Special baths have been recognized from the earliest times as conducive to health. I am informed that the Aztecs of Mexico probably had special steam baths. At least architectural remains have been interpreted in that way. Buildings were constructed so that one room large stones could be heated and water poured over them. The steam thus generated was conducted through a hole in the wall to a closed chamber where the patients took what we now call Turkish baths. The Romans were probably the greatest hot bathers the world has ever seen.

We have all these resources of physical therapy at hand — sunshine, fresh air, mountains, lakes and springs. Let us employ them sensibly and with moderation.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a boy 17 years old and I could almost fill a book with the problem I have in mind. I want to know why the boys and girls of my age drink, smoke, pet and go crazy over the modern jazz and swing music. I am no angel, but I whole-heartedly agree with the elder people who are pessimistic about the way the youth of today carry on. The man who said we came from monkeys is part right. In their amusements, the boys and girls are all "monkey see, monkey do."

It seems a shame the truly good music, such as the works of Chopin, Mozart and Bach are neglected. If it should happen to be played for them, it is heckled. People call me "old-fashioned," just because I am a lover of good music and I avoid some of the modern evils. Mrs. Carr, what is your opinion of this situation? Thanking you for your trouble, I remain.

"JUST DIFFERENT."

Probably you have a talent and a real appreciation of good music; but an appreciation of these things, because of lack of ear and training, is not given to everyone. "Jazz" and "swing," like all popular and over-done things are beginning to make us feel that they are done ad nauseum. A good "tune," catchy and in such rhythm that we feel we must dance whether we want to just then or not, is always fun. But it is surprising that the themes cannot be made more varied. And the songs now are so overdone on the radio, we sometimes feel as if we could shoot both the radio and the singer.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

A PSYCHIATRIST advises me to get a piano for my second oldest daughter. He thinks it would help her to stop worrying and get her out of the state of mind she has fallen in. I have four girls and am left with these children to support. I think if I could get some kind of music, it would make our lives so much easier and happier. Their father left them two years ago and they have seen a lot of unhappiness. That is why the doctor thinks they ought to get new interest in something. I am giving you best references, a social worker included. I could send for the piano.

HOPING.

Dear Martha Carr:

WILL you please tell me what is necessary to get mention for a book of poems in "Of the Making of Many Books" other than having a book worth mentioning?

Can a book of poems be copyrighted after it is published and if so how? Thank you for the help I am sure to get. You well-wisher,

MRS. A.

Submit your book to the editor of the department "Of the Making of Many Books." If he thinks it worthy of a review in that column you will get it; there is nothing else to do. Write to the United States Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. and the regulations for copyright will be sent you.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I JUST want to say a few words to the young man who signed himself "Dan." Personally, I like dancing; but, since I am not good at it, some other kind of amusement will suffice. To me, some of the so-called dancing now isn't dancing at all. I am about the only girl in my crowd who doesn't dance well, because they have had more practice. But there are plenty of other ways to have a good time. If I ever met a young man in "Dan's" place, I'd think a miracle was about to happen.

NOT BORN TO DANCE.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE wanted very much to know just how the old mint-julep was made in the South. If you can get this information, I shall appreciate it.

NORTHERNER.

As a child, I remember that an old family friend, a Virginian, always had a large silver pitcher and a "muddler" (a long glass stem terminating in a globe). Into that ample pitcher was put loaf sugar, sprigs of mint and crushed ice. The muddler was used to crush the sugar and bruise the mint. Over this was poured a little whisky. Again the muddler was used (as a chemist uses his pestle). The pitcher, then placed in the icebox, was thoroughly chilled, taken out and more crushed ice added with whiskey to taste. Glasses, also set in the icebox, were chilled and so the frost formed upon them as well as upon the pitcher.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM very much in need of a single bed for my crippled grandmother. I hope if it is possible for anyone to spare this, they will be kind enough to do so; as it is impossible for me now to buy one. I shall be grateful to you for your help through the column.

MRS. H.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Hands Should Be Trained to Useful Work

Mothers Are Wrong Who Chase Grown Daughters From Kitchen.

By Angelo Patri

PRETTY hands belong to girls, and I am the last one to say a word against beautifying them. What troubles me about the whole business is that some girls, and their mothers along with them, value the "made-up" appearance of the hands beyond anything that such appearance justifies. In order to preserve the untouched color of the hands, the infantile loveliness of the soft and dimpled things, they try to keep them free of the marks of use. That, to my way of looking at it, is a mistake that will cost the girls too much unhappiness in year to come.

Anything that is not used decays, and that means hands as well as houses and brains and machinery. The intelligently-used hand has an expression of power and a beauty that is truly distinctive while the unused hand becomes just a padded flapper, dainty in color, but without a trace or power. An empty-looking hand is as sad as a vacant face.

Train girls to cultivate intelligence, and let them know that one of the surest ways is the active way. Trained hands reflect power back to the mind, and the mind in turn reflects an added power upon the hands. Any useful work is a source of power for mind and body. Washing the dishes, making the beds, sweeping and cleaning, cooking, painting, digging, planting, sewing, typing, playing a musical instrument—anything that calls for accurate manual work—is an opportunity for growth and power and beauty.

When a mother of a family does the housework it would be better for everybody concerned that the grown daughters take over some of the load. It would help a tired mother considerably if the business girl, after eating dinner, cleared the place of dishes and food and their traces in dining room and kitchen. Why not? Washing dishes can be a pleasant enough occupation and a welcome relief after a day in the office or shop. There are good soaps and good hand lotions these days, and the beauty of a pair of hands is not wrecked by such a homely service.

Most girls are willing enough to do this and other tasks in the household, but their mothers will not permit.

"My mother thinks I'm useless. If I wash out my own stockings she hovers about saying, 'Let me do that. You aren't doing that right.' When I take down the ironing board to press my clothes she pushes me away and says, 'You can't do that. Give that to me. You go attend to your hair, or your hands,' or whatever she can use as an excuse for pushing me out of the kitchen. I wish she would let me help her, or at least help myself. But she won't. She is afraid I'll burn my hands, or roughen them, or spoil my nails. Whatever am I to do if I get married?"

The truth is that real loveliness lives in the hands of those who serve most. "I want Nanny to put her hand on my head. I don't like your hand. I want my Nanny's hand," said a little boy tossing in fever. Nanny's hand was rough with service, firm with purpose, charged with love, and that was the hand the little chap called for.

It is the hand we all call for. Why not teach the girls so?

Earning Money Exercising Dogs

By Albert Payson Terhune

TODAY I want to tell you of a growing industry in big cities, whereby students and older persons earn pin money by the exercising of dogs. Most of these people do their jobs conscientiously and to the great advantage of the city imprisoned canines.

Many college students, many aging persons of both sexes, many impecunious housewives and men out of work — have established themselves as dog-exercisers. For a small daily or weekly fee, they make a round of apartments or hotels where dogs are kept. They lead these animals to the nearest park or open space where the animals can run at large. There they romp with them or give them sticks or balls to retrieve, or else escort them on long and fast rambles through park paths or on sidewalks.

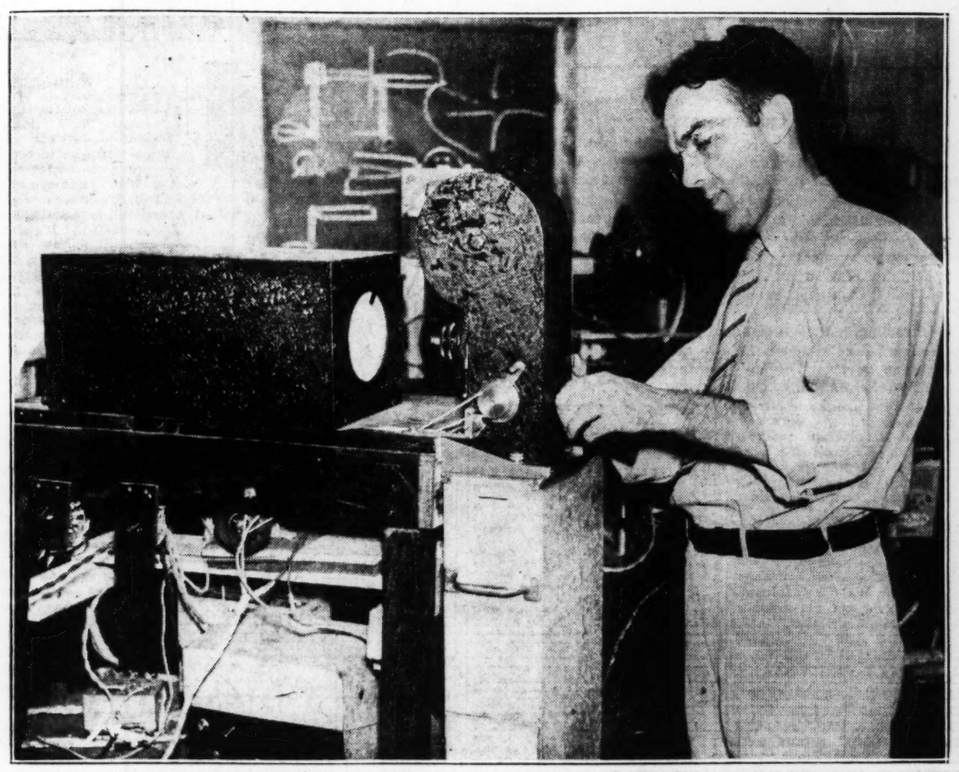

It is a fine idea; fine for every one. It helps eke out the exercisers' scanty incomes and keeps them healthfully out of doors. It benefits owners who are too lazy or too busy to exercise their pets. Most of all it is a godsend to the dogs themselves. Yearly this "walking industry" is increasing. More power to it!

INDEPENDENT CAREERS FOR WOMEN

Married or Not, Ladies Have Right to Justify Themselves as Individuals, Says Dr. S. Howard Bartley

By Marguerite Martyn

DR. S. HOWARD BARTLEY AT WORK IN THE LABORATORY AT OSCAR JOHNSON INSTITUTE.

NOW we have another viewpoint on the subject of married women, working outside their homes. A psychologist, Dr. S. Howard Bartley of Washington University, raises his voice in the discussion waged perennially in the Letters from the People Column and recently treated pretty conclusively in two contrasting sets of opinions on this page, those of Dr. George F. Donovan, president of Webster College, opposing the idea of married women competing with men in business, trades and professions, and those of Mrs. Mary Potter Love, head of a thriving real estate business, mistress of a charming home and mother of six children, presenting a convincing refutation of Dr. Donovan's statement that a woman cannot successfully combine the two careers.

Dr. Bartley is in favor of women having independent careers, married or not. He offers a reason not considered by the other two, the right of a woman to develop all her capabilities, to prove, to express and justify herself as an individual, irrespective of other obligations. Although he believes her greater growth in whatever field inevitably redounds to the advantage of her husband, family, home, everybody and everything related to her.

Dr. Bartley, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch, challenged the views expressed by Dr. Donovan in a farewell address to his women graduates and later in the interview on this page, wherein he advocated that women as a group demand that all married women withdraw from gainful occupations. Dr. Donovan was concerned about the economic aspect of the question and with its effect on the stability of the home. One of his contentions was that married women competing with men deprive the latter of needed opportunities and compete unfairly when they have other resources to fall back upon—husbands obligated to support them. In such case, he thought, they are inclined to work for less and so force salaries to low levels.

"Such a position is reactionary and unreasonable," wrote Dr. Bartley. "You might as well say married men, who often work for less than single men in order to have jobs at all (the wolf certainly hounds them), ought to eliminate themselves from industry in order that single men may make higher wages. That argument is absurd, but not more so than arbitrary prohibitions applied on the ground of sex, for the time is inevitably near when sex distinctions will have become negligible and a new set of principles will have to evolve to handle the situation. Our job is to help THEM develop and not call back the past. No atavistic panacea will work."

Which seemed to call for another interview.

Dr. Bartley, not an M. D. but a Ph. D., nevertheless was discovered at the Oscar Johnson Institute in the Washington University medical group of buildings. Under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, he is doing research in neuro-physiology. For six years, a severely studious, short, dark-visaged young man, he has been delving into the mysteries of electrical activities of the brain and central nervous system. Whatever those are. Patiently though he tried to explain his work, I have to admit myself as ignorant as ever. However, the interest engaged by this discussion in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine was entirely extra-curricular, so we went out to lunch to talk it over.

It was a little surprising, not to say gratifying, to find a scholar immersed in such esoteric pursuits a reader of our sometimes giddy Daily Magazine. That, he said, is the very impression he would avoid. "Education does not end with books. You do not learn by being separated from the world, but in the midst of what's going on," he declared.

"THAT, also, is the reason I protest against women being cloistered," began Dr. Bartley when we had settled the matter of the menu. "Dr. Donovan is alarmed about the stability of the home when married women go out to work. Let men and women understand each other better and the stability of their relationships will take care of itself. The more experience a woman has in a man's world, the better she will understand a man and the better he will understand her. Whatever makes men and women understand each other better ought to be encouraged.

"This is the broadest issue involved in this question of careers for wives. The essence of marriage is companionship. All other issues come afterward and are extraneous. The depths and breadths of that companionship depend on the education of the wedded pair, their intellectual level and their capacity for the many human relations. It is essentially companionship on an equal level. Keep a woman secluded in a home and you erect certain barriers, certain distinctions about her.

"A man hasn't the time and the ability to re-enact the day when he comes home. Consequently, his wife never can understand the problems and conflicts that beset him outside her domain. At best, it is all hearsay to her. She has no experience to match his. Anyhow, his role is not that of teacher. They should be able to swap stories.

"We should be interested in the production of the fullest, most satisfactory personalties," he continued. "The way to develop qualities in women which will secure for all the blessings above the routine life is to allow them to take advantage of all their opportunities. Certainly not to deny them. I hate these blanket prohibitions."

Dr. Bartley is not concerned with whether women generally are capable of successfully combining the two careers of home making and wage earning. "There are inevitable handicaps," he admitted. "It may be exceptional abilities, advantages and opportunities enable Mrs. Love to demonstrate it can be done. The point is, when it does happen, the least men can do is to aid it, abet it, cheer it, instead of imposing additional handicaps of criticism and blame. When I read of achievements like Mrs. Love's, I feel like applauding them loudly, and, yes, publicly.

"Most people," reflected Dr. Bartley, "whether men or women, are not fully developed (some are not fit to live with) until they have the opportunity to achieve certain things they have in mind. Every individual must justify himself in his own mind before he is 'seaworthy.' Some women may feel they justify themselves, as Dr. Donovan believes they do, remaining within the four walls of their homes, making the utmost of housewifely skills, practicing the domestic arts and economies. A wife may feel that in the wise dispensation of her husband's income she is earning her living and contributing to the upkeep of the family, the building of the family fortunes. It can be easily understood that a wife's diligence in daily household duties should, and generally does, elicit a kind of loyalty from the husband which produces a stability of relations that takes quite a bit to break down. Duties well done are not forgotten by those who benefit, else we are talking about the wrong sort to begin with. But I believe there is a feeling of limitation, of frustration, when a woman's day begins with being an alarm clock for her husband and ends with mending his socks. The blanket prohibition that women must stay at home prevents needed accomplishments in many instances.

"The taboo partakes of the attitude of the big brother when he warns his little brother to stay home and not follow him. The boy is more justified than is the man who calls forth an ancient failing custom to squelch the person who should be his mate, by cloistering her. Inadvertently, he removes her from him spiritually.

"The point is," continued Dr. Bartley, "we no longer can idealize the home in terms of old-fashioned simplicities. Women have been forcibly deprived of many of their old domestic occupations, have been driven out of their homes by the mechanization and industrialization of those occupations. They have had to follow those occupations into a commercialized world. They are not going back. We have advanced beyond the old simplicities. Everything is more complicated, more diversified. Women should have every opportunity to make the most of the situation as it exists.

"I CONFESS," he added reminiscently, "my renunciation of the old-fashioned home has been a slow growth. I grew up in the most conventional of homes, where the cleavage between what was man's sphere and what was woman's sphere was sharply drawn. I was dominated by that influence. I remember when Amelia Earhart first began to appear in the news, I was not too tolerant of her. She displeased me chiefly, I think, because she was not feminine enough looking. I resented her boyish hair cut and masculine dress. She was trying to be smart, apeing the men, I thought. When she made her first ocean flight, I felt she was merely doing something spectacular. Now I realize she had valid reasons for her style of dress and that first flight was for a purpose.

"If we may believe her own explanation in a magazine article, it was to rid herself of fear, after which future accomplishments in aviation would be easier. Amelia long ago cured me of my last vestiges of old-fashionedness about women's work. No, I am not among those who are now saying, since the failure of her latest exploit, 'That's a woman for you.' That scornful exclamation, or the other, 'That's a man for you,' is only an emotional outcropping of the difference in viewpoint traditionally held by the two sexes. The more common it is for the two to be placed together in all situations, the sooner the misunderstanding will be reduced to a minimum and everybody will be judged on the basis of individual worth. The advantages used by both men and women on account of the way older customs arrayed the sexes against each other will then have vanished."

"Then you think it is men who need education on this subject more than women?" he was asked.

"Exactly," he replied. "And you can't begin the education with middle-class men. The lower the husband in the scale of intellect, the more is he likely to take affront when a woman betters him at his own game. Unless, of course, he yields to dire necessity."

"When a man sees a woman getting ahead of him, isn't it somtimes apt to result in his discouragement, cause him to deteriorate, relax his sense of responsibility?" it was suggested. "And isn't that bad for the race?"

"That," agreed Dr. Bartley, "is what we've got to work on rather than the advancement of women. They are taking care of their own advancement. When the display of women's accomplishments outside their homes brings out jealousy in men, the latter are at fault. The ideal situation would be where everybody, men and women alike, had the opportunity to develop all their capabilities. There is no cure for the feeling of insufficiency, popularly called the inferiority complex, like new, untried forms of expression, new outlets, the chance to grow, to prove, to justify one's self in fields beyond those already mastered. Women need these opportunities no less, and even more, than men."

CREAM OF ONION SOUP
LOBSTER SALAD PLATTER
TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES
COFFEE
CHERRY CREAM PUDDING
CREAM OF ONION SOUP

Cook three cups of milk with celery leaves, a few carrots and one turnip until tender, then rub through a sieve and combine with two cups of cream. Finely slice six medium sized onions and cook very slowly in a little veal or preferably chicken stock until soft. Rub through a sieve and stir in one scant tablespoon of flour. Cook until flour is dissolved and enough so as to lose that raw taste and combine with the milk mixture. Let boil up, then season to taste with salt and pepper and stir in a generous lump of butter and one-fourth cup of minced parsley. Serve in cream soup plates.

LOBSTER SALAD PLATTER

Take a medium sized head of green cabbage. Pull off the rough, outside leaves and place in cold water for about an hour. Carefully roll back the outside leaves and cut out center to form a well. Place in the center of a chilled platter and fill with sliced cucumbers, which have been marinated in a highly seasoned French dressing. Around the cabbage on lettuce hearts arranged lobster salad and garnish with watercress.

LOBSTER SALAD

Cut up one pound of fresh lobster meat and mix with one cup of finely cut up celery, one-fourth cup of chopped capers, a little grated onion and combine with a buttermilk salad dressing. Just lobster meat cut in pieces and mixed with a well seasoned mayonnaise is delicious.

BUTTERMILK SALAD DRESSING

Beat the yolks of three eggs until very light and stir in very gradually three-fourths cup of rich buttermilk. Add one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of red pepper, two tablespoons of taragon vinegar and the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

FILLING FOR TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES

Three-fourths pound of mild American cheese, one tablespoon butter, one scant cup of milk, one clove of garlic, one-half pimento chopped fine, one tablespoon of finely chopped green pepper, one tablespoon dry mustard, one teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon of salt and a dash of red pepper and yolks of two eggs.

Melt the butter and simmer the garlic until transparent, then discard the garlic. To the butter add the dry ingredients, then the yolks of eggs which have been beaten with the milk. Scald and add the cheese, pimento and green pepper. Cook all in a double boiler until the cheese is melted and is the consistency of custard. Cool, then spread between thin slices of bread and toast on both sides. If this mixture is placed in refrigerator it will keep for several days.

CHERRY CREAM PUDDING

Six eggs, separated, one and one-fourth cups sugar, one-half cup boiling water, one cup sifted cake flour, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon vanilla and one-half teaspoon almond extract.

Slowly boil the sugar and water until it threads when dropped from end of spoon. Beat the egg whites until stiff with a pinch of salt. Pour the hot syrup over the beaten whites slowly, beating constantly until cool. Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, then fold into the egg white mixture and blend well. Add the flavoring. Sift the flour and the cream of tartar four or five times. Add gradually to egg mixture. Bake in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate oven about one hour. Cool, then remove a little of the center and fill with one can of black, pitted cherries, previously soaked in rum (optional) and folded into two cups of slightly sweetened whipped cream. When serving use two forks so as to tear apart instead of cutting.

PEANUT BUTTER HERMITS

(Makes About 24.)

One and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk
One-half cup peanut butter
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One cup graham cracker crumbs

Thoroughly blend sweetened condensed milk and peanut butter. Add salt and graham cracker crumbs. Mix well. Drop by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheet. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 minutes or until brown. Remove from pan at once.

FRIED TOMATOES WITH CHEESE

Six large, firm tomatoes, one-half cup flour, one cup milk, salt, pepper, one cup grated cheese. Wash tomatoes and cut in halves. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip in flour. Fry in hot drippings until browned all over. Add milk and cook five minutes. Place on thin slices of toast, sprinkle with grated cheese and place in the oven until the cheese melts and browns lightly. Mighty nice on the vegetable platter.

Parents' Role At Party for Young People

They Should Not Sit at Same Table With Youthful Guests.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

MY young son would like me to arrange a party of some kind and invite at least a dozen of his young friends, boys and girls both, to whose houses he has been invited so often. We have an apartment in an hotel and not much space to entertain at home so my husband and I thought that we would take the young people to the roof garden of this hotel for dinner and dancing. We of course felt that we should sit with them at their table, since some of the girls are very young. Son objects to our being at their table and says that the idea of our presence will spoil everyone's good time. Perhaps the fact that he lives in the hotel will put a different light on their being alone, but I was just wondering what the mothers of the girls would think if they knew there was no chaperon.

Answer: Your son is right in thinking that it would spoil the good time of his friends to have you and his father at the same table. Very young people can not be expected to find as much pleasure sitting next to older people as they can sitting next to those of their own age. The proper thing for you to do is to have a small table, not necessarily immediately next to them, but within easy observation; and to mitigate any too great effect of surveillance on your part, you might invite a few of your own friends to dine with you.

Dear Mrs. Post: When we lived in an apartment in town there were a great many acquaintances who never called on me. We are now supposed to have a very beautiful house in the suburbs and since we moved in, any number of these people have come way out here to call. What else am I to think except that they came out of curiosity, because no sooner has one been here than a day or so later another one comes. Under the circumstances explained, do you think it necessary for me to return these visits?

Answer: If you like them certainly go to see them! But if you don't like them enough to care particularly about their acquaintance I think you would be justified in feeling that they were just a little curious.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our junior section of the woman's club is giving a garden party and we would like to have the president of the senior club and our senior adviser pour at the tea table. Must we send invitations to these two ladies beforehand?

Answer: They should be invited very particularly ahead of time and asked if they will do you the honor of pouring. In inviting them you should appreciate that pouring tea for so many is an arduous task and therefore a good deal of a favor to ask.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF MEN WHO MATTER

It is all very well for the rest of us to sit at home and raise an eyebrow, sneer and criticise the men who huff and puff in the United State Senate. As a matter of fact, few of us realize how hard they toil, and with what heroic calm they let the hail of unjust criticism bounce off their thick hides. Seldom, if ever, do they complain against the unfair public. They simply accept their pay checks, find jobs for relatives and friends, and keep as exempt as they can from taxation.

It is our pleasure today to present the other side—the personal, unseen and misunderstood aspects of this all-too-human sacrifice. "Take me for example," says Senator Petrol B. Agaragar. "I spend more than $1200 a year for throat lozenges, consume at least two barrels of cough syrup, and my doctor tells me that my tonsils are so oratory-frayed that they aren't worth removing. My only regret is that I haven't another pair to give to my country. Another thing—while not taxed on earnings, continual talking taxes my strength. But I pay eagerly, willingly—and would rather be struck dumb than to refrain from speaking on each and every issue."

A Serial of Park Avenue Romance

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

Sandra Realizes Ronny Was Right—She Learns the Man David Hit Was Only Slightly Injured.

CHAPTER SIX.

SANDRA'S first thought was, "Ronny was right. Of course he was right. What fools we were not to see it!" Then she heard Stephen clearing his throat. She turned quickly, crossed the room, opened the concealed cabinet and drew out the telephone.

"Will you listen to what I say, please?" she said to the detective. "I'm calling my father at his office." She dialed and presently heard her father's voice.

"Chet, this is Sandra . . ."

"Oh, yes," Chet said, quickly. "Is your mother home? Do you know where she is?"

"No, darling, but she'll be along presently, I imagine . . . Listen, Chet—David had an accident. A man ran in front of his car in Central Park and David and Ronny MacAllister are at police headquarters now. They want you to come there at once . . ."

She cradled the phone and offered the instrument to the detective: "Would you like to verify that?"

He took the phone, dialed a number and after a mumbled question and a brief silence, held the phone out to her again. "O. K.," he said. "Took his time about it."

After the detective had left, Stephen paced the floor. Following a long silence he said, "It was a chance. We knew that. Obviously, some one in the car that came up behind David got his number. But we couldn't know that."

"No," Sandra said, "we couldn't know that, Stephen. But then Ronny couldn't know it, either."

Stephen wheeled, looked at her, oddly.

"There's such a thing as being too clever, Stephen," Sandra said, slowly. "Oh, I'm not blaming you. I thought you were right. But there's no sense in trying to defend our position now. Ronny isn't clever—not in the way that you and I think we are. To him it was a simple question of right and wrong. He saw the practical side, too, but the thing he was chiefly concerned about was the ultimate effect on David. I couldn't get his point of view then, but I do now. David will take what's coming to him and come out of it with a clear conscience. Nothing else is quite so important as that."

Stephen could not know she was seeing the events of the past two hours as somehow revealing what was wrong with her life and with the lives of those she loved. She looked up at Stephen and smiled, sadly, feeling inexpressibly sorry for him, and for herself.

Stephen said, abruptly, "It seems to me you're being a little unfair, Sandra. We were confronted with a difficult situation and we made what seemed at the moment the only wise decision. MacAllister disagreed and we know now he happened to make a fortunate guess." He paused, sought her eyes. "Surely you don't believe it was anything so elemental as a choice between right and wrong?"

SYNOPSIS:

Sandra Brooke, now 21, and Stephen Eddy, five years older, reared in the Park avenue atmosphere, have grown up together and their families expect them to marry. Their fathers formed the law firm of Eddy & Brooke of which the brilliant Anthony Ancell is now a partner. Sandra knows Ancell is in love with her mother, Enid. Sandra, just out of school, travels at a feverish pace with her "gang." At a Madison Square Garden hockey game her eyes and those of Ronny MacAllister, popular radio announcer, are mutually attracted and she asks her brother, David, home for a weekend from school at New Haven, to bring him home to her party. She announces Ronny to her father, Chet, and her guests as a special attraction but when Ronny arrives he first refuses a drink, then says he must get some sleep as tomorrow he broadcasts a fight from Chicago, explains he's a pretty poor "monkey-on-a-stick" anyhow and bids everybody a smiling good night. Sandra is furious. She has forgotten the shy little redhead she met at Emily Stewart's eight years ago. Ronny hasn't and has his cousin, Emily, arrange a party. He recalls their meeting. Sandra relents and Ronny, finding her alone in the garden, takes her in his arms and kisses her but leaves abruptly when Bryant Wilson appears. Sandra promises to marry Stephen. Enid slaps Chet's face in front of Sandra and David. David, who had been drinking, runs a man down with his car but drives on, phoning Sandra to phone Ronny. Ronny, disagreeing with Stephen, has David go to the police.

She knew she could never make Stephen understand and suddenly she was weighted down by a great weariness. Her hands came up in a quick little gesture that conveyed nothing whatever to Stephen.

"Let's not discuss it any more, darling. I feel all washed out."

With swift compassion, Stephen took her head between his hands and touched his lips to her hair. "There's nothing to worry about, Sandra. Aside from the fact that David will have two of the best lawyers in the City of New York—three, if Father and Mr. Brooke feel they need Mr. Ancell—there are strings to pull. David may be fined but he'll never spend a day in a cell. You can depend on that."

SHE wanted to tell him, "But we don't want any strings pulled. Can't you see that's what's wrong with us now? We're always trying to outsmart the world and never quite succeeding—not succeeding even when we think we do." She said, instead, "Thanks for everything, darling. You might call me tomorrow afternoon if you have a minute." Not wanting him to call, but not wanting him to drift in as he usually did until she was ready to see him again.

Hardly had Stephen gone when Enid appeared in the doorway. She looked pitifully worn and her eyes were red from recent weeping. She sank into a chair and sat there with her lovely hands tightly folded in her lap.

"How are you, darling?" Sandra asked at last. "We've been wondering what had happened to you. Go to a movie?"

Enid's head shook, uncertainly. "What was the accident, Sandra? Was David hurt?"

"Who told you?"

"Your father." She unclasped her hands and drew her fingers across her smooth brow and down her cheeks. This gave her time to decide how to say what must be said: "I dropped in to see Martha Ancell—and Charles happened to call Anthony while I was there."

"Oh . . .!" The little cry hung in the silence between them. "They'll never work things out now," Sandra told herself with sinking heart. "Chet could have overlooked this afternoon, but he won't forgive her going to Ancell." How could she have done such a thing? Enid, her own mother.

After a little she told Enid about the accident and presently Enid rose and said, "I'd like to see David when he comes in. Will you call me?"

When she was alone, Sandra snapped out the lights and sat by a window looking up at stars that shone brightly—as brightly, she reflected, as they had that night in Emily Stewart's garden when Ronny MacAllister had held her in his arms. . . . And tonight she had said to him, "I hate you, Ronny MacAllister; I'll hate you as long as I live!" And heard voices in the foyer and in a moment the lights came on and there was Chet and David—and Ronny.

David and Ronny were rather sober, but Chet was unusually cheerful. She couldn't understand that, had expected Chet to come in with that hard thing in his eyes that had been there the moment after Enid struck him hours ago.

"Better run in and speak to Enid, David," Sandra said. "She's in her room." And was amazed to hear Chet say, "Come along, son—we'll give her the story in relays." Actually smiling.

Ronny sat down and told her what she did not know. The man David had hit had suffered a slight concussion of the brain and minor fractures, but no internal injuries. The doctors said he would recover. . . . And—perhaps accounting for Chet's good humor, Sandra thought—the man had admitted he ran into the path of David's car in a deliberate effort to kill himself.

"The poor devil couldn't get work and—well, it's the old story. No family, fortunately," Ronny told her.

"And they let David go?"

Ronny shook his head, unsmiling. "He's out on bail," he said. "Your father hopes to push the case through to an early trial." He said after a brief pause. "David's staying with me a day or two. His own idea," he explained, quickly.

She could understand David's wanting to be with Ronny. He was still unnerved and he and Ronny would talk about track and baseball and—any and everything but the accident.

"What do you think they'll do to him, Ronny? At the trial?"

Ronny didn't know. "Your father thinks he'll get off with a reprimand. He keeps telling David there's nothing to worry about. I—see here, Sandra. David was driving under the influence of liquor and he didn't go back and pick the man up. A reprimand for evading responsibility doesn't make sense to me."

Smiling, Sandra said, "You believe in taking your punishment don't you, Ronny?"

He gazed at her, intently. Then his eyes fell. "It's the only way we learn."

THEY could hear Chet laughing. He and David were still talking with Enid. There was no false note in Chet's laughter; he was genuinely, greatly pleased about something—something, Sandra sensed, unrelated to David's trouble.

Sandra looked at Ronny and smiled. "I owe you an apology, Ronny. I didn't mean what I said to you this afternoon. I was excited. I—I'm terribly sorry—really I am."

For the first time since he had been there, Ronny smiled. It was the old and very gay smile that she loved. "Forget it," he said.

She wanted to tell him what she had been thinking these last hours; that he had made her see herself as she was and that for the first time in her life she yearned for something more substantial and more satisfying. She wanted to say to him, "I'd like to strike out on my own, Ronny. Get a job and live in a hall room, and make my life over, make it real and simple and honest." She wanted to say that and more and was wondering how to begin when Chet and David came back into the room.

David wanted to be off at once. She kissed him good-by, shook hands with Ronny. He would be back; she was sure of it. As the door closed, she turned back to Chet.

"Canary feathers are all over your chin," she smiled. "You've inherited money?"

"Next best thing," Chet said, agreeably. "This is going to be the biggest Christmas Eve and the happiest Christmas generally we've had in years."

"I'm glad"—Sandra told him—"glad! Glad for you, darling."

He had given no clew to his good fortune, but now he said, "Having money is the most marvelous feeling in the world, child. No other material satisfaction can match it."

She had known from the first it was money, but only this moment did the significance of something he had said a minute ago come to her. . . . "Just write my name on the dotted line—and our troubles are over." . . . He was borrowing money, then. Assuming a new obligation—disposing of one problem by creating another. Sandra's heart sank. Thus they lived, hazardously, buying security pieced meal, their lives completely circumscribed by money.

"I won't go on like this!" Sandra thought, suddenly. "I'll get out and find a job and work out my own salvation." But she would never have found the courage to do it if she hadn't learned the source of Chet's loan and the astounding condition under which it was to be made.

"Trust in God Best Cure for Ending Worry"

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

"I'M just a worry-box, and I know it," writes a reader. "But what can one do about it? The inner tension is seldom relaxed from morning to night, and the strain of it is terrible.

"If one worry proves baseless, as most of them do, another takes its place, and rides me ragged. The result is a paralysis of my best efforts, inefficiency, and general discomfort.

"Fear of 40 and gray hairs, of cancer and death, and beyond all that, the chance of something after death. Almost anything is enough, it seems, to set me off on a worrying spree.

"Of course, I know what the psychologists say—to relax, breathe deep and slowly, and express courage and serenity outwardly—very wise, no doubt, but just a queer bag of tricks."

Yes, good reader, these things are too much like painting the pump to improve the quality of the water in the well. They may have some value, but not much, at least in your case.

"The sovereign cure for worry is religious faith," said the late William James; and that goes down to the root of the business, for my worrying reader, and all the rest of us.

James knew what he was talking about, too. Not only as a psychologist, but as a man who got tied up in knots, and actually wanted to put an end to it. He was all mixed up.

In despair, he threw himself upon whatever is Divine in life, and let go his little feverish, convulsive, anxious ego—with the result that he became a radiantly happy man.

In other words, he ceased to be a self-centered soul; the center of gravity was shifted. Deep down in him he learned to trust One wiser than himself, and he found a new peace.

No cure for worry can be effective which does not deal radically with the self which bulks too large in all of us. It needs to be put in its place and kept there for keeps.

MOCK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE.

We do not always have time to make the real Hollandaise sauce, as it must be made carefully to be good. This sauce will take its place nicely in an emergency: Pour one cup of white sauce onto two beaten egg yolks, beating constantly. Add two tablespoons of butter and very slowly two tablespoons lemon juice. Cook just a minute and serve immediately.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

By Ripley

When Charles Buellis was only 10 years old, he developed a strong case for drawing and painting, particularly fine miniatures. When he enlisted in the navy that taste found expression in carving tiny objects in competition with his mates. Buellis' ambition in life was always to see how small he could make his objects. Just recently, he finished this smallest art object known to man—statue bust of George Washington, carved from a mere speck of dust. He crushed a grain of rice to a powder dust, then selected a speck from the powder and went to work. The job took him eight months to complete—perfect in every detail and polished with cameo-like precision.

POLICE KILLINGS IN STEEL STRIKE HELD JUSTIFIED AT CHICAGO INQUEST

WEEK'S HEARING ENDS IN WRANGLE

C I O Counsel Challenges Impartiality of Prosecutor and Says "We'll Save Our Evidence for the Trial."

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CRIMINAL COURT, Chicago, July 20.—It took a Cook County Coroner's jury just 55 minutes this afternoon to decide that the 10 persons who were killed on the prairie outside the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel Co., on Memorial day were the victims of justifiable homicide at the hands of unknown policemen.

Except for the name of the victim and the description of the wound that caused his death, identical verdicts were returned in each of the 10 cases. A sample verdict:

"The jury finds that Kenneth Reed died of a bullet wound in the abdomen caused when struck by a bullet fired from a gun held in the hands of unknown police officers during a riot which started when a large number of strikers and strike sympathizers, numbering approximately 1500 to 2000 persons, and many of whom were carrying clubs or missiles, attempted to force their way through a police line apparently intending to enter the plant of the Republic Steel Corporation located in South Chicago.

"This occurrence took place on May 30, 1937, about 4:30 p. m. From the testimony presented, we, the jury, believe this occurrence to be justifiable homicide."

Each of the verdicts was read by Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen. And at the end of each, he turned to the six jurors and asked: "Gentlemen, is this your verdict?"

"It is," was the answer in each case.

CIO Lawyer's Comment.

When the last one had been read, Thurlow G. Lewis, United Mine Workers' lawyer and chief of the CIO legal staff at the inquest, remarked: "Well, Chicago still looks on this affair with different eyes than the rest of the world."

Representatives of the State's Attorney's office had left the inquest chamber long before, apparently taking the verdict for granted.

The inquest lasted just one week, the first session having been held last Wednesday. The jury retired at 2:20 p. m., after representatives of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee refused to call a single witness.

"The State's Attorney already has us under arrest and indictment," asserted Lewis, "and if he thinks he is going to trick us into revealing any evidence, he is sadly mistaken. We shall save our witnesses for the trial—if there is to be one."

Lawyers in Sharp Exchange.

The close of the inquest was marked by another of the bitter exchanges between representatives of the State's Attorney's office and the C I O lawyers that have marked the whole week of the proceedings.

David Bentall, one of the union's legal staff, had just arisen to make what seemed to be a brief closing statement, when Malachi Coghlan, Assistant State's Attorney, shouted his protest that such a proceeding was contrary to law and that if Bentall, whom he accused of napping during yesterday's session, were permitted to go on, he could demand the same privilege. Both Bentall and Lewis did go on.

"The evidence so far is that 10 persons were killed and 40 were shot," said Bentall. "It seems to me that in view of the fact that there is evidence here that so many persons were shot, and since there are reports as to who fired these shots, they should be available to the Coroner."

He also demanded that the Coroner obtain as evidence some of the sticks the police were said to have carried in addition to their regulation batons. The patrolmen who were called, he said, knew nothing as to who killed a single
